Bond issue to fund water and sewer expansion

*Antioch seeking $5 million bond issue for eastside line expansion*By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Water and sewer are coming. That is the word from the Antioch Village Board as steps begin for a bond issue to run lines to the village's east side.

The board authorized putting together bond bid specifications for an estimated $5 million bond proposal. This followed a recommendation by Village Manager Tim Wells and others.

The water line would extend along Route 173, basically from the Lyons & Ryan dealership, east to Savage Road. The line will turn south on Savage to White Road.

The sewer line would run west from Route 45 to Savage Road, then turn north to Route 173.

Plans are to have the lines installed and on-line by December of 2000. Wells indicated they might be up and running as early as October or November.

"These are just main transmission lines," Wells emphasized. "It's advantageous for the village to have the control on the hookups."

"They're funding the transmission lines," Wells stressed. "These have nothing to do with the internal infrastructure improvements they will have to make."

Harold Warren of Warren & Associates, consultant to the village regarding the project, said, "We've worked out several financing plans. The main approach is to protect the village."

The $5 million figure is being used despite projected costs of $4 million coming from engineers. Wells explained that going with the higher amount helps expedite the process. It eliminates coming back to the board if the cost surpasses the engineer projections. It will save going out for bonds again.

"This is something we've been dealing with the last two years," Wells explained. "There's been two major issues involved. One is knowing development was going to be coming out east and how are we going to get the infrastructure out there. The second is we didn't want current (village) users to pay for it."

The result is a special assessment which is being placed on the existing planned unit developments. S&S Properties and Otto Sprenger/Deercreek Partners are the two owners of a planned 1,825 units to be built on the village's east side.

The estimated cost is being

Rain can't douse excitement over new fire station

Correspondent

Water is usually a firefighter's friend because it helps in putting out fires. On Sunday, Oct. 3, water in the form of rain put a bit of a damper on some of the activities planned for the dedication ceremonies for the Antioch Fire Department and First Fire District Station No. 2 at 700 Deep Lake Road in Antioch.

A Flight for Life helicopter had to cancel, and some of the outdoor fire

But the Lake County Community Band played on.

Dignitaries, politicians, citizens, firefighters, family members and friends darted in from the downpour for cake, cookies, punch and coffee, and momentos like t-shirts, pop-can coolers, pencils and safety information that touted support for the Antioch Fire Department. They came

Timber Lake Park to close next fall

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

The holiday lights flickering through the trees may be a sight of the past.

Timber Lake Park, a long standing fixture at the southwest corner of Routes 173 and 45, will be closing following next camping season.

The official announcement came from property owner Kenneth J. Glick during an annexation public hearing before the Antioch village board Oct. 4.

Site leasees, numbering about 40, were in attendance. Glick met with them away from the Village Board chambers following the hearing.

"They're disappointed," Glick admits. "The park has been there a long time and we've owned it for 27 years. Some of these people have been there since even before we had it."

"At the present time, the tenants will have all of next year," Glick said during the hearing, drawing rumbles from the packed council chambers. "I have no intention of keeping the park open after next year. The

*Antioch Township High School classes of '48 and '49 return for long-awaited reunion 50 years later*By LYNN GUNNARSON DAHLSTROM
Correspondent

While some present-day high school students can't wait to graduate and get out of town, members of the Antioch Township High School Classes of 1948 and 1949 couldn't wait to come back to Antioch for their high school reunion.

Some live nearby so their trip to the reunion was short. Others traveled from faraway places like Florida, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Washington, Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Verna Holem of Antioch, one of the reunion committee members, said the reunion planning and organizing efforts were "Almost like giving childbirth: painful and fun, both. We sent out more than 60 letters. There was a lot of great planning that went on. Everyone came up with ideas."

I've enjoyed the whole (reunion) experience. It was amazing to find out what everyone did with their lives and where they've lived'

Lou Crawford
member of Class of '48

Even though 1999 is the Class of 1949's 50th reunion year, the Class of 1948 was included too because, "There were a lot of intermarriages between classes, both classes were small and close knit, and anytime we've had a reunion, it has involved both classes," said Holem.

On Friday, Oct. 1, members of the Classes of '48 and '49 and their spouses, gathered at the Best Western Hotel on Route 173 for an icebreaker.

Holem said, "It surprised me that so many people showed up. We had 60 to 70 people at Friday's icebreaker."

The next morning during the Antioch High School 1999 Homecoming Parade, several people from both classes dressed up in Native American-looking garb and braved the cold to ride on or walk near a special dual-class float. The float was pulled by a beautifully-maintained CASE tractor driven by

Developers given notice to comply

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Comply or no approval.

That is the stand of the Antioch Village Board toward developers.

Final plats for Landmark Pointe and Depot Landing subdivisions have been continued to the Oct. 18 meeting.

Village Attorney Kenneth Clark requested the holding at the Oct. 4 meeting. Clark's move followed developers failure to provide necessary articles of incorporation for the respective subdivision homeowners associations.

Clark noted both parties have been informed of the need for the legal documents. Neither has submitted them.

Bob Silhan, village director of planning, zoning and building, said he does not see any pressing need to pass the final plats at this time.

"Not a lot can proceed at this time, because of IEPA (Illinois Environmental Protection Agency) permits," Silhan explains. "With the turnaround time needed for those permits, bringing either one of these issues up in two weeks won't delay progress on the projects."

"We can't issue utility permits until the IEPA permits are received," Silhan added.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug agreed to go along with the recommendation of Silhan and Clark, holding the passage of the plats until requested documents are received.

'Hurting?' Don't know why? Come to Oct. 17 free lecture

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Are you hurting?
Don't know why?

Come to a free lecture "Healing The Hurt" at 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 17 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Route 173 and Harden Street, in Antioch.

Cynthia Neely will be presenting the talk in response to the current trend of public interest in how spirituality brings healing to broken relationships, low self-esteem and to an inability to forgive.

Mary Baker Eddy and her book "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" will be one of the main focuses of Neely's presentation.

"It is a book that will help you find spiritual solutions to the challenges that face each of us every day," says Neely, adding, "including parenting and relationship problems, lack of equality in the workplace, issues surrounding the mind/body connection, poor health and troubled finances."

Science and Health, written over 120 years ago, was chosen by the Women's National Book Association as "one of 75 books by women whose words have changed the world."

"Everyone wants to feel loved, including our children," says Neely. "This lecture will show how it is possible to discover our true inheritance, how we can claim our birthright as the sons and daughters of God. True forgiveness comes from understanding—from within—and that is where we discover our ability to be set free from the hurt, and to love."

Adding her own healing and regeneration within her life experience will be highlighted by Neely. Showing how this is possible within anyone's life is to be covered.

Copies of the book will be available at the lecture and in the Christian Science Reading Room, downstairs of the Church. For information, phone 395-1685 or 395-1196.

Cynthia Neely will address 'Healing The Hurt' in a free lecture at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Route 173 and Harden Street, in Antioch at 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 17.—Submitted photo

College Night coming to Antioch High Oct. 18

College comes to Antioch.

The Antioch Community High School (ACHS) Guidance Department will conduct the annual College Night Monday, Oct. 18.

Nearly 100 colleges and universities from across the midwest have scheduled to have representatives in attendance.

The representatives will be available 7-8:30 p.m. in the main north gym of the school.

Students are encouraged to attend this informative evening with their parents. Those attending are recommended to arrive no earlier than 7 p.m.—By Michael H. Babicz

Rotary auction-dinner raises over $50,000

President Tabar 'babysitting'

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Antioch Rotary President Matt Tabar will be busy on January 2, 2000.

Thanks to his "friends" from Rotary, Matt's services as a child care provider were auctioned off at the annual Rotary Club Auction-Pork Barbecue Dinner. Fellow Rotarian Kevin Lyons had the winning $400 bid.

Tabar will be watching the Lyons children on Jan. 2, with the exact times and itinerary for the day to be determined.

The Tabar surprise auction item was one of many which resulted in more than $50,000 being raised for the Antioch Rotary Club.

"Not all of the numbers are in, but it was another highly successful auction with a lot of support from area businesses and the community," Tabar said. "It was a great success."

Tabar was able to save his golf clubs from being auctioned. "I found my golf clubs which had been taken from my car by some fun loving Rotarians before they hit the auction block," Tabar said with a laugh.

Among the items auctioned off were trips to Maui in Hawaii, New Zealand and Australia.

Winner of the 2000 Harley-Davidson Motorcycle was a 5th grade student at Emmons School whose mother purchased the ticket for him. Robert Federico of Antioch will have to wait a while before he is able to use his new motorcycle.

The $500 travel voucher was won by Pat Swager of Zion who was attending with State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion).

The anonymous 50/50 raffle winner took home $930 with the club making $930.

Glen Harris, the assistant state governor for Rotary, bid a pork chop dinner for ten to $2,000.

"There were a lot of great items and the evening was a lot of fun," concluded Tabar.

The Rotary Club uses its funds for various civic and community organizations and causes.

Antioch Rotary Club has received a $2,500 award from the Rotary of Illinois. The funds will be used along with Antioch's funds toward providing audio-visual equipment for a soup kitchen/vocational educational center in the Philippines.

Rotary Club auction a huge success

The Antioch Rotary Club's auction and pork dinner was a huge success. Congrats to all who helped raise over $50,000!

Seems Matt Tabar, Rotary president and Emmons School superintendent, will be spending Sunday, Jan. 2, 2000 baby-sitting members of the Kevin Lyons family. Lyons bid $400 for Tabar's child care services.

"I don't know what we'll be doing yet, but I'll be watching the kids that day," said Tabar.

Seems it was somewhat of a trade off for Tabar. Some unknown "thieves" managed to get his golf clubs from his car and were preparing to auction them off. Tabar found the evidence and returned the clubs safely before he ended up bidding on them himself.

OUR TOWN

Michael H. Babicz

Best wishes to Vivian Tauscheck. Vivian "retired" from the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry staff at the end of September.

This followed 14 years of service. Vivian began as a "once a week volunteer." She became the Chamber's first full time hired employee.

A trip to California is in the near future. Hopefully, for the good of the Antioch community, one of its best citizens will decide to remain in the area.

Seems the heavy rains failed to dampen spirits at the groundbreaking for the new elementary school. Despite the wet weather and muddy surface, the ceremonial shoveling took place on the afternoon of Oct. 3 at the school site, Depot St. and Deep Lake Road, just north of the new fire station.

Earth moving work will continue as long as weather permits. Construction is to continue through next year. Opening of the new building is expected in the fall of 2000.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Mike Babicz at 223-8161, ext. 138 or e-mail, edit@lnd.com."

Antioch Pee Wee football team, team No. 1 takes down a runner for the No. 2 team.

Heart and soul

The Antioch Pee Wees played with gusto Oct. 2 as they battled on the gridiron.

The game was the culmination of a homecoming celebration for the 9 and 10-year-old players.

With their own cheer-leading squad, spectators were in the spirit as they cheered for their favorite Antioch team.

Team No. 2 won by a score of 18-7. All the Antioch teams were eligible to participate in the homecoming parade, though these two teams were scheduled to play at that time.

MEMORIES: Classes of '48 and '49 reunite

Bob Scott (49 senior class president) of Trevor, Wisconsin. The tractor was used by Scott's father on their family farm.

Standing tall on the float and dressed as a proud Indian chief was Class of '48's Lou Crawford, of Antioch. He said, "I loved high school. I played football in the fall of 1947. We lost every game but it was still fun. The school only had about 370 kids then. It was a nice time."

He added, "I've lived in Antioch all my life. I've enjoyed the whole (reunion) experience. It was amazing to find out what everyone did with their lives and where they've lived. It has been fun to see all these people I haven't seen in 50 years."

After activities around Antioch, class members, spouses and friends gathered Saturday evening at an elegantly-decorated Antioch Country Club for a beautiful buffet dinner.

Class members entering the Country Club were given a name tag featuring their black and white senior picture. Organizers also distributed a well-prepared reunion booklet filled with individual yearbook photos, old facts and figures, a listing of class members who have passed away, and updates on what class members have done in the last 50 years.

with their families, children, and grandchildren.

Class of 1948's senior class president Amos Presley Bratrude, came back from Omak, Washington where he is a Family Practice doctor, to serve as Master of Ceremonies for Saturday night's event.

He said, "It has been interesting to be back. I'm amazed at how good everyone looks, especially since they're 68 and 69 year-old folks."

Bratrude said, "We moved to Antioch when I was six years old. It was much smaller then. It was a fun place to grow up."

He said that he's noticed the change and growth in the community since he was back in Antioch for his 25th class reunion.

BOND: $5 million bond issue sought for water and sewer expansion on village's eastside divided among the units. This results in an assessment of $2,500 per unit. It is payable over 10 years at $250 per year. This assessment is collected regardless if the property is built upon or not.

When a builder comes in for a building permit, the balance of the $2,500 will be required to be paid up front prior to the permit being issued.

"The developers will pay for all of the lines within their own development," Mayor Marilyn Shineflug points out.

"Authorizing the ordinance doesn't commit to the bonds," Warren said. "It establishes a ceiling of a maximum amount for the bonds."

There will be a recapture agreement contained in the bond wording. This will authorize the developers to receive some of their money back should additional users be allowed to hook into the main lines.

"It does call for a fair recapture fee which is typical of any recapture agreement," Wells said.

Representatives from the two landowners, Wells and other village officials, Warren and bond counsel representatives from Chapman and Kutler of Chicago met Oct. 7 to go over the agreement. The agreement is expected to come before the board Oct. 18.

"The greatest thing is the present water users will not pay anymore," added Trustee Ronald Cunningham. "The new developers will pay for it."

"I thank the administration, Tim Wells, Bob Silhan, Harold Warren, John Boldt, the Sprenger and S&S people who have worked very hard and been very patient through a most complicated process and come through with an agreement," Shineflug concluded. "It's good for the village and for all concerned."

PARK: Timber Lake Park to close after next camping season tenants will get that in writing with their lease."

Following suggestions by board members and Glick's willingness, the tenants in attendance met with Glick in an adjoining room to air their frustration.

Since Glick's family took over the 76 acres in 1972, Glick maintains the persons having trailers there always have had one year leases. Glick decided to give them until the end of next camping season, the fall of 2000, to find alternative sites to move their trailers. Prior to Glick's purchase, it was a trailer park since the early 1950s.

"There is certain to be disappointments," Glick admits following his meeting with park tenants. "An era is ending."

As for the future of the site, Glick sees development coming in. "I'm not a developer," Glick explains. "Our group may become part of a joint venture with another group, but it's a whole year before we'll do anything."

The future of the property is "no longer feasible to maintain as a trailer park," according to Glick. In the past, the area was rural. Now, Glick sees it become more developed with various housing projects coming in. Abbott Laboratories owns a considerable amount of property on the east side of Route 45, across from the trailer park, which is earmarked for the company's headquarters campus.

"The whole area has changed," Glick concludes. "It's no longer its highest return and best use as a camp ground."

The village board agreed during its regular meeting to have Village Attorney Ken Clark draw up an annexation agreement for the Glick property. An addition made by the board is to have a "agreed upon annexation agreement" included. The agreement would have to be acceptable to both the village and the Glicks.

In addition to the Glick land, a similar request to annex 4.3 acres of the Doolittle property located on the northwest shores of Timber Lake has been made to the village. A public hearing on that particular request was held just prior to the Glick hearing.

Doolittles have granted an easement to Lake County allowing the running of a sewer line through their property.

Both properties would come into Antioch zoned agricultural. The sewer line scheduled to come through is part of the Northwest Lake County Sanitary District.

"We have no plans for development at this time," Glick revealed. "That's why we're asking for the agricultural zoning."

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug explained to the audience "it is protection for the village to leave it agricultural. It will require a detailed plan to approve any residential zoning for the property. No such plan is available at this time."

STATION: Dedication goes on despite inclement weather to tour the new station.

And they came to honor Tod Mapletorpe, Antioch's Honorary Fire Chief who joined the Fire Department back in 1946. He progressed through the ranks to Fire Chief in 1966, a position he held for 22 years.

Because of his service and because he's respected and well-liked by so many in the community, Fire Station #2 was dedicated in his honor.

Tod's wife, Carol Mapletorpe said, "The facility is beautiful. It's very well-planned. It can take care of the Village's needs for quite a while."

She was also very proud of her husband and the fact that the building is dedicated to him. "I'm very proud of him," she said. "He's contributed a lot to the department over the years."

Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug recognized the Little family for their donation of the property where the new station sits. Shineflug also commended the voters for passing a referendum in March of 1998 that allowed the station to be built. She also commended the firefighters and the First Fire Protection District Board for their hard work.

"This station is another example of the successful partnership between the Village and the Fire Protection District," said Shineflug.

Antioch Fire Department's Chief, Dennis Volling said, "Tod Mapletorpe is respected and admired. There's not a thing he wouldn't do for the department. It gives me pride to dedicate this building to him."

The first thing that Tod Mapletorpe did when he began his remarks was to thank his wife Carol for her support of his involvement with the Fire Department over the years. An obviously touched Mapletorpe said, "The Fire Department has been my life after my family. Probably at times, they didn't believe that. But I thank my family for allowing me to do this."

Mapletorpe said that he's enjoyed his work, "For the most part. I appreciate the Board's dedicating the station to me. I hope you use it well."

Scout Troop 92 prepares for great spaghetti feast Oct. 17

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

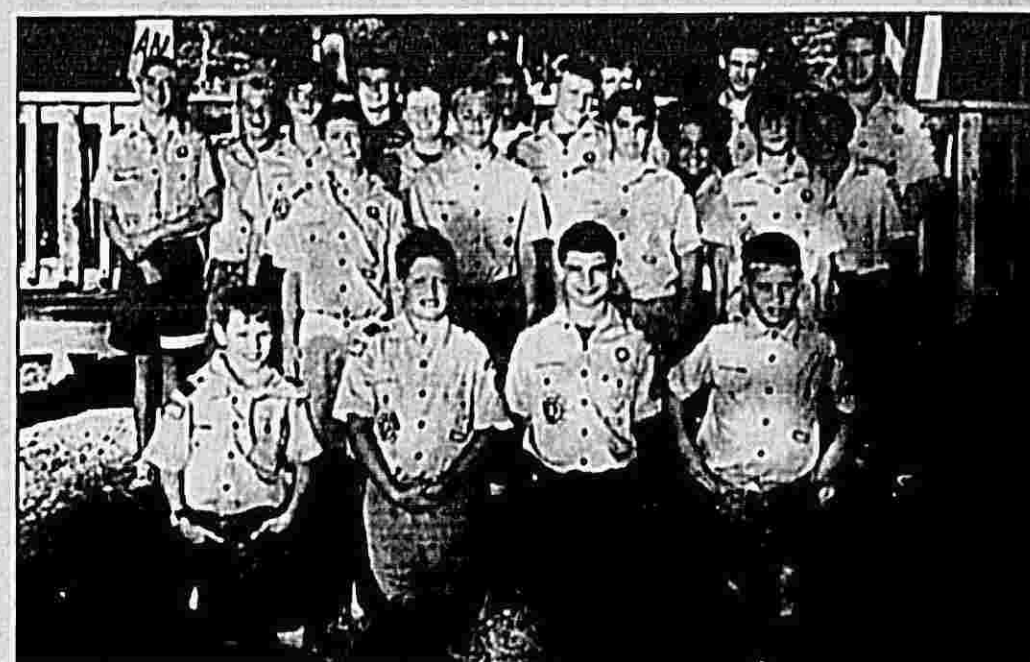

Break out the bibs and napkins. The Antioch Boy Scout Troop 92's annual spaghetti dinner will be from noon to 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 17. Dinner will be served at the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge #525, three miles west from downtown Antioch and Route 59 on Route 173.

"Our famous spaghetti is simmering in its own special spicy sauce getting ready," said Wayne Veach, Scoutmaster. "Our secret recipe meatballs will highlight the dish for the 39th consecutive year."

This is the only major fund raiser conducted by Troop 92. Proceeds from the dinner are used to assist in providing activities and learning experiences for the Scouts for the entire year to come, according to Veach.

"The boys need your help now more than ever before," said Harold W. Clark, Chartered Organization Representative for the Moose Lodge.

The dinner offers business owners two ways to support the cause. One is to make a gift-prize donation. The prize drawings and special raffle drawings will be held throughout the afternoon with business owners receiving constant publicity, Veach Antioch Boy Scout Troop 92 plans its annual spaghetti dinner fund raiser Saturday, Oct. 17. The 39th consecutive year of the event will be held noon to 7 p.m. at Antioch Moose Lodge #525, three miles west of Route 59 on Route 173 in Antioch. Tickets at $4.75 each may be purchased in advance or at the door. Phone Chuck Wirth, 395-9270 for information.—Submitted photo by Scout Troop 92.

and Clark jointly explained.

The second way is by purchasing dinner tickets. In addition to attending with family and friends, Veach and Clark recommend business owners purchase tickets for employees, clients or others with whom they do business.

Ticket donations are $4.75 per person with children under age 5 eating free.

"These are two great ways to be tax resistant," Veach said. "Dare to be hungry. Come join us."

Persons wishing to purchase tickets in advance, or having prizes to donate, should contact Chuck Wirth at 395-9270.

Try your hand at Jaycee's Casino Night

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Get your lucky horseshoes out. Make sure to know when to hold 'em, and know when to fold 'em. It is time for the Antioch Jaycees Casino Night.

The Tower Room located within Antioch Bowling Lanes will be the site of the fund-raiser on Saturday, Oct. 9. Legal gambling will be allowed 8 p.m.-1 a.m.

There is no admission fee. Games feature primarily blackjack. Poker, roulette, craps and a money wheel will be available.

The evening includes various raffles. Prizes include two season passes to P.M.&L. Theatre in Antioch, $50 worth of cleaning services from Mars Cleaning Service of Antioch, various restaurant certificates and other items.

A 50/50 raffle will be held with cash prizes.

Proceeds benefit the projects of the Antioch Jaycees. Scholarships for handicapped children to attend summer camp and the Christmas Wish program for underprivileged children are two of the main projects the Jaycees are involved in.

The Jaycees meet monthly on the last Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Sandbar Restaurant.

Persons ages 21-39 are encouraged to join the organization. Questions regarding membership, the casino night or other Jaycee projects can phone Donna Bergl 838-1045.

CLC helps develop new virtual campus

Online catalog lists educational opportunities

The College of Lake County board of trustees viewed a demonstration of the new Illinois Virtual Campus (IVC), an online catalog of services and distance education opportunities offered by more than 70 community colleges and universities. CLC was one of three community colleges that worked with the University of Illinois at Urbana to develop the concept for the new initiative.

The IVC is an alternative education concept sponsored by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) and managed by the University of Illinois at Urbana with funds from the Higher Education Cooperation Act grant. An Internet initiative, the IVC consists of an online catalog that currently lists 16 certificates, three bachelor's degrees and 12 master's degrees. Student support services, including testing, advisement, financial aid, technical support and library resources are also a part of the IVC, provided by 15 of the partner institutions, including CLC. The IVC can be accessed on the Internet at <http://www.ive.illinois.edu>.

In her report to the board, CLC President Gretchen Naff announced that the college will hold an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. on Oct. 10 to dedicate the newly expanded Southlake Educational Center in Vernon Hills. During trustee reports, trustee Barbara Oilschlager announced that the Lake County Education-to-Careers Partnership will sponsor a leadership luncheon on Oct. 21. Dr. Richard Judy, director of the Hudson Center for Workforce Development and author of "Workforce 2020" will speak at 12:30 p.m. on the Grayslake Campus. Reservations for the luncheon can be made by calling 543-6681.

In other action, the board accepted several state and private grants. Among them is a grant for $240,000 from the Illinois Community College Board to provide short-term training in various allied health career fields for 100 unemployed and underemployed individuals and welfare recipients. Also accepted were three grants totaling $8,150 from the Illinois Arts Council to support a gallery exhibit, a theater performance and the college's literary magazine "Willow Review." Other grants included $7,625 from the Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board for emergency medical dispatch training; $13,000 from the National Science Foundation for enhancements to the chemistry curriculum; and $10,000 from the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs for business and industry training relating to new technology and productivity improvement.

In other action, the board accepted the fiscal year 1999 audit report from PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP, a Chicago-based accounting firm. Peter Krupczak, vice president for administrative affairs, said the audit report indicates that the college's financial position is solid, reflecting good management practices. The board approved the audit report and authorized the administration to file the audit with the Illinois Community College Board and appropriate federal agencies.

In personnel matters, the board approved the appointment of Karen Hlavin of Lake Forest as director of admissions and records. She brings to CLC nearly 10 years of experience in admissions, student, alumni and career services at Keller Graduate School of Management. She holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Arizona State University in Tempe and a master's degree in business administration from Keller Graduate School of Management of Phoenix, Ariz. She will assume her duties on Oct. 11.

Acapulco - The Jewel of The Mexican Riviera Shines Again

by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

The last time I visited Acapulco was in the late '60s. Why had I stayed away so long?

The word was that this once home to the world's jet-setters had fallen on hard times. More so, the proliferation of over zealous beach vendors and the even more present "time-share" sales people put Acapulco way down on my list for a relaxing vacation.

For the last couple of years the Acapulco tourist office has been encouraging me to come back to Acapulco. They claim the beach vendors had been moved to designated markets and the time-share people can only sell from assigned booths. Even the pollution problems of the bay were a thing of the past.

This last weekend I decided to see for myself. Let me first add that Acapulco is not for everyone. If you want shiny new hotels and familiar American restaurants, try the fresh young resort of Cancun. Acapulco is a classy old lady, but she shows her age.

Acapulco does have her share of newer hotels. You'll find them on the south end of the bay beginning with the Fiesta Americana, the Diamante area on Puerto Marques Bay, (try the Camino Real) and then there's the famed Acapulco Princess closer to the airport.

I stayed at Las Brisas, another famous resort set high in the mountains overlooking Acapulco Bay. With a private pool, a view of the bay and a ban on TVs and radios, this was my kind of place. I'll have more to say about Las Brisas in a future article.

Vendors have, indeed, been moved off the beaches and into the markets. The time-share hawkers have to stay in their booths, all of which allows for a relaxing day on the beach with only the sound of the waves to disturb you.

One thing that hasn't changed is Acapulco's nightlife. Again, this is not Cancun. Casual attire is confined to the beach. People here dress up to go out at night. Besides, you never know what movie star or world leader you may run into at one of Acapulco's world famous discos, such as Baby O's or the Palladium.

Some may still find Acapulco a little run down. Others may be put off that all cab drivers may not speak English (as if that's not the case in Chicago). But I found Acapulco to be just what she is—an old Mexican seaside resort that may tidy up a little for visitors, but isn't going to change her personality for anyone.

For all those happy campers

My views on camping are somewhat slanted—I feel it is an unneeded activity much like underwater basket weaving. The great outdoors are wonderful. It is a great place to play ball, take a walk, and even roast marshmallows over a roaring fire. But when it comes to eating, sleeping and bathing there is nothing like Hotel Sweet Hotel.

As a young girl I used to watch my mom eat yogurt, but try as I may, I could never acquire the taste for it. Each attempt at camping has left the same void in me. Even though the weather has been ideal, the conditions absolutely perfect, and the facilities impeccable, there is just no great love for the outdoor activity in my DNA.

A friend once said camping to her was staying at Motel 6 and not getting the complimentary shampoo. My thoughts exactly. All my relatives, even my hotel-dedicated sister, have jumped on the bandwagon with this latest phenomenon. Now for my relatives, who live in Chicago, I can see the need to escape the drive-by shootings and grueling city life in nature's tranquillity, even if it means boiling water to wash your dishes and using less than desirable bathroom facilities.

It just seems like too much

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

work. Not only do you have to haul your cargo to the campground, you have to finagle the camper the size of the Queen Mary into a designated spot the size of a 33-cent postage stamp. You have to hook up the water, electric and holding tank lines while racing the fast approaching darkening evening sky. You still have to cook, clean and drag every utensil, pot and pan from your kitchen to prepare even the simplest meals.

If the Pringles were camping gurus we would be eating an awful lot of cereal—which leaves you the dilemma of buying ice every three hours to keep your perishable items, such as milk, cold and spoil-free. Let's not even get into the not always ideal weather conditions, along with bugs and other roaming critters of the night. Now the members of our family tree do have some of the amenities you would find in your normal household, such as air-conditioning, heat, water and the ever popular TV/VCR combination set, but if you need all that, why not either stay home or make reservations at the nearest Holiday Inn? I just don't get it.

Now I love these family outings, and they so much want us to buy a camper so we too can gather in their little circle around their happy campfire, but it's just not going to happen. Our kids are thoroughly disappointed even though we have graciously furnished them with sleeping bags, flash lights, kerosene lanterns, roasting forks and portable lawn chairs.

The family has accepted our reluctance, so now to accommodate this slightly hanging branch of the family tree, they only select campgrounds which are in close proximity to Holiday Inns. This allows us to enjoy their evening campfires, complete with s'mores, and this allows them the use of the hotels facilities such as clean, hot showers; full service restaurants; and the heated indoor swimming pool. So while the other family members wander along dark roads in the middle of the night in search of the outhouse, I'll lounge in my climate controlled hotel room, watching cable, while waiting for my room service order to arrive.

Mr./Mrs. Ralph Gussarson

Ralph and Ruthella Gussarson of Antioch celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary at a reception given by their children and spouses for many relatives and friends at the Antioch Moose Lodge.

The couple were married Oct. 8, 1949 at the Antioch Methodist Church with the Rev. Richard Tuttle presiding.

Rev. Tuttle now resides in the State of Washington, but was unable to attend due to other plans.

Mabel Lou Weber was the organist at their wedding and also furnished the music as the couple renewed their vows, with Rev. Doris Jean Scott, sister of the bride, from Clearwater, Fla.

The couple are the parents of five children, Luann (Alfred) Ultes, Alan (Caryn) and Daryl, all of Antioch; Bruce of Bensonville and Joan (Troy) Shea of Temple, Ariz.

They have nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren, also united into the family, by marriages, three more grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The couple are known to many as "mom and dad" or "grandma and grandpa".

Come and take a shot!

Looking for some fun and excitement of a different variety this weekend? Well, the Sixth Annual Illinois Ladies Shotgun Classic will be taking place this Saturday at The Northbrook Sports Club next to Campbell Airport off Alleghany Rd. in Grayslake.

The event will begin with registration at 8 a.m., followed by the competition, which begins at 9 and will last roughly until noon.

"The turnout is a little lower than from in the past, but we're still happy with the response we've gotten from the community," said Catherine Galvin, Chairperson of the Illinois Committee of the Women's Shooting Sports Foundation.

Galvin went on to say that the event changed venues this year. In previous years, it was held in Central Illinois.

The Illinois Ladies Shotgun Classic brings together women of all skill levels to compete for trophies and prizes valued in excess of $3,500. Prizes include a Remington 1187 sporting clays shotgun and a Ruger rifle.

The Lewis class system will be utilized in the scoring. It is a system that ranks shooters, so the beginners are only competing against other beginning shooters and the more advanced competitors compete against one another.

"The name of the game is having fun and we want this to be a positive experience that keeps the ladies coming back for more," said WSSF Executive Director Shari LeGate, who is also a member of the U.S. Shooting Team and former national trap shooting champion.

On Sunday, numerous male-female teams will compete in the WSSF's 100 target Couples Cup Classic sporting clays tournament. The Lewis scoring system will again be used, with trophies going to both the top teams. Furthermore, one lucky couple will win a pair of 12 & 20-gauge Browning shotguns.

Galvin said competitors come from all over the Midwest, primarily Wisconsin and Indiana.

Registration for the Ladies Classic is $50 for WSSF members and $75 for non-members, which includes a one-year WSSF membership, as well as the tournament entry fee. Registration for the couples event is $90 per team. Ammunition and ear protection will be provided for all participants and loaner shotguns will also be available upon request.

Lessons will also be available by Cathy and Roger Gascoigne, a CPSA certified instructor, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

For further information or to register, contact Catherine Galvin at (630) 629-1990 or e-mail call163@cs.com.

This girl is one tough cookie!

By JANNAN J. KHURI
Correspondent

Yvette Bujak, a senior at Antioch High School, has been making a name for herself in the sport of Judo since the age of 12.

Over the years, Bujak has had to overcome some cracked ribs and a reoccurring injury to her shoulder, but has persevered and hopes to move to the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. after graduating next spring.

Bujak, age 17, said her father Jerry wanted her to get into some kind of sport and had her sights set on kickboxing, but instead wound up started her training at the Kano Judo Club.

Bujak is a former champion of Poland and a bronze medal winner in the European Champion in Greco-Roman wrestling. It may be true when they say that the apple doesn't fall far from the tree when one considers that Judo is a very similar sport to wrestling.

Bujak, who competes in the 48.0 kilograms, or the 109-pound weight class, said that participating in Judo has helped her in other areas of her life and that she used to hang around with the wrong crowd and in contrast to her life before, now sets goals for herself and her future.

Her next competition will be Oct. 22 at the U.S. Open in Colorado Springs. The ensuing week she will be competing in another international competition in Montreal, Canada.

In the U.S. she's ranked third in her weight division and said in Judo the participants are ranked according to their weight and the points they accumulate in competition. The competitors get a full point when pinning their opponent on their back and get a full point when their opponent passes out or taps out. Passing out can be in literal terms due to a choke hold or the opponent saying that they give up. A pin in a Judo match according to Bujak has to be held for 30 seconds in order to gain points.

Bujak said she trains three times a week for two hours and when not training for Judo, works at a jewelry store in Gurnee Mills. In school, she is a B-C student and said she would like to get a college degree in Psychiatry, Sports Medicine, or Veterinary Medicine.

Some of her friends have gone to see her compete and due to her petite, size they can't believe she has the ability to do some of the moves she executes to win.

Since beginning Judo, Bujak has progressed from starting out as a white belt, made her way through the ranks of yellow, orange, green, and blue to her current belt rank of second degree brown belt. As part of her training she has learned the names of the throws she used during competitions in the native Japanese language as well as counting to 10.

When competing or getting ready to compete, Bujak said, "I try to keep positive, not negative." Bujak added that she watches her upcoming opponents in some previous matches and tries to concentrate and stay positive.

Bujak said the sport of Judo has more male competitors than female but the number of females competing in her division has grown since she first began.

Bujak has noticed as far as the male sparring partners are concerned, she said she sometimes underestimates her abilities but most of them know how good she is.

"The guys at my club, the ones that are closer to my size, 120 to 130 pounds, I usually beat," said Bujak.

The males Bujak said she spars with in the heavier weight divisions are tougher to beat.

Bujak said if there was a young woman considering getting into Judo that she would tell them to keep positive, work hard and set goals. All seem to be winning components to being successful in the sport of Judo.

Sequoits second half dooms Mundelein

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

They always say that the opening minutes of the second half can pretty much dictate the tone for the rest of the game.

Well, the Antioch Sequoit varsity football team worked that theory to perfection last weekend as the hosts broke open a close contest in the second half en route to a 28-12 Homecoming victory over Mundelein in the North Suburban.

Ahead 7-6 at the intermission, Antioch (4-2, 3-1) marched 56 yards in nine plays on the opening kickoff of the second half, culminating with a Mark Purnell 1-yard touchdown run with 6:48 left in the third quarter.

Purnell, who finished the game with 60 yards on nine carries, then added his second touchdown two minutes later on a 13-yard run as the Sequoits built a 21-6 advantage.

"We always start slow so it was nice to have a long sustained drive to open the second half," said quarterback Don Lackey. "We did a good job of keeping up the intensity and setting the tone."

Lackey completed 10-of-24 passes for 124 yards, including a 28-yard touchdown strike to Eric White in the corner of the endzone in the fourth quarter for the game's final score.

"They were blitzing on our 90 series (or 5-yard passing patterns)," said White. "So we went deep because the safety's were playing the run and it payed off."

White, one of the area's leading receivers, finished with 90 yards on five catches.

Adam Niles, who rushed for a game-high 112 yards on 30 carries, accounted for the Sequoits first touchdown, a 1-yard run in the second quarter.

But Mundelein came right back when Josh Gruenwald rumbled in from seven yards out, cutting the lead to 7-6 before the break.

Hodges was hurried all afternoon by the Sequoit defense. Scott Hodina intercepted a Hodges pass, while Conrad Adkins and Kris Vanderkooy shared on a sack of the senior signal-caller. Hodges finished with 91 yards on 3-for-11 passing.

Antioch plays host to Lake Forest this Saturday in a 1 p.m. affair.

Lady Sequoit golfers eighth in Champaign

Sports Editor

Sara Groh finished tied for second after firing an 85 last weekend in the always competitive Champaign Centennial Invitational.

As a team, the Sequoits claimed eighth place out of 18 teams with a four-golfer score of 399.

Backing Groh was Brittany Cable (95), Carrie Cybul (108), and freshman Danielle Nielsen (111).

New Trier won the event with a 362.

"It was nice for Sara," said head coach Steve Wapon. "We were happy to see her turn in a solid round in deteriorating weather conditions."

"Score-wise, we could have done a little better but it was great to see Sara turn in a solid round, especially in deteriorating weather conditions."

On Monday, the Sequoits fell a little short to Waukegan, 189-195.

Groh again led ACHS with a 44 at Bonnie Brook in Waukegan, which was good for medalist honors.

Nielsen carded a 44, Cable a 50, and Cybul a 54 to round out the Antioch scoring.

The Sequoits finished the dual-meet season with a 905 record, 3-2 in the North Suburban.

Antioch competed Wednesday in the Waukegan Regional, also held at Bonnie Brook GC.

Boys golf wins regional

Sports Editor

It appears that it's only a matter of time before the Antioch varsity boys golf team cracks the code. We're referring to the secret code of Lake Forest, which has edged Antioch in four tournaments so far this season.

On Monday, the Sequoits took another step towards a date with mighty Lake Forest after capturing the Jacobs Regional title with 337 at The Golf Club of Illinois in Algonquin. Four teams and the top 15 individuals not on a qualifying team qualified for sectionals. Host Jacobs gave the Sequoits a run, finishing second at 338, Barrington (342) and Crystal Lake South (346) also qualified.

Andrew Kinney and Shaun Schuler each carded 81s to pace the champions. They were complemented by Nate Zellar (87) and Tom Davis (88).

Head coach Jeff Moxley thought the team played well in the cold and windy conditions.

"The guys are starting to be rewarded for all of the hard work and time they've put in this season," he said. "Different guys have stepped up on several occasions—that just shows how much depth (and consistency) we have."

Meanwhile, Lake Forest was busy winning the Mundelein Regional at Steeple Chase.

Thus, the showdown is set. Both Antioch and Lake Forest will be competing in the Prospect Regional at Mount Prospect CC next Tuesday beginning at 9 a.m. A state berth will be on the line for both teams. But more importantly, Antioch will be looking to put it all together as they try and solve the Lake Forest spell. Should be interesting.

'Run what ya brung' this weekend at Lake Geneva

Official groundbreaking at Joliet Motorsports Park

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Last weekend, Mother Nature was the big winner of the October Classic at Lake Geneva Raceway.

Due to day-long rains, the final day of the event, which was to feature semi-feature and feature events, was forced to be canceled.

Fans who purchased a three-day ticket will be able to use that ticket for admission to the Saturday, Oct. 9, 'Run What Ya Brung' program, according to Kevin Dawson, Raceway promoter.

The $1,000 to win rollover contest has been rescheduled as part of the Oct. 9 program.

The final event for 1999 at Lake Geneva will be Sunday afternoon, Oct. 24, with the original Goblin 250 for the Midwest Enduro Stock Car Series (MESCS).

The 1 p.m. start for the 250-lap event will be preceded by a women's powder puff race and children's costume contest.

For further information on Lake Geneva Raceway events, phone 414-248-8566.

The Chicagoland area is getting another major motorsports facility. The official groundbreaking ceremony for the $100 million, 1.5 mile superspeedway facility was held with a lot of fanfare despite pouring down rain.

Over 400 persons, including local and state dignitaries, attended the event held under a tent on the 200-acre parcel that will include 75,000 seats.

Among those on hand were two principle partners in the venue, Bill France, chairman of International Speedway Corporation and President of National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR), and Tony George, chairman of Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corporation and president of Pep Boys Indy Racing League (IRL).

Drivers present at the groundbreaking included Dale Earnhardt and Dale Jarrett from NASCAR and Eddie Cheever and Scott Goodyear from IRL.

The two sanctioning bodies are expected to have events at the facility in 2001. The facility is scheduled for completion in spring of that year.

Joie Chitwood, general manager of the facility, in a radio interview on WKRS Radio's Let's Go Racing Motorsports Report, reported the event was well received by the community. "Lots of excitement is surrounding the construction," Chitwood said.

Plans include having fan-friendly amenities along with competitor-friendly, according to Chitwood.

"The four drivers on hand are very excited and looking forward to competing on the track," Chitwood said. Chitwood is a fourth generation motorsports family member. Chitwood's great grandfather started the Chitwood Thrill Show, which ended last year after a 55-year run.

The group putting together the new facility is Raceway Associates. An actual name of the motorsports park has not been finalized. "That's one of the many details we are still working on," admits Chitwood.

The facility is located adjacent to the existing Route 66 Raceway. The Raceway features a one-half mile clay oval which will host a rescheduled Pennzoil World of Outlaws sprint car event Sunday afternoon, Oct. 10. It is home to a one-quarter mile drag racing facility, which hosts National Hot Rod Association events.

For information on Route 66 Raceway or the new superspeedway, contact Chitwood or Larry Decker at 815-722-5500.

Rockford's Jeff Jaras overcame cold temperatures, a tight one-quarter mile track and over 50 fellow competitors to score his first victory of the season Oct. 2. The win came in the Hotsy Cleaning Services 300 MESCS event at 141 Speedway in Francis Creek, Wis.

With temperatures dropping to the 30's by race time, Jaras overcame a lap deficit to race leader Mark Fogel in the race's final 10 laps. Fogel locked bumpers with another competitor. Both cars ended up hung up on an infield berm, costing several laps.

Jaras ended up three laps up on his nearest competitor at the checkered flag. Burlington's Tom Imp finished fifth in the "A" class while Eric Iversen Jr. of Glenview was ninth.

Hartford's Jeff Schmidt won top honors in the "B" class. Other finishers had Kenosha's Ken Broomell second; Racine's Fred Blickle sixth; Gurnee's Jay LeBrun eighth; and, Zion's Mike Beagel ninth.

Mukwonago's Aaron Wilke was the "C" class victor.

Frank Calabrese of Black Creek, who was the series point leader, was disqualified from the Oct. 2 event due to an illegal engine cam. This tightens the point chase heading into the last two races. Tom Barnharst of Hales Corners, who finished second to Jaras, along with past champion Darryl Traber of Waterford, who was fourth, join Calabrese in the championship hunt.

The MESCS next event is its first-ever trip to the Hawkeye State. Hawkeye Downs Raceway in Cedar Rapids, Iowa hosts the series at 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 10.

Race fans are reminded of the upcoming Spotlight on Racing presented by the International Council on Deafness and the Arts (ICODA) Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 6-7, at Fields Jeep dealership in Northfield.

The event features a dinner Nov. 6 with such motorsports dignitaries as Janet Guthrie and Roger Ward.

Major motorsports facilities including The Milwaukee Mile, Road America in Elkhart Lake and Chicago Motor Speedway are expected to participate. The new Raceway Associates Motorsports Park in Joliet is expected to have a display. Area short tracks, including Wilmet Speedway, Lake Geneva Raceway, and Route 66 Raceway are expected.

Competitors planning on displaying their cars include Star Trac Outlaw Winged Sprints of Jay Sachs of Waukegan, Frank Moser of Antioch and Fred Michaels of Kenosha. The mini-sprint of Jay Potter from Twin Lakes is also expected, along with additional cars that are being entered daily.

And finally, mark November 7 on your calendars. That's because it will be family day from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Children are admitted free. Adult admission is $10. Truth Warriors drama troop will be performing throughout the day. A youth band "The B-Sharpes" from Antioch is expected to perform as well.

For information or tickets, contact ICODA 559-0110, ext. 271.

Antioch lightweight win streak comes to an end

Sports Editor

The streak started six years ago with a win over Highland Park, a stretch that saw 68 straight regular-season victories by Antioch youth coaching legend Denny Porter and his lightweight (125-pounds and under) football teams.

During that time, the closest Porter's teams came to defeat was a 12-7 win over Grayslake last year. It was a game where Taylor Hocik's punt return for a touchdown preserved the win for Antioch.

Well, last Saturday, the Antioch lightweights were on the other side of the coin, falling to Libertyville, 30-14 at Butler Lakes Field in Libertyville.

Porter's team now stands at 5-1 in the league behind first-place Libertyville (6-0). Porter's teams used to play in the Antioch league, but starting this season, it switched to playing in the southern venue.

"The board wanted us to get into a different league," said Porter. "We did and we're very pleased. They're (Libertyville) is a great team and this is a very challenging league."

Libertyville scored first on a 10 play, 56-yard drive that was capped by a two-yard touchdown run by Jeff Fontana.

Antioch answered, taking its first drive 64 yards in four plays, ending in a touchdown pass from quarterback T.J. Weyenberg to Taylor Pechauer.

Tied 8-8, Sammy Clark took the ensuing kickoff back 70 yards for a score, giving Libertyville a 16-8 lead after the first quarter.

"That kind of broke our backs and we really never recovered," noted Porter. "They're a very talented team."

Both teams seem to settle down in what was a scoreless second quarter. Antioch had threatened twice, only to come up empty, once after driving to the hosts 8-yard line.

Libertyville then scored what turned out to be an insurance touchdown when Jeff Hansen rumbled in from 30 yards away on the second play from scrimmage to start the second half.

The Libertyville defense stiffened as well, recording four interceptions on the afternoon.

Hansen then scored his second touchdown of the game on a 5-yard run in the fourth quarter. Antioch managed to find the end-zone once in between the two Libertyville scores when Jeff Kibonge ran right up the middle 70 yards for a score.

For the game, Antioch racked up 285 yards in total offense, including 239 via the ground attack.

Kibonge led the way with 169 yards on 13 carries while quarterback Weyenberg added 70 yards on seven attempts.

Libertyville tallied 200 yards in total offense, led by Hansen's 127-yard effort. Fontana finished with 49 yards on eight carries.

Porter also has a 123-game winning streak to his credit while coaching the Buffalo Grove lightweight team several years ago. The likes of current Antioch High School stars Adam Niles and Mark Purnell are just a few that have passed through his program in recent years.

Dynamo takes 3rd place in Park Forest Fall Classic

The Lindenhurst Dynamo defeated the Tinley Park Bobcats, 2-1, to take third place in the Park Forest Fall Soccer Classic held Sept. 25-26. It was an exciting finish to the tournament as Brett McKenzie scored a goal as time expired in the second overtime of the U-11 consolation game to secure the victory. The assist was from Stephen Linder. Regulation ended 1-1 thanks to an Aaron Nichols to Andrew Wade goal in the first half.

The Dynamo finished the tournament with a record of 4-1. Lindenhurst cruised through the preliminary rounds with three straight victories.

In the opener the Dynamo defeated the Summit Golden Eagles 7-0. Chris Hittenmuller and Andrew Wade each recorded axes, scoring 3 goals each. The other goal was recorded by Marek Smith. Assists were provided by Peter Niles (2), Jeremy Pohlman (2), Nichols, Matt McElhinney, and Hittenmuller.

Next up was the host team, the Park Forest Wings. The final score in this contest was 5-0. Another axle was recorded by Hittenmuller along with goals from Nichols and Wade. Assists were dealt by Brett Paramski, Smith, Wade, Nichols and Niles. This game was a defensive gem as no shots were allowed by the Dynamo defense.

The final first round game was with Royal Midwest Cruz Azul and the Dynamo completed the first round shutout sweep, 7-0. McElhinney started the scoring and goals were added by Hittenmuller, McKenzie (2), Nichols, Paramski and Linder. Once again the Dynamo defense held for no shots allowed in this contest.

The Dynamo's only loss came in the semi-final match to the feet of the GRASA Magic 3-1. McKenzie scored a goal with an assist from Nichols to close the first half 2-1. However, GRASA held on for the win in the second half of this hard fought contest.

At the trophy presentation head coach Jeff Smith praised the team for "a great effort throughout the tournament and everyone should be proud of the third place finish." Coach Jerry Nichols added. This team is looking real good."

SEQUIOIT NOTEBOOK

Cross country

The girls varsity cross country team turned in another solid performance, finishing fifth out of 12 teams with 149 points in the 26th Annual Antioch Invitational held at Fox River Park in Silver Lake, Wis.

Individually, Holly Clarke earned a medal, finishing 14th with a time of 16:41 on the 2.44-mile course. Rounding out the top five for Antioch included Krista Hintz 32nd (17:35), L. Cole 34th (17:44), L. Hammond 36th (17:47), and E. Bock 45th (18:04).

The boys team didn't fare as well, finishing 10th with 238 points. The top four included Nick Downard 28th (17:39), Ryan Moxley 45th (18:09), and Justin Mehaffey 50th (18:22).

"The girls team is pretty young," said head coach Norm Hahn. "A lot of them are still learning but I think in time, this is going to be a very good group to work with in the future."

Both teams compete in the Lisle Invitational this weekend.

Boys soccer

The varsity boys soccer team improved to 12-1-2 on the season following a 1-0 victory over Carmel last week. Matt Miclea, who is rewriting the Sequoit record books, scored the lone goal off of a feed from Dragan Blagojevic four minutes into the second half.

Miclea then added two more goals as Antioch edged Mundelein 2-1 Tuesday afternoon.

Girls tennis

The varsity girls tennis team posted a 5-0 win over Round Lake last week. ACHS improved to 6-4 overall, 3-2 in the NSC. Singles winners included Mandy Hughes at #1 singles, Silvias Skripkauskaitis at #2. In doubles, Jenny Rogers/Kristen Jensen won at #1, Heather Zeman/Mary O'Neil at #2, and Shelly Barbic/Nicole Edwards at #3.

SPORTS DIGEST

The Lindenhurst fastpitch softball team will be conducting a school providing pitching and hitting instruction. The school is open to girls (all level players) ages 9-18 that are members of one of the Lindenhurst Fastpitch softball traveling teams and begin this Saturday from 3-5 p.m. There will also be sessions available on Thursday. The school will be held at the B.J. Hooper School Gym in Lindenhurst. For further details and rates (there are several), call The Lindenhurst Fastpitch Softball School.

Learn competitive softball pitching and hitting techniques as practiced by the Lindenhurst Traveling Softball program mechanical aides that are used to develop proper fundamentals.

Organized bicycle rides are being offered. Come join fellow riders for a few hours of riding and learning. Mike Kerrigan of Mike's Bikes of Gurnee, and Pete Murphy, former managing editor of Bike Magazine, will host evening and weekend rides on local trails and sport parks.

Rides will be hosted in the evenings before sundown or daily on the weekends and will consist of light to moderate speeds and locations. Participants will have a chance to ask questions from the owners and operators of Mike's Bikes (Gurnee) and offer their own experiences to others.

Most rides will take place on county paths and trailways. Complimentary post-ride liquids and foods will be provided.

These rides provide a great way to enjoy the fall season and get fit for the winter months coming. Riding along riverways and wooded trailways offers beautiful scenery while challenging your fitness level along with fellow cyclists.

Illinois Mentor offers special homes for children, adults

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Taking time and sharing of oneself with another is an opportunity which is available in many ways.

The Illinois Mentor, Inc. Schaumburg based organization is looking to expand its programs into the Lake County area.

Heading the move is Job West of Antioch who serves as state director. Illinois Mentor has programs based in the Chicago Loop, Crestwood, Peoria and East St. Louis.

The specialized foster care agency divides its offerings into three distinct and different programs.

First is the adult program which services individuals with developmental disabilities.

Abused, neglected, emotionally disturbed and behavior disorder children are served in the second.

The third, and possibly most emotionally challenging, deals with helping the medically fragile children and adults. These individuals have "complex medical problems."

West explained many have severe heart problems or have some type of terminally ill medical condition. "All of these individuals we serve have complex medical needs which will be with them for the rest of their lives," West continued. "It might be they have to use a gastrol intestinal tube to be fed. Some require 24 hour monitoring."

The type of medical difficulties of clients is constantly changing. In the last few years, more HIV children are coming into the program then ever before.

One client has a neurological disease resulting in the person aging backwards. The wide range of diseases include birth defects, injuries suffered as a result of abuse including shaken baby syndrome.

All of the persons are wards of the state, meaning their families have given up custody. "Quite often, they just can't deal with the level of care which is required," West admits of the reason often given by the family for giving up its rights. "Many of them come from poor social economic backgrounds."

"They don't have the resources to take care of the individuals. The family system is often already overburdened and the extra level needed justtt pushes them over the edge," West said.

Families give up custodial rights to the individual through the court system. A small percentage elect to maintain contact when it involves a child.

The situation is different with adults. More continue to maintain contact when it comes to adults.

The mentor programs are funded through the Illinois Department of Human Services and the Community Intergrated Living Agreement (CILA).

In addition, children clients receive supplemental funding through the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

In the past, many of these persons in need of extra care would have been institutionalized. Today, the move is to intergrate them into a host family and maintain them in more of a family environment.

Different from other programs, Illinois Mentor will only place one individual per home.

"This provides the client with the unique relationship with the family which becomes the cornerstone of their developmenttt," West explained. "Modeling normal behaviors is something which none of them have generally been exposed to in the past."

Other foster care programs will place as many as six to eight children in one home, or put several adults into a group home.

"This does not allow for the individual to be in a normalized family environment which is what we strive for," West said.

Goal of Illinois Mentor program is keeping families together if possible. All three family groups in this mentor home are siblings. Chiquita Battle, back, is the mentor mom. Nate Houston, 13, is placed in another mentor home. Middle, from left, John Houston, 11, Dante Houston, 10, and Anterelle Moore, the mentor's husband's adopted 11-year-old son. Front, Markis Lee, 9, left, and Christina Sykes, 7.—Photo supplied by Battle family.

The Illinois Mentor program has seen the highest permanency level within the state, which includes comparing it to traditional foster care programs.

"The ability for us to achieve such a high level of permanency says a lot for the program," West admits, crediting the mentor families as well as the agency staff with playing a large part in it.

With the four locations, 600 clients are being served ranging in age from birth/infancy to 80-years-old.

Although there is no base in Lake County, there are several placements. Clients are being served at homes in Round Lake, Zion and North Chicago.

A short range goal for Illinois Mentor is to expand more into Lake and McHenry counties over the next year.

The southwestern suburbs have several placements in communities like Homewood, Crestwood and Harvey.

Illinois Mentor is part of a nationwide National Mentor based in Boston with 22 state programs nationwide.

'Heart' mentor's key

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

"Have a heart."

Those three words sum up the most important quality for a person to be in the IllinoisMentor program.

"One has to be willing to open their home to an individual," Job West, Illinois Mentor director, explained.

"Improving the quality of life one individual at a time" is the motto of the program.

Recruitment of host families is constantly going on. The most effective is "word of mouth" from current mentors talking to family, friends, co-workers or fellow work goers.

Advertisements in local community newspapers is another method. Once a person expresses interest in the program, they go through a training period becoming licensed by the State of Illinois as a foster care provider.

Included in the process is a background check. Employment is not required, although some of the families have one or both of the adults working outside of the home.

Single, married, older and younger, even retired persons are involved, according to West. The only age requirement is to be over 21.

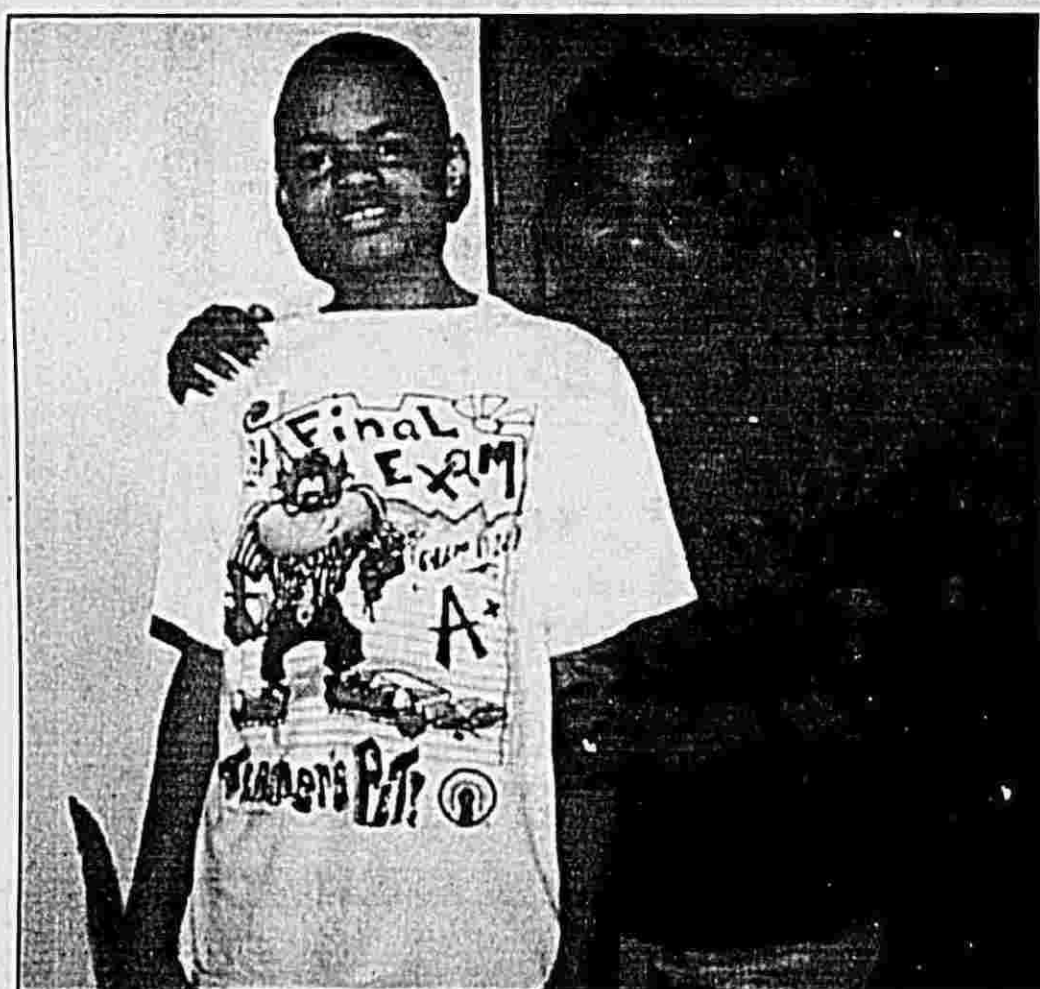

Having other children within the home is taken into account on an individualized basis. Some can have other children.

In the case of a child or youth diagnosed as "sassy," a sexually aggressive child/youth, it is not advisable nor would it be recommended to place such an individual in a family with other children.

"A lot of mentors do have their own families," West explained. "We try and look for a family which can provide a normal home environment."

In the case of children clients, most of the time they will attend school in the local district. All of them would be placed into some type of special education classroom.

The fact the children are gone during the day enables the mentor parents to be employed outside the home. Many take advantage of that option.

Norman Mailer speaks out at North Suburban Library event

By CAROLYN LYNCH
Staff Reporter

The National Book Award and Pulitzer Prize winning author made his way to the podium. A simple elegant cane aided his journey. In his blue blazer and gray pants, with his fluffy white hair, Norman Mailer looked just like his photograph.

Mailer spoke bluntly, smiled wickedly and laughed joyfully at The North Suburban Library Foundation's Literary Circle Oct. 4. He appeared before a large audience in the 1,500 seat auditorium of Glenbrook South High School in Glenview.

Mailer spoke on many issues, undaunted by the modern restraint of political correctness. He read from several of his works, commented often, and eventually answered questions.

Mailer focused his reading around the events of 1969. He compared the emotions those events raised to attitudes prevalent in the United States today. The works he read included reflections on the Apollo 11 launch, Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, and John F. Kennedy's assassination.

In much of the reading, one could sense the "odd love affair" Mailer said he has with the U.S. He sees so much potential in the country, but feels constantly angry toward it, he said.

An audience member asked him about the controversial new exhibit at the Brooklyn Museum of Art. It was a leading question. But, Norman Mailer wouldn't be led.

"Every time an artist takes a big chance against public opinion, you hope the work is worth it. I haven't seen it yet, so I don't know," said Mailer.

Mailer also discussed the Clinton sex scandal, the war in Kosovo and the growing relationship between Hollywood and Capitol Hill.

He expressed sympathy for Clinton. He reminded the audience that Secret Service agents record the President's location every 15 minutes, leaving him very little privacy or freedom.

"He is really the highest prisoner in America. He lives in a fabulous minimum security prison," said Mailer.

Conversely, Mailer criticized the president for his actions during the war in Kosovo. He compared the U.S.'s bombing raids on Serbia to "psychic genocide."

Mailer: "Every time an artist takes a big chance against public opinion, you hope the work is worth it"

Although the United States wanted to stop ethnic cleansing, it didn't want to stop it badly enough to risk American lives, he said. Not using ground troops made the war too easy and impersonal for the U.S., he said.

"Our blood is not as ready as our mouth," said Mailer.

The North Suburban Library Foundation is an umbrella foundation that serves library districts throughout Lake County.

The foundation has held its Literary Circle for four years now. Susan Sontag, Michael Ondaatje, and Edward Albee will also appear during this season.

Rotary International Governor visits Antioch Club

Calls for ending polio worldwide

By LYNN GUNNARSON DAHLSTROM
Correspondent

In his security surveillance work for banks, Rotary International District 6440 Governor Bob Williams helped set up security surveillance systems for most of the banks in northeastern Illinois.

In his work as a Rotary District 6440 Governor which covers northeastern Illinois and includes 70 of the thousands of international Rotary clubs, he uses that background to push for surveillance of another kind—surveillance against polio.

A big focus of Rotary International is its "Polio Plus" program—an effort to eradicate polio worldwide.

When Williams visited Antioch's Rotary Club at the Columbia Bay Brewery Sept. 30, he outlined a plan of attack against polio and a way to set up surveillance against it.

Williams said that Rotary International District 6440 is partnering with District 9100 in Africa to set up polio surveillance stations there. District 9100 covers 16 African countries.

"In order to ensure that polio has been eradicated," said Williams, "It has to be certified with surveillance stations."

Williams noted that at the surveillance stations, stool samples from people with polio-like symptoms are studied to analyze their apparent symptoms. From there a plan to treat the symptoms and immunize against further spread to others can be enacted.

Since the start of Rotary International's Polio Plus program, "More than a half a billion dollars have been put into the eradication of polio," said Williams.

He added that "The effort has saved millions of children from crippling and death."

But he cautioned that the job is not done. "It will take two to five years before it can be certified that polio is fully eradicated."

A surveillance station, according to Williams, costs $39,000. He would like to see four to five surveillance stations functioning in the African District 9100 as part of the Polio Plus Program.

In order to do that, he urged Antioch Rotary members to donate towards that cause. He said that Rotary International will match whatever funds the Antioch Club and other clubs in his District 6440 will give.

"By giving towards such an effort, Rotarians can help improve the quality of life in Africa," said Williams.

He also said, "You're a great club—not a big club—but you raise a lot of money. It's a quality club."

Matt Tabar, president of the Rotary Club of Antioch said, "We're pleased that Governor Williams visited. It brings home to our Club that we're bigger than just Antioch; we're bigger than just our district; we're bigger than just the United States—we're international. We usually focus on the local community. Governor Williams helped us broaden our horizons across the country and world."

Dugenske gets Rotary service award

By LYNN GUNNARSON DAHLSTROM
Correspondent

A man accustomed to behind-the-scenes work was asked to step into the spotlight to recognize all the great things he has done and continues to do.

Dan Dugenske, owner of Strang Funeral Home in Antioch, received the 1999 Community Service Award from the Rotary Club of Antioch.

Dugenske, who along with his wife Joanne has three sons, said the award "Is wonderful. I'm overwhelmed. I humbly appreciate it," said Dugenske. He added, "I normally like to do things behind the scenes."

He won the award by going "Above and beyond the call of duty and working on behalf of the community in many ways," said Matt Tabar, Antioch's Rotary president.

Dugenske's friend and fellow Rotarian Ralph Antonelli said, "He's always been a supporter of just about everything in Antioch. He's a big Antioch Rescue Squad supporter. As a volunteer back in 1971, he brought the idea to Victory Hospital to bring paramedic training to Illinois. He helped establish protocol and training for paramedics. He helped establish the Northern Lake County Emergency Medical Services System."

Antonelli noted that Dugenske himself was the first paramedic in the state of Illinois.

Antonelli said, "Dan is a swell guy. He's a pleasant, nice, humble person. He does a lot of things without people knowing it. Dan's not interested in the spotlight. He's always doing things and then he moves on."

Besides his support for the rescue squad and paramedic work, Dugenske is involved with numerous Antioch area community efforts including the Bill Brook Wetland Restoration and Entertainment Center Fundraising Committee, St. Peter's Footlights and the Antioch Lion's Club.

Dugenske is also involved with Ducks Unlimited and the Sigrid Olson Environmental Institute with Northland College in Ashland, Wisconsin.

When he gets a spare moment, Dugenske also enjoys fishing.

Curb the clutter

A backyard shed helps keep tools in order

When getting to your lawn mower becomes a bigger job than the work you plan to do, you probably need to build a storage shed.

No matter if you bolt together a kit or build something from scratch, constructing a shed can be a fairly simple and inexpensive project and will give you a place to store tools, equipment and children's toys.

While putting a garden shed together is easy enough, choosing the right one may take some homework.

Kit or construct?

Unless you're a skilled carpenter, exhaust all your kit options before building, recommends Tony Orozco, with The Home Depot. With a variety of basic styles on the market, you will probably be able to find one that meets your needs. Kits are cheaper than doing original construction, and they always come with instructions.

Depending on the materials you choose—wood, metal or plastic—the only tools you will need are a hammer and a couple of screwdrivers. All the building materials and fasteners are supplied in kits. Assembly might take longer than an afternoon, but can easily be finished in a weekend.

If you have special storage needs you're probably better off building your own shed. Draw out a detailed plan to make the project go quicker, especially when it comes to building roof trusses.

Use pressure-treated lumber for the flooring, two-by-four studs and either T1-11 plywood, fiberboard or cedar siding on the walls. If you use fiberboard, make sure you seal, caulk and paint it immediately to prevent weather damage. Even with plywood or cedar siding, which are slightly more weather resistant than unpainted fiberboard, you should caulk and paint quickly.

You won't need to wire the shed for electricity or install a window unless you plan to use it for a workroom or mini-greenhouse.

Size wise

"Standard shed sizes range from 6x8 feet to 10x16 feet," said Orozco. Unless your yard is very small, go with at least an 8x8 foot shed because it will hold a lawnmower, wheelbarrow and decent assortment of household and garden tools," said Orozco. To make sure you buy the right size, measure a few of your largest tools before visiting stores, and then shop for shed kits where you can look at full-size displays. Small metal sheds will last eight to 10 years before the bolts give way and the galvanized interior begins to rust. If taken care of, wooden sheds should last as long as the house. The least expensive option, plastic, will last just five years.

A firm foundation

All sheds, whether prefab or homemade, require a foundation. For a small shed, you may be looking at a pair of wooden skids or precast concrete piers. For a unit that is larger than 100 square feet, you will need to pour a concrete slab. At that point, you may want to consider an oversize pad for storing such things as firewood.

Building a shed is like erecting a small house. A base structure of beams and joists supports a subfloor of plywood panels. Walls are framed and raised like house walls, with space left for doors and windows to be added later. The roof goes on last.

Racks and stacks

Good organization within a shed, no matter the size, allows you to maximize space. A wall of peg-board can hold hand tools, shovels, rakes and ladders. Shelving units are also effective—especially for jars of screws, boxes of nails, oil cans and other materials that can't be hung.

Before beginning, check local building codes. These codes may require the type, size and depth of foundation you will need, the dimensions and the spacing beams, joists and rafters and the size shed you can build and where you can build it.

Asian Longhorned Beetle: Frequently asked questions

Infestation Data

Why are trees being cut down in my neighborhood?

Trees in your area may have been invaded by an insect called the Asian Longhorned beetle. Cutting and removing the infested trees is the only way to keep the beetle from spreading and attacking more trees in the United States.

What happens to the trees after they are cut?

The trees will be chipped and burned.

Why are trees being cut that are not dead?

The beetle may be feeding inside a tree that looks healthy and must be stopped before it moves to another tree. Because the beetle kills trees slowly, it may take several years for a tree to die.

Can chemicals be injected into the tree to kill the beetle rather than cutting the trees?

Chemicals that are injected into the tree do not penetrate beyond the outer most layers of the wood behind the bark. Since the beetle spends most of its time deeper within the wood, it doesn't come into contact with the injected chemicals.

Can trees be saved by pruning only the infested branches?

Since the beetle is feeding deep within the tree, it is impossible to know which branches to remove. The beetle may be feeding in branches that look healthy.

How can the beetle be prevented from doing more damage?

The only way to stop the beetle from attacking even more trees is to completely remove all trees with any sign of the beetle. In the spring, the beetles come out from inside the tree where they have been feeding. Trees need to be removed before the beetles emerge and move to other trees.

What kind of trees does the beetle attack?

The beetle attacks maple, horsechestnut, willow, poplar, birch, and rose of sharon.

How will I know if my trees, or those in my neighborhood, have the beetle?

You may see the beetle between May and October. It has a one-inch long bullet-shaped black body with white spots. The antennae can be two or three inches long with black and white stripes. In the fall and winter the beetle grub is feeding inside the tree and can't be seen unless the tree is cut.

How fast and how far can the beetle spread?

We don't know much about this yet. The beetle doesn't usually move very far on its own. The likely way that the beetle will move is by people who transport it unknowingly — such as when moving firewood or branches that contain the beetle.

Will anyone be looking for the beetle in my neighborhood after the trees are cut down?

Survey crews will continue to look for signs of the beetle every year for the next four years, possibly longer. Any more trees found with the beetle will need to be removed.

How can I help?

If you think your tree or a neighborhood tree has the beetle, do not move any cut wood including branches and stumps and do not put any of these materials out for city removal.

Instead, immediately contact:

- The Department of Agriculture in your State
- In Illinois, contact the Illinois Department of Agriculture hot-line number at: 1-800-641-3934.

This brochure was prepared by the USDA Forest Service, Northeastern Area, State and Private Forestry in cooperation with USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

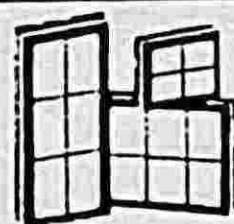

How did the beetle get here?

Scientists aren't sure but it's likely that the beetle arrived in wooden crating material on a ship delivering goods from China.

How long has the beetle been here?

This beetle was discovered at two locations in New York (Brooklyn and Amityville) in August 1996. Almost 2,000 infected trees have been found and removed. Officials in the New York Eradication Project are still optimistic that the beetle will be eliminated. The infestation in Chicago was discovered on July 9th, 1998, but it may have arrived several years earlier.

Solutions to pet odor problems

Pet odors can be tough to get rid of. No matter how many times the rugs have been shampooed and how much air freshener you use, animal urine that has penetrated and settled in walls, floors and woodwork emits a lingering smell. Replacing carpeting and carpet padding can help, but for homes that have hardwood floors, and for those where the odor is more problematic, here's a tip: finish the affected surfaces with shellac or a shellac-based primer-sealer.

According to Wm. Zinsser & Co., a leading manufacturer of shellac and specialty paint primers, shellac forms an impermeable barrier that permanently seals off odors — something water-base and oil-base paints, primers and finishes can't do. Zinsser recommends the following treatments for surfaces around the home.

- Hardwood floors — Seal the surface with clear or amber shellac. Zinsser makes a popular brand called Bulls Eye, which provides a long-lasting, beautiful finish and adheres to most types of existing floor finishes—including most polyurethanes.

- Carpeted floors — Subfloors hidden by carpeting can be sealed with clear shellac or painted with a shellac-based white-pigmented primer like Zinsser's B-I-N Primer-Sealer. The primer, which is tintable to match the color of the carpeting, seals porous surfaces like oak flooring, plywood and concrete.

- Walls and woodwork — Natural finished or stained woodwork and molding can be topcoated with shellac. For walls and painted woodwork, prime the surface with B-I-N and follow with two coats of latex or oil-based finish paint. The primer will seal in any stains along with the odors, and provide a good "anchor" for the topcoat, making the paint job look better and last longer. The primer will stick to either flat or glossy-painted surfaces without the need for prior sanding. To make the job easier, have your retailer tint the primer to match the color of the finish paint.

Shellac-based products are easy to use, and can be found at your local hardware store, home center or paint store. They dry fast and leave no lingering "paint smell" as they contain alcohol as a solvent, which dissipates very quickly into the air. Brushes clean up with regular household ammonia and water — there's no need for hazardous mineral-spirits solvents.

For more information, visit the Zinsser web site at www.zinsser.com or call (732) 469-4367.

To permanently seal off pet odors that have migrated into wood floors and subfloors beneath carpeting, seal the surface with shellac or a shellac-based primer.

Fun facts about carpet

Approximately one billion square yards of carpeting—enough to create a runner stretching from the earth to the moon—is sold in the U.S. each year. Dollar value in 1998 was over $15 billion in retail sales, an increase over the year before. Carpet is on the upswing thanks to greater variety, better yarns, ever improving soil and stain protection, as well as more fashionable styling. Carpeting is so much a part of our lives, we sometimes forget it's underfoot. It's time to give this product the red-carpet treatment by recognizing some facts compiled by 3M.

1. 70 percent of all carpeting sold in the U.S. is produced in Dalton, Georgia, the "Carpet Capital of the World."
2. Erastus Bigelow, the "father" of the American carpet industry, opened the first U.S. carpet mill in 1825.
3. The first carpet with built-in soil protection was introduced over 25 years ago by WundaWeave featuring Scotchgard protection. (Scotchgard protection was used first on fabrics.)
4. Carpeting is typically replaced every seven years.
5. Families with kids and pets are the most likely to have staining problems.

Fall into the habit of planting spring bulbs

Bulbs are perennials—they come back every year—and some even naturalize, meaning they multiply on their own.

The most popular spring bulbs include anemones, crocuses, daffodils, grape hyacinths, iris, snowdrops and tulips. And while bulbs are traditionally associated with Holland, where most of the world's hardy spring flower bulbs are grown, most bulbs have their origins in the Middle East or Southern Europe. Prized and traded among emperors and kings, many bulbs were first introduced by soldiers returning from the Crusades who wanted to propagate exotic flowers in their native countries.

Bulb basics

Spring-blooming bulbs become available in garden centers and hardware stores in late summer. It is a good idea to buy them early when the selection is best, and plant them as soon as the days get cooler. Assorted bulbs can be purchased in pre-packaged mesh bags or individually.

It helps to select bulbs the way you choose fresh fruit, according to Deb Wells of the Home Depot.

"Choose fat bulbs that aren't mushy when they're squeezed," She says. "I also like to smell the bulbs. If they have an odor of mildew or rot, the bulbs probably won't make it through the winter."

Gardening 101

Bulb planting is a relatively simple procedure, provided the gardener has the right tools: a trowel, a gardener's knee pad, bone meal and a sense of good timing. In the north, spring bulbs are usually planted between mid-September and early November, before the ground freezes. Once in the ground, bulbs function like factories, storing and processing their own food through the cold winter months.

In warm climates, spring bulbs can be more challenging go gardeners since the winters are not cold enough to make many bulbs to dormant. It is best for southern gardeners to store their bulbs, package and all, in the refrigerator anywhere from four to eight weeks before planting. This will give them a chance to "chill out" before going into the garden in early spring.

"Make sure there is no ripening fruit in the refrigerator with the bulbs," says Wells. "The fruit can give off bulb-damaging gases."

Traditionally bulbs are planted by digging a hole about three times the depth of the bulb itself. A mixture of compost and bone meal is added to the bottom of the hole before the bulb is placed into it root side down. Bulbs prefer sunny areas with well-drained soil. If soil appears a little too wet, mix in a little sand to promote more effective drainage.

Planting bulbs in a shady area is fine as long as the trees are deciduous. For a landscaped look, arrange the bulbs in groupings—a few widely spaced for the larger flowers, several closer together for smaller ones.

One of the reasons bulb gardening is so popular, is that the planted areas are usually low maintenance. However, there are some advantages to topping the beds with compost or a 5-10-5 fertilizer in the fall and again in the early spring. Deep watering also is a good idea if the summer has been particularly dry.

Seven simple cleaning tips for the bathroom

No room in the house gets dirty faster than the bathroom. When you consider the busy traffic of an entire household, and the tough dirt that accumulates throughout the day, it's no wonder that bathroom cleaning can give pause to even the heartiest of homemakers.

To make cleaning easier, home-care expert Gerry Luepke offers the following tips on tackling the bathroom, all at once or just one area at a time.

1) Gather up the supplies that pertain to the area you are cleaning:

- Clean rags, a soft sponge, toilet bowl brush
- Rubber gloves
- A multi-purpose glass cleaner
- A special product for toilet bowl cleaning
- A specialty product designed to clean mineral deposits, such as Professional Strength Lime-a-Way Lime, Calcium, and Rust Cleaner.
- A product for removing mildew

Note: Know your surfaces: with all the time and money people spend on bathroom fixtures, being aware of which products are safe for certain surfaces is very important. Be careful when using cleaning products on marble, granite, slate, terrazzo and natural stone surfaces. The best advice, according to Luepke, is when in doubt, test it out. Use the product according to instructions and test a small area hidden from view. Evaluate your results after rinsing the area and letting it dry.

2) The removal of mineral deposits from faucets, showers, bathtubs, and toilet bowls is one of the most important jobs when cleaning the bathroom. You will recognize these deposits as either a white film, a crusty scale or rusty colored stains. The primary cause of the build-up of these minerals is hard water.

According to Luepke, nearly 9 out of 10 households have some degree of hard water. With gallons of water passing through the bathroom everyday, stains and rust can develop quickly and heavily. "The removal of these minerals is fast and easy with a product like Lime-a-Way, which is safe for septic tanks and plumbing systems," Luepke notes the following areas and objects as ones to target with Lime-a-Way:

- Shower doors—To remove stains and film. Lime-a-Way will also remove buildup from vinyl shower curtains.
- Shower heads—Detach the showerhead and soak in Lime-a-Way. Rinse and replace the showerhead back into the shower.
- Sink/faucet screens—Remove the screen and soak in Lime-a-Way, rinse and replace. (works great on kitchen and laundry sinks too).
- Chrome faucets—Spray with Lime-a-Way and replace the shine to dulling faucets. Rinse thoroughly and dry with a soft cloth.
- Spray Lime-a-Way on just about any surface that has hard water stains (but remember, when in doubt, try it out).
- Clean or replace soap dishes or dispensers as well.

3) Use Lime-a-Way Toilet Bowl Cleaner to remove rust and hard water stains. Using the unique curved neck on Lime-a-Way Toilet Bowl Cleaner, dispense the product under the toilet bowl rim. The product will seep down the sides of the toilet bowl coating it evenly. Brush with a toilet brush and flush to rinse.

4) As long as you are cleaning the shower, take time to combat mildew. Mildew builds up in showers and on many vinyl shower curtains (as well as bathroom window curtains).

To wash away mildew on shower tiles and shower curtain liners, use a special cleaning agent, such as Scrub Free Mildew Remover. Follow the directions on the product's container and put it away as soon as you are finished. Like all cleaning products, remember to store it away from children and pets. Clean up any spills as soon as possible.

What is usually the smallest room in the house can be the hardest to clean. But with these tips from Gerry Luepke an autumn clean-up can be quick, easy, and rewarding.

No room in the house gets dirty faster than the bathroom. When you consider the traffic of an entire household, and the dirt that accumulates throughout the day, it's no wonder that bathroom cleaning can give pause to even the heartiest of homemakers.

Create a stress-free zone at home

Overwhelmed consumers are looking for stress-free zones, and many are building them right into their homes — in the shape of sunrooms and solariums. Home designers are tuned into the words "cocooning" and "nesting" and are creating relaxing in-home respites for residents across the country.

"Sunrooms put people back in touch with nature, and fill their lives with warm, refreshing sunlight," said one designer. Sunrooms surround you with a soothing view and help to dissipate the pressures of the day.

"We're seeing large, airy great rooms with expansive windows replacing formal living rooms, as well as more focus on outdoor living environments such as decks and sunrooms," says Rick Jones, president of Patio Enclosures Inc., North America's largest sunroom manufacturer. In fact, a study by Patio Enclosures Inc. shows that the number one reason for adding a sunroom (reported by 56 percent of respondents) is for "a place to relax."

Bringing the outdoors in via sunrooms lets you enjoy natural sunlight and nighttime skies and is the trend that fulfills the need to reduce stress. Sunlight has proven to increase our energy level as much as 24% according to Current Health magazine. It also activates the inactive Vitamin D in our systems, which are often referred to as the "sunshine vitamin" for its many therapeutic benefits. Furthermore, experts agree that a change in environment and connecting with nature often helps us to decrease our stress level.

To create a relaxing environment in your home, start with one room, or add on just for this purpose. "We like to think that sunrooms are ideal rooms for stress relief," says Jones. "The expansive glass, view of nature and all-around special feeling they provide that's unique from the rest of the house make these rooms perfect for relaxing." Sunrooms can be easily added onto a home or created by enclosing an existing patio or deck.

Mulch Rings for Trees improves health

Homeowners and professional arborists depend on mulches in landscapes for several reasons. Functionally, mulches discourage weeds from growing, conserve moisture during periods and allow better use of water by controlling runoff and increasing water-holding capacity of light, sandy soils.

Mulches help maintain a uniform soil temperature. A 2- to 4-inch layer of mulch can add to the aesthetic value of a garden while protecting the base of trees from being injured by mechanical equipment.

Mulch rings also decrease competition from lawn grass, especially when well maintained, robs trees of valued nutrients and moisture.

Many organic materials can be used as a mulch. Bark mulches and wood chips are the two commonly used mulches in most of the country. In the south, pine needles are included in that list.

Mulch can be applied just about any time of the year when trees and shrubs are being planted. The best time to apply mulch in established bed areas, however, would be in mid-spring when soil temperature has warmed up enough for sufficient root growth. If applied earlier, the mulch could lower soil temperature and delay root growth.

Mulches should be applied 2 to 4 inches in depth over relatively clean, weed-free soils. Never pile mulch more than 4 inches high. Identify and eradicate weeds before the mulch is applied. Do not allow mulch to touch tree trunks, keep mulch back about 6 to 12 inches.

Most arborists consider organic mulches as the most compatible with trees. There are, however, several inorganic materials used as mulches, including weed barriers. Black plastic is sometimes used to discourage weeds, though it interferes with the normal oxygen and water supply to the tree's roots. Plastic barriers can contribute to the creation of a very shallow root system, which, during drought periods, make plants less capable of obtaining water or withstanding heat stress. Therefore, it is not recommended to use black plastic around trees. There are, however, several landscape fabric mulch products available that will function in the same way as plastic but allow for normal water and oxygen exchange. These materials are placed on bare soil around trees and shrubs with the mulches used on top. There are many brands and types of materials from which to choose that have proven to be beneficial in discouraging weeds and holding soil moisture.

For a list of professional arborists in your area, or to get information on the care and maintenance of trees, contact the National Arborist Association, 1-800-733-2622 or conduct your own zip code search on the NAA's web site, <http://www.NATLARB.com>. The NAA is a 60-year-old public and professional resource on trees and arboriculture. Its more than 2,300 members all recognize stringent safety and performance standards, and are required to carry liability insurance.

6 Months No Interest

As you gear-up for winter, don't forget to insulate

Winter is not far away, and many consumers need help when it comes to making decisions about home insulation and reducing heating costs. Johns Manville offers the following insulation tips for homeowners and do-it-yourselfers to make the insulation selection and installation much easier. Remember to check with your local retailer for the correct R-value for your area.

•What Is An R-Value? All insulation comes with something called an R-value. This is a rating that indicates the resistance value, which measures a material's resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating quality. The R-value is marked on the insulation packaging.

•Where Should Homeowners Insulate? Insulate attics, ceilings, walls, floors and crawl spaces to maximize energy savings and comfort.

Attics/Ceilings:

Attics and ceilings should include 10 to 18 inches of insulation. If you choose to insulate your attic/ceiling or add more insulation, for best results install insulation batts between the ceiling joists, keep the insulation away from any heat-generating fixtures, exhaust flues and attic ventilators to avoid a fire hazard.

Walls:

People who live in older homes with little or no insulation in the walls can often save a lot of money by retrofitting insulation. The most common method is to blow insulation into the home's exterior walls through holes drilled into each stud cavity.

Floors/Crawl Spaces:

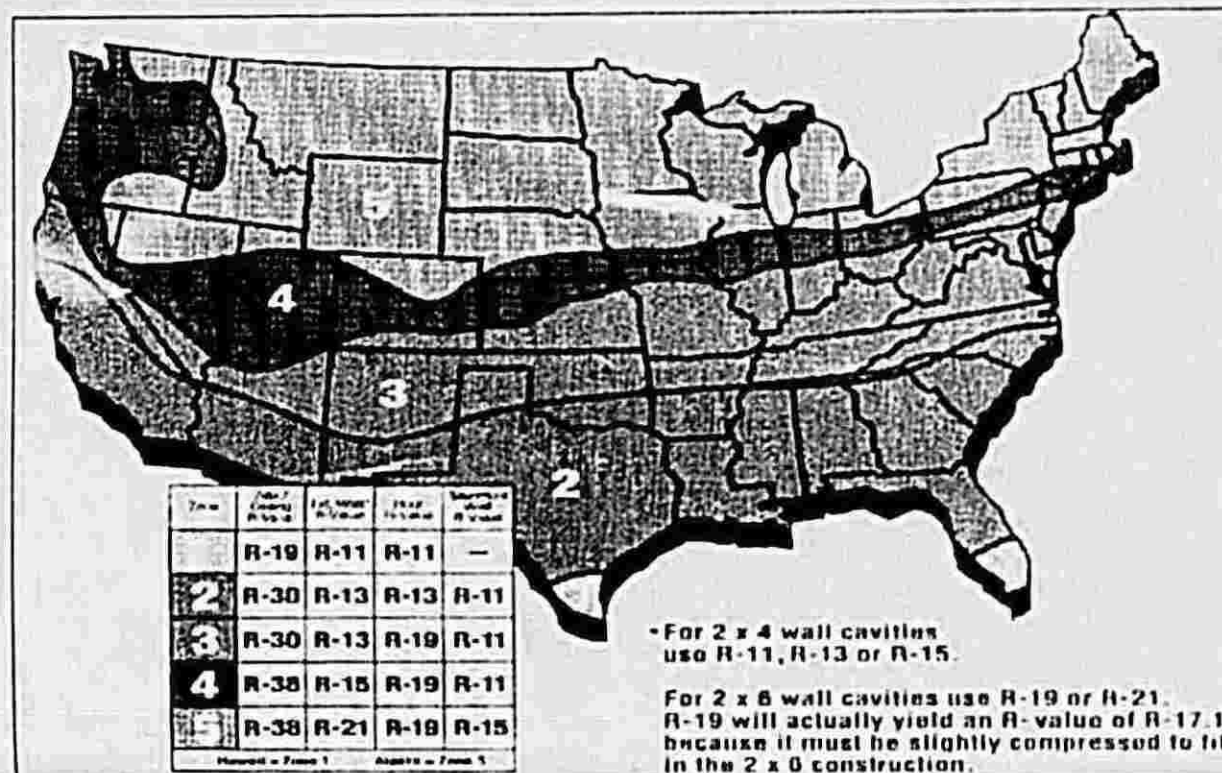

When insulating under floors, you can install insulation from below or from above if the sub-floor has not yet been installed. Johns Manville Comfort-Therm™ Under Floor Fiber Glass Insulation is specifically designed for under floor application and features easy-to-use stapling flanges, eliminating the need for wire or lacing insulation support. To insulate crawl space walls, take long wooded strips and nail over insulation to the sill.

•What tools will you need?

Working with fiber glass insulation requires no special tools. All you need is a tape measure, a utility knife and a staple gun. You should wear long-sleeved, loose-fitting clothing, gloves and eye protection. Also, use a respirator mask approved for fiber glass protection.

•What additional weather-proofing can be done? Homeowners can also add to the winterization of their homes by caulking and installing weather stripping around windows and doors, scheduling a heating-system tune-up, cleaning furnace filters and installing storm doors and windows.

Revolutionary deck surface eliminates maintenance and health risks from your deck

A deck is a great addition to any home and can be a popular area for family activity, however, regular staining and sealing of its wood can be expensive — up to $1,200 a year for common-size decks. In addition to the cost of maintenance, wood decks even can pose health risks.

Now, there is a revolutionary solution to these problems with Durable Deck — an innovative product that does not replace your old deck, but instead covers it in a durable, safe and attractive vinyl.

Most decks are made of treated wood, which can deteriorate quickly and look unsightly unless routinely pressure-washed and sealed using expensive stains and water-repellent sealers. What's more, the chemicals used to pressure-treat lumber contain toxins, which can pose health risks and raise environmental issues. Finally, there's the classic health risk — a wood splinter or rusty nail protruding from the deck can penetrate the skin and can cause a serious infection.

Durable Deck eliminates these common maintenance and health problems safely, conveniently and affordably. This revolutionary new product protects much the way vinyl siding does by installing directly over the wood — keeping its surface safe from the destructive forces of moisture and U.V. radiation. Many carpenters know that treated wood actually can get stronger with age. So, even if your deck's surface is weathered and unsightly, the wood beneath it still may be structurally strong. By adding the product, you're adding years more life to your deck's wood — helping you save money while preserving the forests. Durable Deck vinyl planks can be quickly and easily fastened to the deck with screws or a special polyurethane adhesive.

The ideal solution to top a backyard deck, dock, walkway, porch or patio, Durable Deck also provides pool-deck and dock owners the added safety of a slip-resistant surface. It even can be installed over concrete, covering unsightly cracks and irregular surfaces. Similar to vinyl siding, the product is made from a GEONTM PVC compound material proven to withstand punishing outdoor conditions.

Finally, because Durable Deck is a retrofit product and requires no structural change to a home, a building permit is not needed in most areas and easily can be installed by either the homeowner or a contractor.

Lost in your laundry? Here are a few hints

Times have certainly changed when it comes to washing clothes. Long gone are the days of hand washing garments and hanging them out to dry in the backyard. With the seemingly hundreds of products out there, choosing a detergent is more complex than ever. But what do all those advertising slogans mean? And will anything really get clothes cleaner? Don't forget about all those garments with special needs. Home care expert Gerry Luepke offers the following definitions and hints that even experienced launderers might need to know.

Which Detergent Is Best for Me?

With so many to choose from, it's hard to decide on whether to use a powder or liquid, etc. Here's some advice from Luepke:

- Liquid vs. Powder: Liquids work best on food, greasy, oily and everyday dirt. Powders are most effective on ground-in dirt and clay, making it an ideal choice if you have children playing outside all day. Use a liquid detergent for everyday laundry.

- Ultra: The super hero of detergents? Not quite. Ultra simply means concentrated. These detergents do have their benefits: they come in smaller packages and require less detergent to be used per load.

- Combinations: These may include an added fabric softener, color-safe bleach or color protectors. The main benefit of these detergents is that they are cheaper than buying two different products. According to Luepke, the downside of these combinations is that the detergent may not clean as well and the bleach or fabric softener might not be as effective as they would be if they were put in the laundry separately.

- Fragrance or Dye Free: The perfumes or dyes have

The Hard Truth About Water

Hard water is a problem in as many as 90% of homes, according to Luepke. Hard water contains high amounts of minerals such as lime, magnesium and calcium that can interfere with a detergent's effectiveness. In addition, fabrics tend to wear out more quickly and colors fade faster. It has also been found that washing machines using hard water wear out more rapidly.

"A liquid or powder water softener is one product that you should have in the laundry room," says Luepke. She suggests Calgon Water Softener as a good choice. "Water softeners placed in the wash help detergents clean better by neutralizing the minerals that make water hard. By adding them to the wash cycle, the detergent is able to do its job completely." Luepke also notes that hard water minerals trap dirt into fabrics and build-up on clothes as soap scum. A water softener like Calgon will remove the minerals for much cleaner clothes.

Additional Products

Bleach: Add to the wash to sanitize and remove stubborn stains. Bleaches are available in either Chlorine or Oxygen formulas. Be sure to follow the label directions. Read garment labels as well; if something is not color-fast, there's no turning back.

Fabric Softeners: These add-ins can decrease static cling, reduce wrinkles and drying time, and make clothes softer and fluffier. Fabric Softeners come in many forms, but Luepke suggests using them in the dryer in the form of dryer sheets. This way, they won't have to be added during the rinse cycle of the wash (and you won't have to check in on your laundry every ten minutes).

Times have certainly changed when it comes to washing clothes. With the seemingly hundreds of products out there, choosing a detergent is more complex than ever. But what do all those advertising slogans mean? And will anything really get clothes cleaner?

Stain Removers: Available in liquids, sprays and sticks. For best results, treat stains as soon as possible according to product directions.

Sorting It All Out

When it comes to sorting your laundry, there are some common mistakes that people make. "A lot of people think that doing one load of all jeans or all sweatshirts is the best thing, but it's not," says Luepke. In fact, the best thing to do is to mix and match items to ensure thorough washing for all fabrics and colors.

Kitchen remodeling is recipe for success

Assuming you could afford only one home improvement project, which of the following would give you the best return on your investment while increasing space and updating your home's appearance?

- Adding on a separate room?
- Finishing your basement?
- Remodeling your kitchen?

According to a 1998 report from the Harvard University Joint Center for Housing Studies, kitchen remodeling has an 87 percent average potential payback—among the highest of all home improvement projects. Statistics from the National Kitchen and Bath Association and the National Association of Home Remodels place that figure even higher at 120 percent. Compare that to the resale returns on a separate unit addition or finished basement, which offer 40 percent and 52 percent paybacks, respectively.

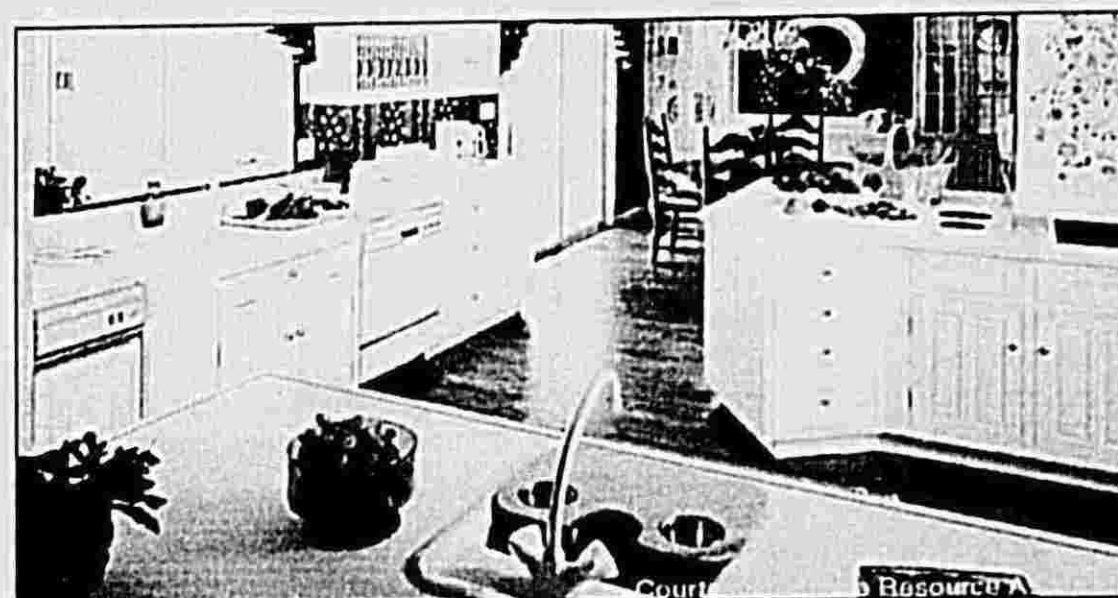

"As any real estate agent will tell you, adding a contemporary, efficient kitchen to an older, charming home creates a very attractive—and marketable—real estate package," said Jeff Dorn, senior vice president of Kitchen Tune-Up, which specializes in reconditioning and refacing existing cabinets as well as new custom cabinetry. "Kitchens are of paramount importance to today's demanding home buyers."

According to the Joint Center report, Americans spend approximately $150 billion on residential remodeling projects per year, accounting for more than 2% of the nation's Gross Domestic Product.

Approximately 25 million homeowners undertake some type of home improvement project each year, with 11 percent of households with incomes of $100,000 or more representing almost a quarter of all related expenditures.

The report also found that one in 10 homeowners spends more than $5,000 a year in remodeling, with more than 75 percent of homeowners reporting a home improvement within two years of having a child.

Homebuyers tend to spend an average of $2,000 more on remodeling during the first 24 months after purchase than non-movers, and trade-up buyers spend three times

Assuming you could afford only one home improvement project, which would give you the best return on your investment while increasing space and updating your home's appearance?

Through the year 2010, the annual average growth in remodeling expenditures is projected at two percent. Kitchen remodeling looks to be no exception.

"In today's strong economy of solid employment growth, high consumer confidence and increased home sales, there's never been a better time to remodel your kitchen," added Dorn. "We see that trend continuing in the future, particularly as baby boomers age and the 'do-it-yourselfers' turn to professional contractors such as Kitchen Tune-Up. With their leisure time at a premium, more and more consumers are discovering that they no longer have the time—or inclination—to tackle home improvement projects, and prefer to utilize the services of a well-established, customer-focused company like ours."

Founded in 1975, Kitchen Tune-Up, a division of KTU Worldwide Inc., is a recognized leader in a 30-billion-dollar industry and has been recognized as the No. 1 rated home improvement franchise by Entrepreneur magazine for nine of the past ten years. With its motto of "Kitchen Solutions for Any Budget," Kitchen Tune-Up specializes not only in reconditioning, refacing and recoating existing cabinets, but also in new custom cabinetry, shelf lining, replacement hardware, wood care and furniture touch-up services.

All services are personalized to meet individual decorating preferences and budgetary requirements following an initial consultation in the client's home, in a Kitchen Tune-Up Design Studio, or in a full-service Kitchen Tune-Up Idea Center in a retail shopping center.

New look for Lakeland homes

Becoming popular as an option for upscale Lakeland homes is the fourth bedroom that functions more like a second master suite. The second/master bedroom is ideal for families with an older live-in relative or an adult-aged child seeking privacy. Master suite sitting room provides a variation on second 'master' concept. At the opposite spectrum is the compact townhome with 'spacious' design offering a compact kitchen with convenient combined family room-entertainment center. Townhomes are ideal for first-time buyers, single persons or empty nesters who seek down-sizing with amenities.

Painting success lies in the preparation

You've finally decided to change that white in the living room to eggshell. Or maybe that rose you loved so much in your bedroom isn't so rosy anymore. Whatever the case, the decision has been made to paint. While many people feel that they are experts at interior painting, there is an important step that is usually forgotten: cleaning all surfaces in the room about to be painted.

"Most people want to jump right into painting and get that new color onto their walls," says home care expert Gerry Luepke. "They do not take the time to clean up before hand, but cleaning is extremely important." According to Luepke, cleaning the grime off of walls and surfaces prior to painting will aid in the adhesion and life of the paint. If proper cleaning is not done, the paint has a better chance of peeling or even cracking.

Painting is one of the top home improvement projects done by homeowners, and interior painting is a project that anyone can take on. Luepke offers the following cleaning tips for anyone who has chosen to begin a painting job.

1- You don't have to spend money on dozens of cleaning products. All you really need is a multi-purpose cleaner like Soilax. "It is ideal for pre-paint cleaning," says Luepke. "It is safe for woodwork, latex or oil paint, wallpaper and vinyl." Use 1/4 cup Soilax for a gallon of water. Mix this solution in a bucket or container and use any clean rag or sponge to wipe down surfaces prior to painting. Clean all walls, trim, doors, and window frames.

2- Before you clean, check walls and woodwork of the room about to be painted. Look at the room in daylight and on a sunny day if possible (this way, you'll be able to catch everything). Look for cracks and chips and repair them accordingly.

3- If there are no chips in the woodwork of a room, and you plan on painting it the same color, you may be able to wash the woodwork and forget the paint. A thorough cleaning with a Soilax solution can freshen up the look of woodwork about as well as a fresh coat of paint.

4- Allow for ample time to clean and prepare beforehand. Give yourself enough time to gather supplies: brushes, rollers, pans, old sheets to cover furniture, a ladder and masking tape for painting around windows and trim. Don't skimp on the pre-painting duties: have a plan and stick to it.

5- Two painters will make the job go faster, so recruit a painting partner if you can.

6- Take this time to clean the room's windows. This will get rid of excess dirt and dust in the room and also allow for you to enjoy the true look of your painting job! Don't forget to clean the doors and light fixtures, too.

Taking this time beforehand to clean up grime from all surfaces will ensure an easier clean up after the painting job is finished, leaving you with more time to enjoy the beauty of your newly painted room.

For more tips and information, you can contact Gerry Luepke at (800) 284-2023.

While many people feel that they are experts at interior painting, there is an important step that is usually forgotten: cleaning all surfaces in the room about to be painted.

Bongi opens new display models at Lakeside Condominiums

Bongi Homes has created two new furnished display models to launch the second and final phase of Lakeside Condominiums, the company's resort-style condominium complex on the south shore of 300-acre Bangs Lake in Wauconda.

The new models, created by interior designer Valerie Bongiovanni, feature a two-bedroom, two-bath Brittany plan and a one-bedroom, two-bath Colonade.

The Palatine-based builder has redesigned and completely modernized two three-story buildings to create 48 resort-style one-or-two-bedroom homes. Seven plans are available, priced from $125,900 to $165,900.

Chevy Venture expands its lineup with a new value van and Warner Bros. edition Venture continues to be the mini-van for active families in the year 2000, offering a new Warner Bros. Edition, Value Van model and new radios.

One of the more colorful additions in the history of Chevy Trucks is the new Warner Bros. Edition. Available as an Extended Wheelbase Four-Door model, this fun, attractive package is designed with the active family in mind, and combines the strengths of Chevy Venture's family transportation with the power of Warner Bros. Family Entertainment. Unique features include an overhead flip-down LCD video monitor, a console-mounted stereo video cassette player with remove, and lightweight flip and fold modular bucket seats for the second and third rows.

This exciting model also includes exclusive leather seating surfaces with cloth inserts for a comfortable driving experience. The Warner Bros. Edition exterior features color-keyed body-side moldings, fascias and door handles. Complementing the exterior is chrome Venture and Warner Bros. Family Entertainment badging.

"We're excited about the new Warner Bros. Edition Van," said Venture Brand manager Dan Keller. "It's a fun, comprehensive entertainment package for the whole family, wrapped in Venture comfort and durability."

Returning to the Concept: Cure effort for a second consecutive year, Nicholas Graham for Joe Boxer transformed a Chevy Venture minivan into the ultimate New York taxi complete with lickey face seats, an entertainment center, juke box on the dashboard and hand compartments for a week's supply of Joe Boxer underwear. The signature Joe Boxer colors of bright yellow, black and white adorn the vehicle, inside and outside.

The Chevy Venture Minivan and Joe Boxer fashions have a lot in common. "The Venture minivan is for active families who need to get more done and have more fun," said brand manager Dan Keller.

LeSabre offers safety, luxury

For the 2000 model year, Buick's LeSabre Brand Team set out to take a great car and make it better. And improvements are continuing in the all new version of LeSabre, the best-selling U.S. full-size sedan for seven straight years.

The 2000 LeSabre was introduced as an early 2000 model. Mid-model year improvements began with the addition of StabiliTrak as an option (May 1999), making LeSabre the highest volume car on the market to offer this advanced integrated vehicle stability control system.

StabiliTrak helps the driver maintain control by electronically comparing what the driver wants the car to do with information from sensors indicating how the car is actually responding. If the car is in danger of sliding or skidding, StabiliTrak slows and stabilizes the car to help the driver maintain control.

While StabiliTrak's benefits are most obvious when roads are wet, snowy or icy, the system also assists the driver during evasive or emergency maneuvers. The system functions at any speed and is always operational, requiring no user activation.

LeSabre Brand Manager Joseph J. Fitzsimmons Jr. said Buick's main challenge in creating an all-new LeSabre sedan for the 2000 model year was simply this: How do you improve one of the most successful automobiles on the market?

LeSabre's status as the best-selling U.S. full-size car for seven straight years was a strong indicator it was already providing a successful blend of attributes: roomy comfort, smooth power, quality, safety and security. Basically, Fitzsimmons said, customers saw the six-passenger LeSabre as an outstanding value.

So when it came time for a new model, product planners were determined to keep LeSabre's regular customers happy. At the same time, they wanted to widen its appeal. The result — the 2000 LeSabre — has numerous new features designed to strengthen LeSabre's position as a premium sedan for traditional American families.

"However, the main feature of the 2000 LeSabre is not its list of innovations and improvements — though it's an impressive list — but the overall package designed to continue the winning formula," said Fitzsimmons.

"From the exterior styling that is elegant and pleasing — timeless rather than gimmicky — to the very popular 3800 Series II V-6 engine and the new stronger body structure, this LeSabre is designed to attract a large number of customers who want an upscale, roomy, comfortable and safe car with classic styling — and also a great value."

Pointing out the car's excellent reputation, he noted LeSabre for 1998 again won the prestigious "Family Car of the Year" award from Family Circle magazine and in recent years has received various quality (J.D. Power), safety (Kiplinger's magazine) and value (IntelliChoice, Strategic Vision, Car Guide, etc.) honors. In the summer of 1999, LeSabre was named a "Best Buy" by the Chicago Tribune and won the Good Housekeeping Institute Automotive Satisfaction Award. The Good Housekeeping award is based on customer satisfaction and recommendations for purchase and repurchase.

"We're proud of all of them, but we're most proud of the one that indicates we are truly meeting our customers' needs — and that's the best-seller award," Fitzsimmons said.

"We've sold more than one million LeSabres in the last eight years. Over that period, LeSabre has beaten all of our major competitors in retail sales — including Mercury Grand Marquis, Ford Crown Victoria, Chrysler Concorde, Dodge Intrepid, Toyota Avalon. That's a tremendous record of market success."

"I think it's a combination of delivering the right product features and right touches of comfort and luxury at the right price. LeSabre gives you a feeling of being in control and being secure — basically it's a car that provides peace of mind."

For the 2000 model year, Fitzsimmons said, Buick set out to identify the features it would most like to improve by talking to customers. And then it improved them. As a result, the new model is stronger, quieter and more convenient and secure. It has, among a long list of improvements, side air bags for the driver and right front passenger, better ride and handling and more luggage capacity (and, on Limited, a pass-through between the trunk and rear seating for hauling long items). There is more stowage in the passenger compartment, new inset door handles, larger gauges and larger outside rear-view mirrors that are hinged so they will fold if bumped.

From an engineering standpoint, LeSabre's major news is its more substantial body structure, the latest generation of the unusually strong architecture that earlier won praise in Riviera (1995) and Park Avenue (1997).

Fitzsimmons said customers will notice a smoother, quieter ride, a more satisfying sound when the doors close, and overall a more substantial "feel" created by the significant improvements in stiffness: 27 percent more resistance to bending and a 62 percent gain in torsional rigidity.

In addition, LeSabre's safety-cage construction combined with four air bags, balanced chassis design, energy absorbing surfaces and new anti-lock four-wheel disc brakes, with extra capacity for sure stopping, emphasize LeSabre's attention to safety — a key attribute for LeSabre buyers.

Among other new safety features on LeSabres are Catche's Mitt seats — high-retention front seats with self-aligning head restraints. These features can enhance the seat system performance in rear impact collisions.

VENTURE: Expands its lineup for 2000

Nick Graham's Joe Boxer collection is a great fit. It's fun, functional and includes everything from sleepwear to now even a home collection in whimsical prints for the entire family. Nick Graham, like Chevy Venture, believes in innovation and developing new product ideas.

New Venture radios have a redesigned faceplate with unique buttons, graphics and colors. Uplevel Venture model radios feature new Radio Data System (RDS) technology as standard. RDS permits traffic and weather bulletins to interrupt radio, cassette and compact disc programming so important information can be heard.

The new Venture Value Van comes pre-packaged with a long list of standard features at significant cost-savings. Key features include: seven-passenger bench seating, integrated rear-seat ducts, air conditioning, a Tilt-Wheel™ steering column and an AM/FM stereo.

New Smokey Carmel Metallic paint brings Venture exterior color choices (depending on model) to nine.

Venture continues to offer valuable safety features, such as driver and front-passenger air bags and side-impact air bags for the driver and front-passenger. Also included are child security rear door locks, available child safety seats, Daytime Running Lamps (DRL) with Automatic Exterior Lamp Control and standard 4-wheel antilock brakes (ABS) for added driver control during hard braking.

A variety of available seating configurations can adapt to an owner's individual needs, offering up to 200 different configurations. Depending on model, seating ranges from second- and third-row bench seats to light-weight modular bucket seats at all rear positions.

"Venture is a true family van because of its versatility and seating flexibility that can be altered to varying numbers of passengers or to accommodate cargo," says Venture Brand Manager Dan Keller. "When you combine those qualities with its reliability, comfort and safety features, you've got an outstanding minivan."

Commercial van buyers will appreciate the Venture Cargo Minivan. This hard-working Extended Wheelbase (120-inch) model includes such standard features as front air conditioning and driver and front-passenger high-back bucket seats. The cargo area is protected from wear and tear by a full-length rubber floor mat, while a particle and odor filter help keep the interior fresh.

Clearly, Chevy Venture is a flexible, hard-working minivan that offers what today's active families need, from the day-to-day commute to long-distance traveling. With a choice of wheelbases, interior configurations and trim levels, as well as passenger or cargo models, Venture remains a leader in the highly competitive minivan market.

How to save your car from harsh winter weather

Rain, mud, snow and salt are all tough on drivers. But have you ever thought how tough these elements are on your car?

"To prepare for winter, I always check my tires, the antifreeze and the windshield wipers," explains Mark Warren, a resident of Chicago. "As far as the appearance of my car, I usually buy rubber floor mats to protect the carpet. I never stop to think about how weather and road salt will affect the finish of my car."

Most drivers don't think about washing their car during the winter months. Some even think that washing their car in winter will damage their vehicle.

"Washing your car in the winter months can be one of the most beneficial things you can do to maintain the value of your car," explains Mark Thorsby, executive director of the International Carwash Association, a not-for-profit trade association committed to educating the motoring public on vehicle maintenance.

"If left on your car, mud, salt, rain and snow can damage your car's clear finish. Mud and salt caked on the undercarriage can even help promote rust - especially in order vehicles - and can also affect how well your car drives," said Thorsby. "The car is the first or second greatest asset for the average family. Keeping your vehicle clean by frequenting a professional car wash is one of the best defenses in protecting a car's finish and the family's investment."

According to studies compiled by the association, one of the most critical times to wash your car is immediately after a rainfall. As rain falls, it collects pollutants from the air, a concept commonly referred to as "acid rain." Even after a light rainfall, rainwater and pollutants fall on your car. The water eventually evaporates, leaving a thin film of pollutants that can damage your car's finish.

"The longer you leave these pollutants on your car, the more damage they will inflict on your car's finish," said Thorsby. "Washing your vehicle immediately after a rainfall helps prevent damage."

Snow and sleet can also result in the same damaging effects as acid rain and are often compounded by chemicals in road salt. To prevent winter damage, the ICA recommends washing your vehicle every 10 days.

"We recommend washing your car in a professional car wash rather than your driveway," said Thorsby. "Professional car washes are gentler on auto finishes than a bucket and hose, and they use cleaning solutions specially formulated for today's more complex car finishes."

As an added bonus, ICA claims that professional car washes use biodegradable cleaning solutions, far less water than driveway washes and dispose of waste water responsibly - not down the storm sewer where it can contaminate lakes and streams.

To minimize, even eliminate, damage to your car this winter, follow these simple tips: - At a full-service car wash, ask the attendant to thoroughly dry around the inside of the door and trunk, as well as the joint where power antennas attach to the vehicle. At a self-service or exterior only car wash, bring a few towels with you so you can do this yourself.

• Immediately after washing the vehicle, open and close all doors, the trunk and other parts of the car with locks several times before parking it (this will eliminate water freezing in locks in extreme cold).

• Periodically apply a good silicone spray to all weather stripping during freezing weather.

• Wash your car every 10 days and right after a snow or rain shower.

• Wax your car at least every six months. More frequent waxing is needed if your car is red, black or white, as these colors are more susceptible to acid rain and UV rays.

Go to a professional car wash that is professionally managed, has clean facilities and uses well-maintained equipment. For the address of a professional car wash near you, visit <http://www.carwashes.com/>

Safety tips to keep the baby safe and sound while driving

There is nothing quite like the excitement of having a new baby in the family. There also is nothing that changes a parent's life more dramatically — from daily routines to the kinds of products that are necessary to keep the baby safe and comfortable.

One product that every parent who drives must have is a child car seat. All 50 states require the use of a child car seat. And, all car seats manufactured today must be designed to meet a safety standard set by the federal government in 1981.

Are you using your child's car seat correctly? The Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association (JPMA) encourages parents and caregivers to ask themselves this question to aid in the proper installation of car seats. An alarming number of car seats are installed incorrectly and some parents unknowingly may put their child at risk.

When selecting a child car seat, "Parents always should follow both the car seat and the vehicle instructions," says Kathleen M. Baier, JPMA vice president of communications. "We want parents to help ensure their baby's safety by buckling up baby correctly and securely every time."

To help stress the importance of installing a car seat correctly, the association encourages parents and other caregivers to take time, each time, to consider the following items.

Check the Seat

- The back seat is the safest place for a car seat.
- Never place a rear-facing car seat in a position with an active air bag.
- Secure the car seat tightly, allowing as little movement as possible at the base of the car seat.

Keep the baby safe while driving with a properly installed child car seat.

Check the Child

- The harness straps must go over the child's shoulders and lie flat against the child's chest.
- The harness clip should lie flat at armpit level.
- Allow no more than one finger to fit between the harness strap and the child's shoulders.

Check the age/weight guidelines

- Up to 1 year and 20 pounds: Use a rear-facing seat.
- At least 1 year and up to 30 to 40 pounds: Use a forward-facing seat.
- More than 30 to 40 pounds: Use a booster seat.

Because nothing is more important to a parent than keeping his or her child safe, JPMA takes many steps to educate parents about the safe use and selection of juvenile products. For more tips or to see the JPMA Safety House, filled with critical safety information, visit the Web site at www.jpma.org.

Towing doesn't have to be a drag

Common sense tells us that taking care of our automobile keeps it running well. It also makes sense that today's hardest working vehicles - SUVs, trucks and other 4x4s subject to extreme operating conditions like towing and off-roading - need extra protection. These powerful engines work harder, but only if you treat them right.

The most important element in maintaining your engine is motor oil. For example, did you know that your oil provides approximately 40 percent of the engine's cooling requirements? Changing your oil every 3,000 to 5,000 miles helps, but there are better ways to protect your engine.

Adding Rislone Upgrade to your motor oil, for example, creates a synthetic blend lubricant that really pulls its weight. Independent laboratory tests confirm that Upgrade substantially reduces friction, improves thermal stability and increases the load carrying capabilities of regular motor oil. Best of all, you can add a 15 oz. bottle of Upgrade at any time - a real benefit for vehicles towing boats, trailers and campers.

Upgrade is just one way to care for your engine. If you suspect that deposits in the crankcase have robbed engine power, a product such as Rislone Engine Treatment can restore efficiency. It penetrates piston rings and bearing surfaces to remove sludge and varnish, quiets noisy valves and lifters, and then goes on to promote a clean, smoother-running engine. To reduce oil burning and exhaust smoke while quieting noisy engines and cushioning worn parts, try Rislone Ring Seal. Its high-shear polymers increase oil viscosity to seal worn pistons and rings, so you can regain lost compression.

Towing doesn't have to be a drag, and test results prove it. To learn how you can help your SUV, truck or car engine tow long and prosper, ask for a free copy of our informative booklet, How to Treat Your Engine Right. Just call 800-622-1170 or visit www.Rislone.com.

Why Don't You ...

Whether you drive down the road or across the country, there are certain items that should be kept in your car in case of an emergency — especially during the cold-weather months. Why not take a moment to check that you have the following items in your car; you never know when they'll come in handy.

- Warm blankets
- Spare tire
- Car jack
- Road flares
- Pack of matches
- Map of the United States, plus a map featuring the streets in your neighborhood
- Package of bandages
- Flashlight with extra batteries
- Shovel
- Ice scraper
- Extra set of waterproof gloves
- Roll of paper towels and glass cleaner to clean dirty windshields
- Umbrella
- Pens, pencils and notepaper
- Extra change for unexpected tolls

Quiz 'Opens Eyes' to the dangers of sleepy driving

Sleeping and driving don't mix. When you are behind the wheel of a car, being sleepy is dangerous. Sleepiness slows reaction time, decreases awareness and impairs judgement, just like drugs or alcohol. And, just like drugs and alcohol, sleepiness can contribute to a collision.

How safe a sleeper are you? Find out by taking the following quiz, courtesy of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

True or False?

T F

- ☐ 1. Coffee overcomes the effects of drowsiness while driving.
- ☐ 2. I can tell when I'm going to go to sleep.
- ☐ 3. I'm a safe driver, so it doesn't matter if I'm sleepy.
- ☐ 4. I get plenty of sleep.
- ☐ 5. Young people need less sleep.

Answers

1. False — Stimulants are no substitute for sleep. Products containing caffeine can make you more alert, especially when used in conjunction with naps. However, when they are used alone, the effects last only for a short time. If you drink coffee and seriously are sleep-deprived, you still are likely to have "micro-sleeps" — brief naps that last four or five seconds. At 55 mph, that's more than 100 yards.

2. False — If you're like most people, you believe you can control your sleep. The truth is, sleep is not voluntary. If you're drowsy, you can fall asleep and never even know it. You also cannot tell how long you've been asleep. When you're driving, being asleep even for a few seconds can be fatal.

3. False — The only safe driver is an alert driver. Even the safest drivers become confused and use poor judgement when they are sleepy.

4. False — Chances are good that you really aren't getting all the sleep you need. The average person needs seven or eight hours of sleep a night.

5. False — In fact, teen-agers and young adults need more sleep than people in their 30s. They often get less, because they enjoy staying up late. Teen-agers and young adults who get up early tend to feel alert in the evening. They think that means they don't need much sleep. The problem is, the temporary alertness wears off later, and they can end up driving home drowsy.

Stop car thieves in their tracks with effective anti-theft devices

Professional car thieves can steal any car, however, you can help thwart thieves from stealing yours by using an anti-theft device. According to the National Insurance Crime Bureau (NICB), all vehicle theft-prevention equipment helps deter criminals, and many anti-theft devices also are effective in protecting your vehicle from burglaries and vandalism.

To help protect your car, following is a list of anti-theft devices, courtesy of www.in-sweb.com.

- Car alarm — The typical car alarm is equipped with motion sensors and a loud siren or series of tones in the 120-decibel range. The best car alarms automatically arm themselves when you leave the vehicle and include an automatic kill switch. The best models also flash the headlights and honk the horn in addition to sounding a siren.

- Electronic tracking device — This device uses an electronic transmitter hidden in the vehicle which emits a signal that is picked up by the police or a monitoring station.

- Kill switch — Effective and inexpensive to install, a kill switch is a hidden switch that prevents the flow of electricity or fuel to the engine until it is activated. Starter disablers also are growing in popularity.

- Steering-wheel lock — A long metal bar with a lock that fits on the steering wheel, a steering-wheel lock is designed to prevent the steering wheel from being turned. It also acts as a visual deterrent for thieves peering into car windows.

- Theft-deterrent decal — A typical decal identifies that the vehicle is protected by either an alarm system or a national theft-prevention company — an inexpensive way to bluff a car thief.

- Tire lock — Similar to the circular steel "boots" used by many larger city police departments, a tire lock makes the car nearly impossible to move. The locks also are effective in deterring would-be thieves.

On the Road Again ...

It was back in 1947 when the first Zippo car, a "productmobile" created by George Blaisdell, made its debut appearance cruising the streets. Designed to look like the product it advertised, the car became a source of inspiration, leading the way at parades and special events. In the late 1950s, however, the car was taken to a dealer to be refurbished and mysteriously disappeared. While the fate of the original Zippo car remains a fascinating riddle to this day, a new Zippo car, built by Joe Griffin (Memphis, Tenn.), was reignited in 1997. The new car stretches 17 feet 11 inches long by 6 feet 2 inches wide, and carries twin removable lighters with manual spring-assisted lids. The height of the car with the lighters closed is 8 feet; 12 feet with the lighters open. Lighting the smiles of many a young (and older) child, the new Zippo car continues to drive home a classic message of style and quality.

A bottle remedy to rid the winter blues

The winter blues: A seasonal phase many of us experience, characterized by a decreased desire to be active and a willingness to just "stay put." The only relief seems to come from the warm sun of spring.

Just like their human counterparts, a car's engine can lose some of the performance edge it once enjoyed. This may come in the form of hesitation or a feeling of power loss. While there are a number of possible causes, the problem may reside in the vehicle's fuel delivery system. With the winter season fast approaching, it's good common sense to get your fuel system revved up for the cold.

In a modern fuel-injected engine, fuel is atomized and sprayed into the intake manifold by a series of nozzles called "injectors." Fuel then is mixed with air in an area known as the combustion chamber. If left unchecked, these parts can become fouled with deposits and varnish, which can restrict the fuel supply and translate into poor fuel economy and sluggish performance.

The good news is that it's easy to help clean a vehicle's fuel system and restore its normal operating condition by adding a fuel-system treatment like STP® Complete Fuel System Cleaner. When added to a tank of fuel, the product works to clean deposits that can cause engine knock and ping, lost horsepower, hard starts, poor fuel economy, and increased emissions.

"Cleaning a vehicle's dirty fuel is as easy as pumping your own gas," says Paul Lincoln, STP product manager. "In fact, do-it-yourselfers can easily help clean the fuel delivery system, while at the same time restore lost performance. Adding a bottle of STP® Complete Fuel System Cleaner directly to a full tank of fuel at the first sign of problems helps clear away power-robbing deposits. Again, it's as easy as pumping your own gas."

The experts at STP recommend adding a full 18-ounce bottle to the fuel system to help eliminate knock and ping, engine run-on and restore lost performance. The cleaner is safe for use with all gasolines, including oxygenated and reformulated fuels. The product will not harm fuel system components, oxygen sensors or catalytic converters.

Keep your car running — even in the bitter cold

Battery capacity is greatly reduced in cold temperatures because of the cold's numbing effect on electrochemical action. This means the available cranking (starting) power diminishes when the temperature falls. For example, a fully charged battery in good working condition operating at 100% capacity (output) at 80 degrees will reduce to 40% capacity at 0 degrees. In other words, only 40% of your battery's rated capacity is available to start your vehicle.

Engine oil stiffens in cold temperatures and creates further strain on a battery for starting the engine. At 0 degrees, an engine requires twice the power to crank that it requires at 80 degrees when using S.A.E. 10W-30 multi-viscosity oil.

The combined effect of extreme cold with the increase in cranking load makes your car battery work the hardest when you need it the most.

Maintenance procedures

By following a regular maintenance routine, you will enhance the overall performance and life of your vehicle's battery and reduce mechanical wear on your engine's starting system. There are outlets, such as a specialty battery store, that have testing equipment and trained associates who can perform battery maintenance for you.

- Start with a visual inspection. Make sure the battery cables are secure and battery terminals are free of corrosion. If corrosion exists, clean terminals and cable ends with a wire brush and a solution of baking soda and water. After rinsing and drying, apply an anti-corrosive spray or pretreated terminal washers.

- Loose connections to the battery terminals should be tightened.

- Check vent caps. Missing or blocked vents can cause leakage, breakage, contamination or explosion.

- Check for build-up of acid or moisture on the cover. Excessive moisture around the posts can cause a battery to die because voltage will actually travel through the moisture and slowly discharge the battery. Also, keep the battery clean because dirt attracts moisture.

- Keep batteries fully charged to prevent freezing and possible breakage of the battery case. Don't let your vehicle sit for more than two weeks in the cold without running it.

- In batteries with removable service caps, check electrolyte levels. The electrolyte level should completely cover the separator plates. If the level is low, add distilled water to the battery making sure plates are covered.

- Perform basic battery maintenance twice a year.

- Before buying a new one, have your vehicle's battery load tested to determine if the battery is really the problem.

If possible, when the mercury drops to 0 degrees and below, store your vehicle in a heated garage. If not, there are other techniques to sustain your vehicle's battery in extreme cold weather.

For instance, when the temperature is predicted to fall, use an engine block heater to keep the engine oil warm enough to start your vehicle the next morning. Another alternative is to put a battery charger on your vehicle and leave it on overnight at a trickle-charge rate of 1 to 2 amps.

Redesigned vehicles score well with consumers: study

Volkswagen, General Motors and Toyota (including its Lexus division) have the greatest number of new vehicle models that consumers consider to be "most appealing," according to a just-released J.D. Power study.

The APEAL Study (Automotive Performance, Execution and Layout) asked nearly 88,000 new-vehicle owners what excites and delights them (or "things gone right") about their vehicle's features and design.

Volkswagen's Jetta, GTI, Passat and Beetle rank highest in their individual car segments, while the BMW 3 Series and 7 Series capture the entire luxury and premium luxury segments, respectively. The Chevrolet Corvette tops the premium sports car segment.

Among trucks, Toyota, Lexus and Honda models sweep the popular SUV segments. General Motors' new truck entries, the Chevrolet Silverado and GMC Sierra, captured the top two positions in the high-volume, full-size pickup segment. The GMC Savana ranks highest among full-size vans.

In addition, the Dodge Dakota continues its dominance in the compact pickup segment, ranking highest for the third year in a row. The newly redesigned Honda Odyssey is the top performer in the compact van segment.

"Although new and redesigned vehicles tend to stand out from other models, our trend data shows that this phenomenon is decreasing," said J.D. Power's Jacques daCosta. "Successful new model launches will be those that attract consumers with a balance of innovative styling, new technologies, vehicle performance and interior and safety features."

The 1999 APEAL study examined eight specific areas of vehicle performance and design: Vehicle Styling; Engine and Powertrain; Comfort and Convenience; Ride and Handling; Seats; Heating, Cooling and Ventilation; Cockpit and Instrument Panel; and Sound System.

The Volo Antique Auto Museum meets the needs of classic car collectors. More than 250 cars are on view in 150,000-square-feet of showroom.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

At the age of 55, Jim Brown has spent more than four decades restoring old cars. What began as a necessity has grown to become a life-long hobby for the Wildwood resident.

Brown's addiction to car restoring and collecting began when he was 13-years-old. His first effort was in 1958 or '59. It was so long ago that the details are getting fuzzy. The car was a 1951 Ford Custom that he bought for $50.

He took that first piece of "road iron" apart and lowered it to 2 inches off the ground. The result was a "good old-fashioned hot rod," Brown said as he beamed with pride.

"Back then you could pull things off one car (from different years), put it on another and do it all again," he said.

Brown believes that over the years he has restored about 50 vehicles, each requiring varying degrees of attention and work.

He was showing his latest recreation at the car rally during Gurnee Days in August: a 1968 Pontiac GTO that he discovered in an Island Lake cornfield. The car had a smashed front end and no trunk. It took Brown two-and-a-half years at five nights a week to restore the vehicle. He believes he has spent $12,000 on parts and materials and the Volo Antique Auto Museum has appraised the vehicle at $18,000, though he said he wouldn't take less than $23,000 for it.

Frank Elgas of Beach Park is a late-comer to collecting and restoring cars. In fact, he sold two other toys—his pickup truck and travel-trailer—so that he could buy his first project, a 1966 Chevrolet Impala Super Sport.

"I've always wanted one and I never had the money," Elgas said. He added that he hadn't been using his travel-trailer much, so the decision was easier than he thought.

Elgas has mainly made small updates to his cruiser. For example, he replaced the clock

South Dakota in July. The show is a large one, with six Impala clubs from around the country gathering.

Though Brown and Elgas represent opposite ends of the spectrum, people collect and restore cars for different reasons.

Greg Grams and his family run the Volo

Grams wrote this in the Museum's newsletter: "During the last generation, collectible cars have increased in value some 1,000 percent. Not bad. But as always, the ownership of a collectible car should be a matter of heart and not a cold calculation of future growth."

For Bob and Nancy Riley, the motivation was one thing: The need for speed. The Rileys bought a car that has parts from two cars—a 1965 Chevrolet Chevelle and a 1966 Nova. The pair drove the car back from California and spent 10 months restoring the vehicle and adding some racing touches. The Rileys have 40 hours in body work alone invested in the car.

Bob Riley said he rebuilt the chassis, added rack and pinion steering and struts to the front end. He also replaced the glass and rubber stripping.

"I want the interior to be stock. I want the car to appear as it did from the factory, but I want the big motor and big wheels for drag

Lake County car collectors motivated by love of chrome, appreciative stares in the dashboard with a tachometer, detailed the engine and painted it, replaced the seat foam and covers, replaced the trunk and glove box wiring as well as the emblems on the car.

In all, he has worked two to three nights a week for five years on the car, which has a 306-cubic-inch engine and packs 325 horsepower.

Elgas is proud of the car and travels with it to shows throughout the midwest, including the National Impala Association's 20th Anniversary rally in Spearfish Antique Auto Museum. He said that collecting classic cars has been something of a roller coaster ride in recent years, but that it is considered a much more steady investment lately.

The museum has people visiting from across the country each weekend to view his inventory of more than 250 cars, all for sale. To keep the inventory fresh, Grams said the museum buys and sells cars on a daily basis, with an average of 70 new cars a month becoming part of the inventory.

The car has a 434 cubic-inch-displacement engine, is powered partly by a nitrous fog system. Ceramic exhaust adds to the race feel. The car has been restored for the Riley's pleasure, as it isn't completely set for competitive racing. In fact, one racetrack allowed him to take a lap or two, but he couldn't fully participate because the car does not have a roll bar.

For Brown, there are several benefits he derives from restoring the old cars. One is the feeling he gets from constantly improving them. "You're always finding things to improve," he said. He said he has devoted a great deal of time, effort and money to his GTO. He spent three months and $400 searching for a power antenna for the car. Originally the antenna came with the car's stereo radio as a $160 option. The whole idea of investing countless hours and $12,000 into a car that sold 31 years ago for $3,980 may sound like a bit too much, but Brown says it's worth it.

Another big reason he does it is it's all he's known. "I grew up with it, I love it," he said. The hobby was also born of necessity. Brown said that repairing his first few cars was the only way he was going to get transportation. "That was the only way I could get around—buy a car no one else wanted and fix it up," he said.

He said his parents didn't have the money to buy him a car, so he learned to be resourceful. What Brown's parents couldn't give him, he has worked to give his children. Though his older kids aren't much into the cars, his younger son is, though Brown believes he still asks him to do too much of the work.

Brown's 30-year-old daughter Melissa Phillips of Wisconsin is much more of a do-it-yourselfer. He is proud of the fact that she can tear apart an engine and put it back together.

One of Brown's biggest motivations is the reaction he gets in the form of looks and comments from strangers. "This is it, people love it," he said.

Sometimes we all need a little help.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY HOUSING

Splendor in the White House?

I am so sorry, readers. I owe you an apology. I suddenly realized that you expect the worst from me as a member of the "media," and when it comes to Campaign 2000, I have not been giving it to you!

Here it is, more than a year away from the next election, and I have not written a single word about any of the possible candidates yet. How can I do a proper job of boring you to death with repetitive stories and endless speculation (known back in Shakespeare's time as "Much ado about nothing...") unless I get started now?

So, let me begin. And what better candidate to begin with than a non-candidate from Tinseltown!

As some of you may be aware, there has been a recent media frenzy surrounding speculation that Warren Beatty may run for political office. Somewhere a rumor got started—maybe by Warren, maybe his publicist, or maybe his maid (who may have overheard him say to his wife, "I'm going to run"—meaning he was going for a jog). Though no one knows where the rumor began, what keeps the buzz going is that while he has not said publicly that he IS going to run for President, he has yet to announce that he ISN'T.

This could just be an old actor's trick, as in "any publicity is good publicity," but let's assume, for the purpose of some easy column material, that Warren Beatty IS seriously considering a bid to be the Democratic candidate for President. This is not that crazy of an idea, since the American people have already demonstrated that they are willing and able to put a movie star, his actress wife and her astrologer in the White House.

Besides, in our current scandal-digging political climate, Warren Beatty could just be the perfect candidate to replace President Clinton. It seems reasonable to assume that the American people will be loathe to elect, in the year 2000, another supposedly happily-married man who may not have had his fill of groupies and designing women. Which is why Warren Beatty might be just the ticket.

Here's a guy who up until a few years ago, managed to remain Hollywood's ultimate swinging single, and had so many women that his famous sister, Shirley MacLaine, once quipped that maybe she should sleep with Warren just to see what all the fuss is about.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Ahear

Here's a guy who, if elected and approached by a thong-flashing bimbo in the White House, would probably just yawn and say, "Been there. Done that."

Here's a guy whose dating history, and the fact that according to past press, he remained friends with many of his previous "amours," provides him with a built-in constituency, consisting of the roughly 9 million women he dated prior to his marriage to Annette Bening.

Also, Beatty has an advantage that not even Reagan enjoyed. While Reagan's claim to movie fame included stints as a football player and a companion to a monkey, Mr. Beatty recently starred as "Bulworth," sort of an outrageous Presidential candidate who wins over the American public by sheer damn-the-consequences honesty.

Come to think of it, the character of "Bulworth" doesn't seem far-fetched when you consider Jesse Ventura, the current outspoken and rather outrageous governor of Minnesota.

Not only that, but Warren has an additional advantage in the form of his lovely wife, Annette Bening. Is it sheer coincidence that she also starred in a movie about the presidency, where she played a woman who dates and then marries the president?

Or is it perhaps part of a well-designed plan by Mr. and Mrs. Beatty to cut their teeth on some REAL acting politics at the White House level?

Or maybe I'm just trying to figure out ways to get to the end of this column.

Regardless, I must admit that I am enjoying entertaining the possibility of a candidacy by former Hollywood stud muffin, Warren Beatty. It would make Campaign 2000 much more fun when you think there might be a candidate from the Democratic party who has more stage presence than a turnip.

Personally, I'm keeping my fingers crossed.

Questions or comments for humorist Donna Ahear can be sent to P.O. Box 391, Antioch, IL 60002.

The cost is $10 inclusive and babysitting is available at no charge. Please call 382-1202 by Oct. 11 to make reservations. Sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Christian Women's Club.

MUSIC

Polish heritage recital

This recital will feature Lester Germann, pianist, Polish composers: Dlugoraj, Michael of Krakow, Reys, Cato, Bohdanowicz, Szymanowska, Kurpinski, Oginski, Chopin, Moniuszko, Wieniawski, Nowowiejski, Paderewski, Szymanowski, Tansman, Bacewicz, Germann. This musical presentation is Sunday October 10, at 3 p.m., at the Chopin theatre, 1543 W. Division St., Chicago. For more information call 773-287-1500.

'Swingtime at Triton'

On Sunday, October 10, the Italian American War Veterans of the United States, Inc (post 2) will present the musical variety show "Swingtime" featuring the great Bill Porter with his orchestra and friends at the Triton College Auditorium in River Grove at 2 PM. Tickets are priced at $20 at the door and $17.50 in advance.

'Dracula' sighting at Williams Bay campus

Count Dracula is coming to Williams Bay, Wis. The campus of George Williams Lake Geneva, part of Aurora University, will come "alive" with the mystery of mysteries "Dracula" Friday through Sunday, Oct. 22-24.

The historical campus buildings and the out-of-doors lakefront will provide the setting for the drama. The cast is part of the Crimson Twilight performing arts series.

"Dracula" has been described by critics as a play for people "who like their coffee strong."

The campus administration building will be turned into the home of Dr. Seward. Seward's daughter, Lucy, has taken ill with a strange anemia. Dr. Van Helsing, a specialist in obscure diseases, comes to the aid of the Seward family and Lucy's fiancé Jonathan Harker.

Suspecting a vampire bite, the doctor uncovers Count Dracula as the vampire. Audience members can expect to experience thrills and chills as they "creep" through the campus to the outdoor "graveyard" at the lakefront for the final scene. Seward, Van Helsing and Harker will search the grounds for the infamous vampire and his liar, making a breathtaking discovery at the lake.

Cast members include: from Lake Geneva, Jim Hay as Dr. Van Helsing and Glenn Norgren as Dr. Seward; and from Whitewater, Phil Williamson as the infamous Count Dracula.

Other cast members include: Julie Beroukas of Lake Geneva as Lucy Seward; Dustin Williamson of Whitewater as Jonathan Harker; John Kelly of Elkhorn as R.M. Renfield, a sanitarium patient; Shana Beroukas of Lake Geneva as the maid Miss Wells; and Dave Dietrich of Walworth as the attendant Butterworth.

The show begins daily at 7:30 p.m. It is considered suitable for most ages. Parents should use discretion regarding attendance by very young children. Tickets are $12 for adults and $10 for children or seniors. Due to limited seating and the show's popularity, tickets often sell out. Recommendations are recommended. Tickets and reservations can be obtained by phoning 414-245-8580 (or use the new area code 262) Monday through Thursdays 8 a.m.-8 p.m. and Fridays 8 a.m.-1 p.m. Visa and master-card are accepted.—By Michael H. Ninth annual Halloween event opens October 9

As autumn waves her dreary hand and gloomy skies darken the landscape, Six Flags Great America undergoes its annual transformation for its month-long Halloween extravaganza, Fright Fest. The Midwest's largest Halloween party opens October 9, featuring Looney Tunes Spooky Town, an expanded entertainment area for children. Also new for the event's ninth season are Serpent Safari, an educational exhibit of giant snakes and reptiles; the return of the super-bizarre Horror Circus, and a new haunted house, Brutal Planet.

During Fright Fest, Six Flags Great America takes on a new aura and "attitude" wrought by thousands of props, facades, decorations and special effects that change the 100-acre theme park into a spectacularly creepy autumn festival. Every aspect of the Park changes for Fright Fest, when hundreds of ghouls, monsters, street performers and zombies provide fright at every turn. Special entertainment for both children and adults varies from educational to hilarious to mysterious. The usual collection of thrill rides and roller coasters combines with these extensive theatrical effects, special Halloween-related shows and attractions, haunted houses and characters to create an all-encompassing Halloween experience for all ages.

Fright Fest will be heralded by the late-September arrival of Tiny, a 40-foot inflated spider that perches on the latticework of the American Eagle roller coaster along Interstate 94.

'Three Kings' bears the gift of a good movie

Director/writer David O. Russell takes a shot at the rare Gulf War genre and scores a direct hit with Three Kings.

The movie starts off in the middle of a celebration marking the end of the conflict in Iraq in 1991. During a routine inspection of Iraqi prisoners, Sergeant Troy Barlow (Mark Wahlberg) and Private Conrad Vig (Spike Jonze) find a map sticking out from a body cavity of a prisoner.

Barlow and Vig then take the map to Chief Elgin (Ice Cube) to try and decipher its meaning. When Major Archie Gates (George Clooney), just two weeks from retirement, gets wind of the map's existence, he and the other three soldiers conspire to steal the gold from Saddam Hussein, who stole it from Kuwait.

"Saddam stole it from Kuwait, I have no problem stealing it from Saddam" said Gates.

During the subsequent search of an Iraqi village, they see the mistreatment of Iraqi rebels, who were left to hang by George Bush and the U.S. Armed Forces.

There is then a moral conflict over whether the four men should take the gold and run, or stay back to help the rebels.

This film has a very effective blend of action, comedy and drama.

In a rarity, the action isn't gratuitous. It actually serves a purpose. The action is the antagonist that keeps the rest of the movie going. Without the action, this movie would have been about 45 minutes long.

The comedy becomes very effective by using character humor and clever cut-aways to the soldiers' lives back in America. The character humor was mostly provided by Vig (Jones) who played an insecure, morose southerner whose "day job" was blasting stuffed animals off the top of an old car with a shotgun.

Although it is part action and part comedy, the drama is perhaps the strongest and most effective part of Three Kings. The moral dilemma that occurs when the four soldiers witness the torture and atrocities toward the rebels is both stimulating and shocking.

Another dramatic scene comes during the interrogation of Barlow by an Iraqi loyalist. When the soldier describes the suffering he goes through because of the U.S. bombing of his home, Barlow appears to be horrified. Indeed so was I.

The most riveting part of this movie had nothing to do with the plot—it was the cinematography, which deserves an Academy Award.

The slow-motion camera work during the battle scenes was superb as were the scenes in which they show what the human midsection looks like while being ripped apart by a bullet.

The Oscar hype for this movie is not unfounded. Three Kings will certainly get some nominations, most likely for cinematography and best picture. Then again, a lot can happen between now and early February, when nominations will be revealed.

I give Three Kings four and a half out of five popcorn boxes.

THEATRE REVIEW

High-steppin' 'Fosse' a flamboyant show

Bob Fosse died in 1987 but the award-winning dancer, director and choreographer left behind a brilliant legacy.

In Fosse, choreographed by Chet Walker and Ann Reinking and directed by Richard Maltby Jr. and Reinking, Fosse's distinctive style is faithfully re-created. The production, at Chicago's Ford Center for the Performing Art through Dec. 5, stars Riva Rice and Linda Bowen

and features Terace Jones, Julio Monge and April Nixon. They, and 23 cast members, put on a terrific show.

Dance numbers—some energetic and intricately involving, others lumbering but full of soul—are culled from Broadway musicals such as The Pajama Game, Damn Yankees and How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying. Sweet Charity, Chicago and Cabaret.

Throughout the fast-paced three-act show, Chicago-born Fosse's signature moves are very much in evidence, from the stack and the drip to the slouch and tea cup hands in which the white-gloved performers natively tip their hats.

I Gotcha, a hot number from Liza with a Z, sizzles. In Mr. Bojangles (from Dancin'), Monge puts his heart into the doleful song about a sown-and-out-traveling dancer, performed by Cassel Miles along with Jones as a spirit dancer. Fosse builds to a rousing finale with some fine stepping to Benny Goodman's Sing, Sing, Sing. But there's also plenty of momentum in Rich Man's Frug for Sweet Charity. Ticket information is available at 312-902-1400.

Shopping for windows? Here's what to look for and what to watch Windows play an integral role in home construction and remodeling projects. They can improve a home's energy efficiency, enhance a home's architectural design and provide essential daylighting.

Window-shopping, however, can be a trying time for some consumers, especially considering the maze of choices, widely varying price ranges and conflicting sales pitches. Experts at Andersen Windows, Inc., America's leading brand of windows and patio doors, offer consumers these window-shopping tips to simplify the process:

- Work with trained window experts. Trained window experts will help you understand a window's performance, answer questions about energy efficiency, and provide sound advice about remodeling projects.
- Choose high-quality windows with a reliable warranty.

What a customer sales representative promises and what a warranty's fine print promises may be two different things. Windows are only as good as the warranty that comes with them. Andersen Windows provides a 20-year warranty on glass and a 10-year warranty on parts that is non-prorated and fully transferable should you sell your home giving homeowners an additional bargaining tool.

- Buy only energy-efficient windows carrying the National Fenestration Rating Council (NFRC) label.

The NFRC label rates a window's energy performance and allows consumers to make apples-to-apples comparisons regarding U-Factor and Solar Heat Gain Coefficient (SHGC). The lower the U-Factor, the better the window prevents interior heat from escaping; the lower the SHGC, the better the window prevents unwanted solar heat from entering.

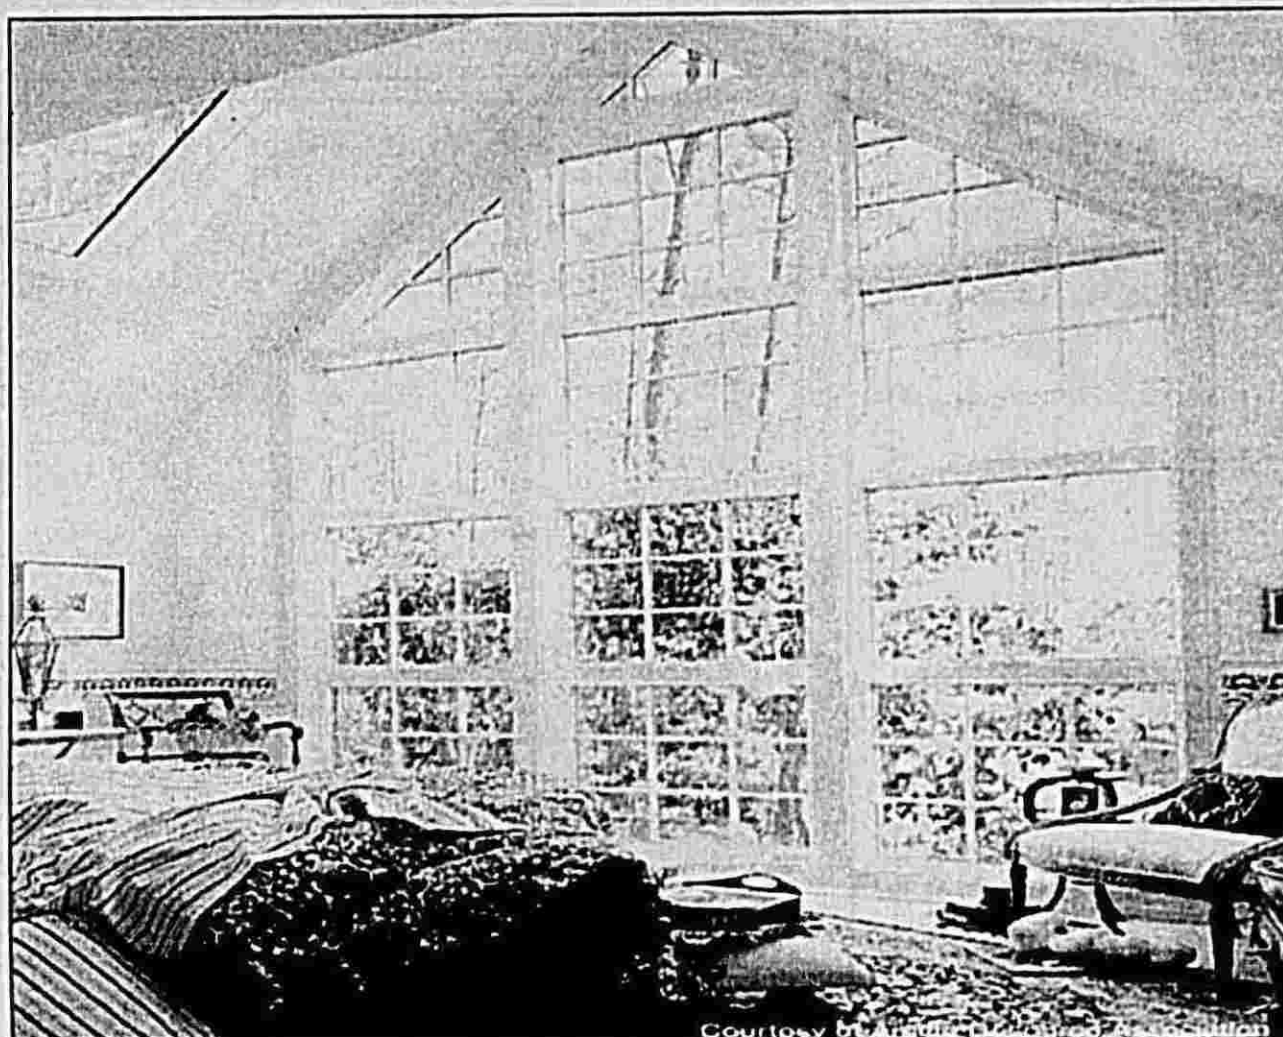

Many states are now requiring all window products to carry the NFRC label. Check your local building codes for proper compliance.

- Choose windows with low-emissivity (Low-E) glass for maximum energy efficiency. Low-E glass features transparent metallic coatings that significantly reduce heating and cooling costs year-round. Low-E glass is a standard component of most Andersen wood-clad products. In fact, Andersen High-Performance glass is, on average, 41 percent more energy efficient in summer and 35 percent more energy efficient in winter than standard dual-pane glass.

- Select energy-efficient windows that require minimal maintenance.

A clad wood window in either an aluminum or vinyl-coated exterior provides maximum energy efficiency, low maintenance and the beauty of a natural-wood interior finish, if desired. If homeowners prefer a painted interior, wood windows are easily painted to change the look of a home's interior.

- Maximize the light in your home with window combinations, skylights, high ceilings and light interiors.

Studies show that exposure to natural light has a positive effect on our emotional and physical health. But most people spend a majority of their time in artificially lit environments, receiving less than an hour of natural light a day. Not surprising, homeowners crave light-filled rooms, and adding windows is one of the most popular remodeling projects in the nation today.

Windows and skylights brighten and enhance living spaces, especially in homes with high ceilings and light-colored interiors. Using windows in interesting shapes such as arches, triangles and ovals is popular, or you may opt for a dramatic combination of standard-sized windows to bring in light.

"It is cost effective to take several standard windows and design a creative combination," said Stacy Einck, manager of brand public relations at Andersen Windows. "Combining stock windows in this way creates a custom look but eliminates costly special orders."

- Increase your home's curb appeal by designing special window combinations. A cluster of windows not only floods a room with natural light, but adds a unique design element that can pay off should you decide to sell. Windows also have become critical design elements to beautify a home's living environment.

- Consider window accessories to improve a home's style.

One of the most popular window accessories is grilles or mullions that give the look of dividing the window into many separate panes. A number of styles and designs are available, including exterior, interior and grilles-between-the-glass where the accessory is actually between the panes of insulated glass. Andersen offers a unique option in the Andersen Art Glass Collection, which features 11 original stained glass designs. This option is popular because you can use a window as a decorating tool without covering the window or blocking natural light. Andersen Art Glass panels fit most new or existing Andersen windows.

For a copy of the Andersen 20/10 limited warranty and more information about Andersen products, contact your local Andersen dealer listed under "windows" in the Yellow Pages, or call 1-800-426-4261, ext. 1232, for the dealer near you.

Spread the word and not the germs: A back to school lesson in handwashing for the whole family

As fall approaches and children are back to school, they can look forward to many great things: New classrooms and desks, playing on the monkey bars at recess, shooting basketball hoops in gym class, seeing their friends who have been away all summer... and picking up germs from all of them! Back-to-school time is the perfect time to encourage proper handwashing habits for the whole family.

Keeping hands clean is the most important means for preventing infectious diseases. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), these can include respiratory infections and gastrointestinal disorders. Teaching kids at home about proper handwashing helps them to maintain good habits and keeps them healthier as they return to school in the fall. Adults, too, could use a reminder so they can provide a good example for their children.

The first step is finding a hand soap that cleans properly and is effective for the whole family. "Liquid hand soap in a dispenser is a more sanitary and convenient way to wash up," says home-care expert Gerry Luepke. She suggests Clean & Smooth as an ideal hand soap for combating germs and dirt that children are picking up from school.

Since kids are busy with all kinds of activities at this time of year, they can easily forget about proper washing habits or about handwashing altogether. According to Luepke, "Simply stressing the importance of not spreading germs to their friends and family and making handwashing a fun activity will help to keep kids clean."

The best suggestion is to start early. A good system for pre-kindergarten or younger children is to wash hands for two verses of "Row, Row, Row Your Boat." With older children and teenagers, being up front about germs and the spread of disease should help them remember to keep their hands clean.

It is important for both kids and adults to know how and when to wash their hands, and to spread this knowledge to friends and family (instead of spreading germs!) Here are some helpful tips to ensure proper technique and timing.

How to Wash Hands Properly

- 1) Roll up long sleeves and remove any rings from fingers.
- 2) Using warm water, wet hands thoroughly.
- 3) Apply soap and wash completely, rubbing palms together, getting the tops of hands, in between fingers, and the wrists. After kids have been playing outside, in a sandbox or on a playground, for example, have them wash their forearms as well.

Germs are passed back and forth by contact between youngsters. Frequent hand washing can help.

- 4) Rinse hands well.
- 5) Dry hands with a disposable paper towel.
- 6) Using the paper towel, turn off the faucet and dispose of the towel.

When to Wash Your Hands

- Before
- Preparing food.
 - Eating.
 - Changing a diaper.
 - Fixing a wound or injury (yours or someone else's).
 - Handling an infant.
 - Inserting or removing contact lenses.

This is becoming increasingly important as more and more young children are wearing them. According to the American Optometric Association, about 25 Million Americans wear contact lenses. Of this grouping, ten percent are 16 or younger.

- After
- Using the bathroom.
 - Changing a diaper.
 - Handling uncooked foods, especially meat, poultry, or fish.
 - Playing with a pet.
 - Visiting someone who is ill.
 - Sneezing or blowing your nose.

• Whenever your hands do not feel clean!

As the Centers for Disease Control have noted, dirty hands are a key source in the spread of disease. Using an antibacterial soap, such as one made by Clean & Smooth, will further help to do away with these illness-causing germs. By using the simple tips mentioned above and maintaining good habits outside of the home, everyone should have a healthier and cleaner fall season.

For more tips and information contact Gerry Luepke at (800) 284-2023.

YMCA to celebrate Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Information is available about free mammograms and informational seminars.

The YMCA of Lake County ENCOREplus Program will be recognizing Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October by setting up educational sites across the county. ENCOREplus, a breast cancer and reproductive health program aimed at education and early detection of breast cancer, will be available to sign women up for free mammograms and educational seminars about woman's health.

"Early detection is the key to beating breast cancer," said Carol Carr, Program Manager of ENCOREplus. "Women who detect their cancer early have a 97 percent survival rate. Mammography and Breast Self Exam are absolutely vital for early detection and survival."

Breast Cancer is the most common form of cancer among women in the United States affecting one in eight American women. Women should receive their first mammogram between the ages of 35 and 40 and should receive an annual mammogram after 40. Breast Self Exam should be done each month and a Clinical Exam should be received each year.

The ENCOREplus Program provides free educational seminars to the community. The free seminars are available to community groups, churches, employees or any other group interested in how to effectively catch breast cancer at its earliest stages and saving women's lives.

For questions, to sign up for a free services or to schedule a free seminar, contact the YMCA ENCOREplus Program at 782-3142 or stop by the YMCA at 2133 Belvidere Rd., Waukegan.

Are the 10 Commandments really dangerous?

Hi Dr. Singer,

I know you don't usually handle questions on religion, but something happened that I was so angry about and I thought it would be interesting to get your take on it.

My 12-year-old daughter is in public school. Last week, she had a laminated copy of the 10 Commandments that we had gotten her. We had not instructed her to bring it to school specifically, but she felt like bringing it one day. Her teacher saw her talking about it with another child and confiscated it. The teacher told my daughter that she could pick it up at the end of the day at the office. My daughter was very upset because she felt like she had been scolded and when she told me, I had to keep calm outside for her sake, but was very upset inside. My daughter has learned about everything in school from gangs, to sex to Satanism. I am sickened by the fact that the 10 commandments are treated like illegal

PARENT'S PLACE

Old Fashioned Mom

Dear Old Fashioned Mom,

First, I don't think you should call yourself that because it certainly shouldn't be old-fashioned to want your child to be exposed to goodness. I am saddened and also upset by what you described in your call. While I understand the whole, "separation of church and state" thing, I also don't understand why every form of dreck is OK to teach our kids in school, but teaching anything having to do with being a good human being, following rules of decency and believing in a higher power is all but illegal. After all, the 10 Commandments, while they do have their roots in religion and God, really are about rules of decent living. We could all learn more about decent living. Having kids in school learn to follow decent rules would also not be a bad thing.

I think the main problem here is that anything related to religion in a school usually starts a firestorm of controversy for the school. There are groups of people who don't believe in God and also groups of people who feel that minority religious status would start terrible problems for their kids if religion was allowed into the schools. I can understand their position, but again, will say that I believe the 10 Commandments are about rules of decent living more than they are about religion or prayer. If your daughter were demanding time for organized class prayer, then I might understand the teacher's reaction a little better. Not that prayer is bad or wrong, but the debate over prayer in school has two sides and is heated. It is not something that public schools want to eagerly approach.

Although I really have no power here, I think that your daughter should be allowed to carry her laminated 10 Commandments in her folder or wallet. If the school has a problem with her making that public, it does seem to fly in the face of freedom of speech and religion, but if you fight for her rights to discuss those commandments on school grounds, you may be looking at a huge controversy and a huge fight. It might be more worth your while to look into enrolling your daughter in private, religious school. In that kind of setting, she could openly carry her 10 Commandments and probably have class discussion about them without controversy.

This society seems to be becoming more and more anti-faith, anti-religion and anti-God. As I said, it saddens me because there is certainly a plethora of information about evil everyday. Faith, God and religion, in their true form, are all about living a decent life and treating others as you would like to be treated. I frankly see nothing wrong with this and believe our world could use a little bit more of it. Public school may not be the place for it though. Tell your daughter for me that I am very pleased that she is interested in the 10 commandments enough to discuss them.

Condell's Auxiliary's 1999 benefit gala to Ride Into Millennium

Guests will "Ride Into the Millennium" in style at Condell Medical Center's Eighth annual Benefit Gala. Set for Saturday, November 6, at Twin Orchard Country Club in Long Grove, this fantastic evening will feature an outstanding Silent Auction highlighting wonderful methods of travel and vacation destinations. The new band, Indigo, will provide entertainment and music for dancing.

Sponsored by The Auxiliary of Condell Medical Center, the benefit Gala grows more successful, continuing to benefit the hospital in its ongoing commitment to deliver quality medical service to the residents of Lake County.

This year, The auxiliary is focusing on the transport needs of senior citizens and physically challenged children. Funds raised by the 1999 Gala have been dedicated to the purchase of a specially equipped, handicapped-accessible van for people needing outpatient services and for the Condell Day Center for Intergenerational Care. Funds will also be donated to Eric's Place, an accessible playground recently constructed on Condell's Libertyville campus to serve children with special needs.

According to Gala chairpersons, Dr. Steve and Sandra Marquardt, the list of exciting Silent Auction items just keeps growing. Kerry Luitgaarden, Silent Auction chairperson, said that a top auction item is a four-seater Paddle Wheeler 111 from Ahlstrand Marine, Mundelein, which carries out the Gala's travel theme.

The growing Silent Auction list also includes:

- Windstar seven-nights Caribbean Cruise for two
- Two round-trip tickets to anywhere in the contiguous United States from American Airlines
- Seven nights in two-bedroom condo in Silver Thorn (Keystone area), Colorado
- Tropical vacation for two in Montego Bay, Jamaica with airfare and accommodations from Classic Travel of Vernon Hills, Apple Vacations and Comfort Inn & Suites.
- Deluxe Sky Box for a Chicago Bulls game from AT&T, Broadband & Internet Services
- Four Days and nights in Deer Valley, Utah from Dr. and Mrs. Walid Ghantous

Two unique auction items feature a "Day in Springfield" with State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis and a "Page for a Day" in the House of Representatives, a gift from State Representative Andrea Moore.

For more information and reservations, call The Auxiliary of Condell Medical Center at 362-2905, ext. 5540.

Asthma and dorm living: A 14-point survival guide

Poorly managed asthma during college can interfere with career choices and claim lives. Each year, students with asthma die; most often, the deaths were preventable. The athlete who forgot to carry his inhaler while jogging; the 19-year-old who collapsed and died in the front yard of a party she left because people were smoking; the honors student who became intoxicated, had an attack, passed out and died alone in his room while searching for his inhaler—these tragedies can be avoided.

As students with asthma are off to college, the Allergy and Asthma Network • Mothers of Asthmatics, Inc. (AAN•MA), offers the following survival guide to prevent asthma symptoms from interfering in college life. Allergens, irritants and respiratory illness associated with campus living can be kept to a minimum with careful planning.

1. Obtain an updated, written asthma management plan from your allergist before leaving for college. New medications, such as inhaled corticosteroid and non-sedating antihistamines, fight symptoms without unwanted side effects, in particular the drowsiness associated with over-the-counter antihistamines.

2. Keep dorm room clutter to a minimum; no upholstered furniture or secondhand rugs as these are filled with allergens.

3. If there are bunk beds, take the top level to avoid inhaling bedding dust from your roommate each night.

4. Use a HEPA room air filter, encase bedding with dust mite-proof covers, and wash sheets and blankets weekly to keep your room as free of dust mites and other airborne particles as possible.

5. Avoid social situations where you know you will be exposed to cigarette or other types of smoke.

'Cutting Out' Breast Cancer

Stylists for Salon Millennium will be cutting, styling and primping for a cure on the weekend of Saturday, October 8 and Sunday, October 9 — to help find a cure for breast cancer that is. Salon Millennium, 727 Elm Street, Winnetka, will take part in "Hopecuts '99," a beauty celebration that benefits City of Hope's Walk for Hope Against Breast Cancer. Twenty-five percent of the proceeds raised will support breast cancer research at City of Hope National Medical Center and Beckman Research Institute.

Stylists, technicians and aestheticians from Salon Millennium will offer customers the chance to receive top-rate salon services while benefiting breast cancer research. These services include haircuts, hair styling, hair coloring, manicures, pedicures, massages and facials. To make an appointment, please call 441-0057.

City of Hope is conducting a number of promising clinical trials that are helping to redefine the standards of care for breast cancer patients at medical centers nationwide. This research involves establishing innovative breast cancer research protocols including bone marrow transplantation, new anti-cancer drugs, radiotherapy, breast conserving surgery, gene therapy, immunologic treatments and quality-of-life studies that address the mental and emotional trauma experienced by many women and their families.

Education program for care givers scheduled

'Understanding and caring for the person with Alzheimer's' series held

All sessions will be held from 7:00 p.m. till 8:30 p.m. at the Sheridan Health Care Center.

Session 1: Alzheimer's Disease and Activities of Daily Living—Wednesday, October 13. In this session you will learn how to assist your loved one with normal activities of daily living like bathing, dressing, eating, and toileting. Issues involving safety, mobility and self medication will be highlighted. Creative techniques utilizing the person's remaining abilities and strengths will be shared. These can ease the strain that often accompanies these issues and allow more effective, efficient and safe care giving.

Session 2: Taking Care of Yourself and Other Family Members—Wednesday, October 20. Caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's Disease is not only physically challenging, but can strain emotions within the family structure. In this final session, care givers will be given suggestions on how to set realistic goals and expectations for themselves, cope with the changes in their lives, and how to respond to the various reactions that are common among family members and friends.

Equal pay for equal work? Really?

I like to read, and one of my favorite recreational reads is Marilyn vos Savant's column in the newspaper's Sunday Parade magazine. It's called, "Ask Marilyn" and features her answers to reader's provocative questions.

The columns vos Savant writes are witty, insightful and entertaining. I enjoy them though they seldom contain anything about small business.

This may come as a shock to Hillary Clinton fans, but vos Savant is listed in the "Guinness Book of World Records" Hall of Fame as the female with the "Highest IQ." There really is a world's smartest woman. Maybe, Hillary grew up in the wrong village. Sorry, I digress.

Recently, a reader wrote to "Ask Marilyn" with a question about why women are paid less than men for equal work. Here is an excerpt from vos Savant's reply: "Consider this: If their work is equal, why aren't employers slashing their payroll costs by hiring women instead of men? In a free market, businesses are highly competitive, and if they are paying men more than they pay women - by any percentage - there must be a reason."

Think about this

I found the above statement very thought provoking. I favor equal pay for equal work. It's fair, honest and it's common sense.

However, it doesn't always work that way. Gender gaps still exist. The latest figures I recall hearing is that women are averaging between 75 and 80 percent of what men are earning in the same jobs.

There are several possible explanations. One reason may be a woman's willingness to accept less. Some may feel that a job with only average pay is better than no job at all.

Another reason may be that some women have less experience than their associates. For example, women who stay home to raise children, may find that their male counterparts kept current with technology, industry developments and relationships.

A third explanation may be that management is still a male dominated arena. Some managers may just feel more comfortable with other men in leadership roles. I think this is particularly true with managers who are less confident and competent. They may feel intimidated by bright, able and aggressive women.

Another possibility may be the law of supply and demand. As more and more women poured into the workforce in the 70's, 80's and 90's, the increasing supply may have contributed to lower wages.

What is equal work?

While most of us support equal pay for equal work, the tough question is, "What is equal work?" Consider these examples. First, two fourth-grade schoolteachers. Equal work justifying equal pay? In reality one teacher loves the students, spends untold hours preparing special projects and challenges the students daily. The other is just marking time until retirement.

Another example. Two truck drivers, same number of years of service and miles driven. Equal

Businesses told to check insurance

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Insurance is surrounding everyone in one form or another—from obvious coverage for your family, to sporting events.

That's the word from Phil Delany of Delany Insurance in addressing the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry's monthly morning meeting at the Maplethorpe Community Room within the Community Building in the Community Building.

"You find insurance anywhere you go," Delany, a veteran of 14 years in the insurance business, explained. "From a hole in one on a golf course to a $1 million shot at a basketball game. It's all covered by insurance."

In a homeowners policy, a $200,000 valued home, for example, will be insured in several parts. One would be the contents, which is generally insured for 70 percent of the home value, or $140,000. Detached structures usually comprise 10 percent of value, or $20,000 and loss of use would make up 20 percent, or $40,000. Add it all up, and there is $400,000 worth of value, which may cost anywhere from $350-$500 to cover, according to Delany.

There is a liability section within most policies that help cover the homeowner in the event of a lawsuit from a third party. Generally, this includes coverage from $300,000 to $500,000, depending upon the policy and the premiums.

"The insurance company is able to take the small dollars and pool them which enables them to pay out large amounts of money in the event of a claim," Delany said.

In the case of business owners, there are two ways to go, according to Delany. Either a tailored protection plan (TPP), or a general business owners policy.

The TPP is used more with large business owners and manufacturers where different facets of the insurance can be combined into one policy.

For small businesses, the contents are considered when coming up with a rating. The amount of exposure to liability a business could have is also taken into account.

The two areas are looked at for the smaller business, and the insurance agent then makes recommendations based upon the figures, liability and other considerations.

"We'll make sure to cover the contents of the business in the event of a loss, plus we'll look at the liability risk in case someone slips and falls in the business, or in the case of a plumbing or carpentry business, when you're out in the community doing a lot of your jobs," Delany explained. "We look at the contents and the exposure, then come up with a rating."

"There's a larger risk for a restaurant which has property, gross sales and theft of money," Delany said, noting this business would be better off using the TPP. "There's greater risk involved, which may result in higher premiums."

"You can put smaller business options under one dollar amount, such as glass fixtures and software, which would be available under certain endorsements on the policy," Delany said.

Most businesses—and homeowners—may want to make sure their policy includes coverage for "replacement cost" rather than a cash value.

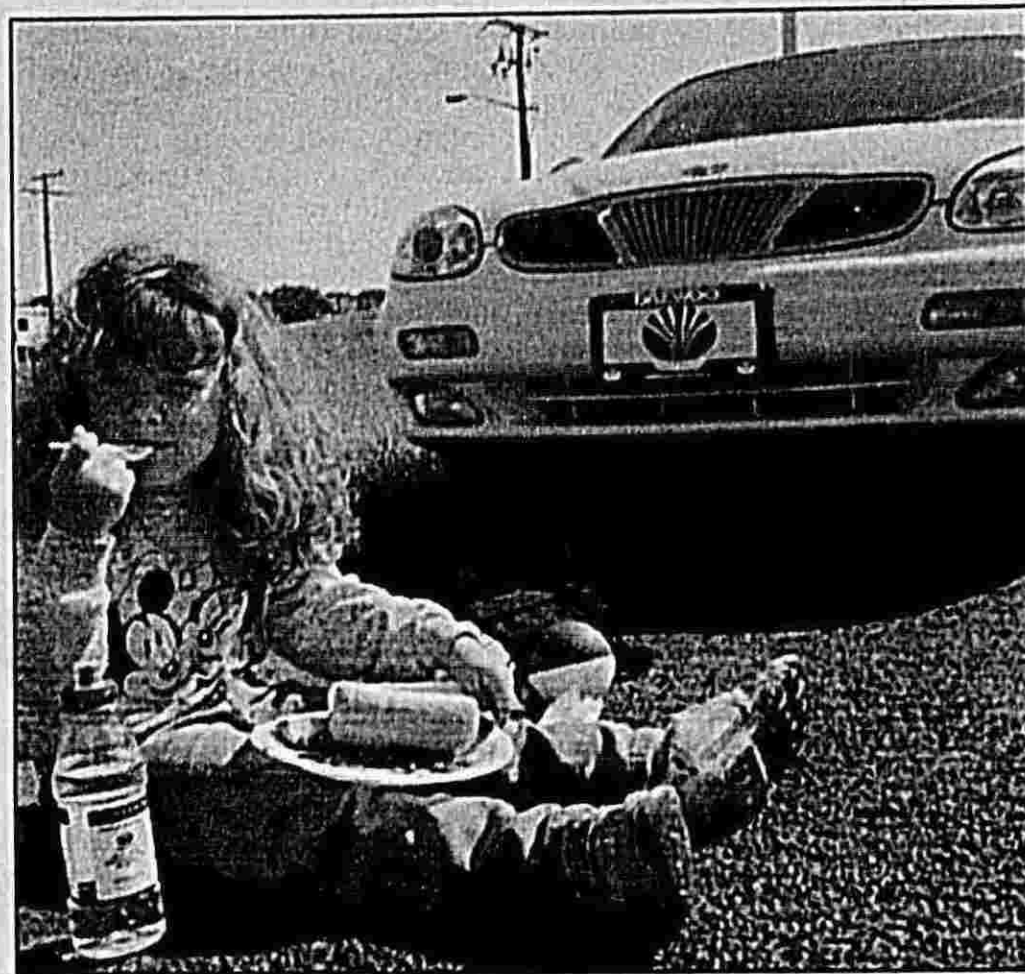

An example is a restaurant owner who may have a lot of equipment that has depreciated. The cash value may be considerably less than if the owner had a complete loss of the business and wished to rebuild. Taking the cash value might end up several hundred thousand dollars less than what is needed to get back into business.

"Losses often times occur at peak seasons," Delany revealed. "That's when your taxing your facilities, your workers are the busiest and things might slip by. This should be taken into account when coming up with a policy in case you suffer a loss."

Delany recommends checking with one's agent if there are any questions.

"If you don't have coverage for something and you're concerned about it, you can usually get the coverage for a nominal cost," Delany added. "Make sure to check your limits of liability."

Delany is a lifelong Antioch resident, having graduated from St. Peter's Grade School, Antioch Community High School and Northern Illinois University in DeKalb. Delany is active on the ACHS board and in various civic and community organizations.

Lake County Partners picks Creative Technical Services as agency

Creative Technical Services, a full service marketing and communication agency, owned and operated by Deborah Fliehm, has been selected by Lake County Partners as its agency of record.

Since 1987, Creative Technical Services has serviced the corporate environment with business-to-business services. Clients include Allegiance, Baxter, Tenneco Automotive, Arthur Andersen, and MacLean-Fogg Company. Creative Technical Services provides marketing and communication consulting and planning, marketing and advertising material development and production, corporate identity, journal ad placement, direct mail, training and education, and web site design and implementation.

Creative Technical Services is also a distributor of promotional and advertising specialties.

David Young, president of Lake County Partners announced, "We have charged Creative Technical Services with several key marketing initiatives that will enhance and strengthen our presence in Lake County, expand our current membership, and broaden our ability to service groups interested or involved in business development, marketing, and economic growth."

Included in the first order of business is the development of a three to five-year marketing plan, as well as a new corporate identity for Lake County Partners which will be unveiled at the First Annual Meeting for Members, Nov. 18 at the Marriott Lincolnshire. An extensive recruitment for new members is underway which will expand the current membership roster.

Navy project to create efficiency, jobs during 10-year construction

Hundreds of new jobs will be created with work being spread over 10 years in a massive works project to kick off next spring at Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

All told, $700 million is ticketed to improve recruit training facilities. Ground will be broken this spring for the first of two new drill halls to replace current drill facilities erected in 1942. At that time, a five-year life span was envisioned for the wartime structures.

Cost of each drill hall, big enough to house 1,000 recruits for training and indoor graduation plus their attending families, will be $11 million each.

Planned for 2001 will be the first of 15 new barracks to total $600 million during the next decade.

The barracks will be designed along a "total living-training" concept where both female and male recruits will sleep, eat, train and study. traditional mess halls are being eliminated in the development plan.

Each barracks will contain a galley where food prepared in a central kitchen will be served.

Recruits will leave their barracks only for specialized training.

Capt. Craig Hanson, commanding officer of recruit training, said everything is being designed to make the 9 1/2 week training cycle more efficient.

Other highlights of the construction program include a physical fitness facility, $11 million; support center and Battle Stations facility, $45-$50 million, where recruits undergo an intensive 12 hour involvement in simulated shipboard emergency experiences, prior to graduation.

Bulk of the upgrading will be at Camp Porter on the south side of Buckley Rd. Already under construction at Camp Moffett is a $20 million center for induction procedures and the swimming pool. Moffett is on the north side of Buckley Rd.

State helps builders

Lt. Gov. Corrine Wood said Illinois policy is to promote development and business success while protecting wildfire and natural resources, preserving open space, supporting infrastructure and creating high-quality lifestyle. Wood spoke at a meeting of Home Builders Association of Lake and McHenry counties headed by Mark Buschman, left, of Lake County, and Tom Stephani, right, of McHenry County.

TAYLOR: Equal pay examined work justifying equal pay? One driver has a spotless safety record, spends hours maintaining the employer's truck and has driving habits that save the owner nearly 10 percent in fuel cost each year. The other has had two accidents in the past two years and drives the dickens out of the truck. Are both worth the same money?

One more scenario. Two retail clerks with the same experience and education. One is customer service focused, the other is looking for a real job. Are both worth the same pay?

Equal pay for equal work is a good concept that is very difficult to administer fairly. Not all employees are created equal, and not all equal work is equal. Therefore, I think our free-market system has done pretty well. Yes, there is still room for improvement, and we all should work for that.

Additional I-PASS only lanes planned for Cermak, Irving Park

Road warriors beware: the Illinois Tollway Board of Directors has taken additional steps to significantly reduce traffic congestion and speed motorist movement through two heavily utilized toll plazas on the central Tri-State. This will be accomplished with a doubling of existing I-PASS Only Lane capacity at the Cermak Road and Irving Park Road Toll Plazas. I-PASS only lanes enable I-PASS motorists to pass through mainline toll plazas without stopping to pay tolls. The $617,000 contract to construct the lanes was awarded to Divane Brothers Electric Company out of Franklin Park.

I-PASS only lanes are capable of processing 1,850 cars per hour during peak travel times. Standard automatic lanes can process about 80 cars per hour with the gates in the gates in the upright position. Manual collection lanes can process about 300 cars per hour.

CPA Society pro bono division helps nonprofits

Finding funding sources has always been a challenge for not-for-profit organizations. The number of not-for-profit organizations is on the rise, while funding sources and contributions are on the decline, which results in a larger number of nonprofits vying for a cut of a smaller financial pie. As a way to assist not-for-profit organizations, the Illinois CPA Society's pro bono division — CPAs for the Public Interest (CPA SPI) — recently introduced its new, comprehensive series of financial management seminars.

On October 14, CPASPI will host its "QuickBooks for Nonprofits" workshop. The class, which falls under the "Beyond Basic Recordkeeping" category of the CPASPI Financial Management Workshops series, will cover QuickBooks' most attractive features.

All CPASPI Financial Workshops will be held at the Illinois CPA Society/Foundation/CPASPI office. For more information call 312-993-0393 or 800/998-0393 with Illinois.

Keeping food safe

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Gary Roberts has spent most of his life in the restaurant business.

During 43 years in the restaurant business, Roberts has worked across the country for national food chains such as Howard Johnsons and Chi Chis. More recently, he worked for two years at a Morton's steakhouse in downtown Chicago before moving to Grayslake and opening his own business, the Last Chance Saloon and Cafe.

For any restaurant owner, a health department inspection can be a frightening experience. But, Roberts said that has not been the case since opening up shop in Lake County five years ago.

"One of the things I like about the health department in Lake County is they are helpful. I've been places where they're not. You could have one french fry on the floor and they'd close you down. (Here), they look for the causes of foodborne illness," Roberts said.

The sentiments Roberts expresses are not uncommon among restaurant owners in Lake County. The health department's food inspection program has won praise not only

Burning 'ban' passes committee

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

A plan to restrict leaf burning in unincorporated areas of Lake County was approved by a County Board committee and is expected to go to the full board for consideration Oct. 12.

The proposed leaf burning restrictions would ban leaf burning during the summer months and restrict burning to certain days during other times of the year.

"I think the sheriff's department's got better things to do than be the leaf police"

Judy Martini

The County Board's Health and Human Services Committee adopted the restrictions at its Oct. 4 meeting. Chairman Audrey Nixon said the full board may vote on the issue at this month's regular meeting.

"It will be up to the board what they decide to do," she said.

The committee recommendation stopped short of a total ban on leaf burning which had been talked about earlier and recommended by

Landfill concession called 'victory' for residents

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

In what's being called a "double victory" for the citizens of Lake County, a major settlement has been reached with Countryside Landfill near Grayslake to address past overfill and odor violations.

Under the settlement, the landfill operators agree to more than $1.4 million in monetary and environmental concessions, including $80,000 in fines.

The court settlement was reached after months of negotiations between the Illinois Attorney General's Office, Lake County State's Attorney Office and the landfill operators. It was approved by Lake County Circuit Court Judge Wallace B. Dunn on Sept. 30.

"This agreement amounts to a double victory for the citizens of Lake County," Illinois Attorney General Jim Ryan said. "They receive a fair resolution of the allegations in question and the benefit of additional en-

Spangler bring Olympics to Keith Ryan fundraiser

Sports Halls to hold inductions

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

The Olympics are coming to Wadsworth.

Sort of. Gurnee resident Jenny Spangler will be the featured speaker at the 11th annual Keith Ryan Scholarship Fund and Sports Banquet Thursday, Oct. 21 at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth.

The event begins with a reception at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 p.m. The awards program including Spangler's talk, Lake County and Waukegan Sports Hall of Fame induction all follow dinner.

Tickets at $35 each are available by contacting the College of Lake County (CLC) Foundation 543-2488 which serves as host for the event. The public is invited to attend. Proceeds from the evening will be used to present a $1,000 scholarship to a high school senior interested in pursuing a career in broadcast or print journalism.

Lake County athletes to be honored for excellence in athletic competition or making significant contributions to sports will be highlighted during the program.

Included are five former Waukegan High School student-athletes inducted into the Waukegan Lions Club Sports Hall of Fame. They are David Aho, Larry Hanzel, Ed "Minnow" Manojan, Irene (Hukkala) Salata and Mark Tiffany.

Two former student-athletes to be brought into the Lake County High School Sports Hall of Fame are Johnny Johnson Jr. of North Chicago Community High School and Jill (Stamison) McMullen of Lake Forest High School.

The late Keith Ryan was a popular sportscaster on radio and cable television in the Lake County area for nearly a quarter of a century. Ryan worked at WKRS 1220 AM and was instrumental in beginning the local sports coverage on then U.S. Cable of Lake County, now AT&T Cable Television of Northeast Illinois. Ryan served as a volunteer coach at Our Lady of Humility School in Zion and was an avid golfer.

Spangler is training for the 2000 Olympics as a marathon runner. In 1996, Spangler participated in the U.S. Olympic women's marathon in Atlanta, Ga. Employed at Trustmark Insurance Company in Lake Forest, Spangler earned a bachelor's degree in computer science and master's degree in business administration from the University of Iowa.

Earning NCAA Track and Field All-American status in the 10,000-meter run in 1982 and 1983 and cross country All-American in 1983 are among Spangler's college achievements.

In 1984 and 1988, Spangler participated in the U.S. Olympic marathon trials, competing in the 1996 Olympics. Among highlights of her post-collegiate career, Spangler finished first in the 1996 Olympic marathon trials at Columbia, S.C. and second in the 1984 Houston-Tenneco marathon in Texas.

Spangler was inducted into the University of Iowa's Women's Track and Field Hall of Fame in 1987. Spangler is recipient of the Chicago Area Runner's Association Gold Medal Award.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Mundelein—The Village of Mundelein Board is seeking assistance from the county in the Hawley Street Improvement project.

According to officials, the Lake County Division of Transportation (LCDOT) has offered to fund the improvements to Hawley Street. The cost to the village would be approximately $750,000, which is considered "the most significant positive impact," said Phillip Perna, village engineer, in a letter to the village board.

"If we utilize federal and county funds to pay a large portion of the construction costs, the village share is dramatically reduced," said Perna.

The board voted unanimously to send a letter of interest to the LCDOT regarding the project.

Village debates amusement tax

Gurnee—Now that Gurnee's Merit Club has been chosen as the site of the 2000 U.S. Women's Open golf tournament, the village board must choose whether or not to apply the 3 percent amusement tax to the event tickets.

According to Brad Burke, public information director for the village, the golf organization has a non-profit status. The village's amusement tax ordinance does not apply to non-profit organizations, meaning the village could stand to lose out on thousands of dollars in revenue from event ticket sales.

While the ordinance does apply to sports exhibitions, it does not apply to events where proceeds "inure exclusively to the benefit of a public library district or park district, any religious, educational, eleemosynary or charitable institution, society or organization," states the ordinance.

"If it did apply, we'd have to tax organizations like the Warren Township High School football team for providing entertainment," said Burke.

Annual Fright Fest to begin Oct. 9

Gurnee—Ghosts and goblins will be a-haunting at Six Flags Great America when the park's ninth annual Fright Fest begins Oct. 9.

Marking the coming of Fright Fest is Tiny, the 40-foot inflated spider which is placed annually on the American Eagle roller coaster near Interstate 94. The spider was put up on Sept. 30.

A new attraction added for children, Looney Tunes SpookyTown, is sure to provide fun, without the scares. A new haunted house, Alice Cooper's Brutal Planet has been added, joining Sadie's No-Chance Hotel. Additional admission fees are required for the haunted houses.

The park will be open Fridays beginning Oct. 15 from 5 until 11 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m., and Sundays from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Great America will also be open on Columbus Day, Oct. 11, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Fright Fest will end on Oct. 31.

Admission to the event is $39 for adults, and $19.50 for children 48 inches tall and under as well as seniors 60 and better. Children age 2 and under are free.

Armed robbery occurs

Round Lake Beach—The Shell gas station at 1306 Hainesville Road in Round Lake Beach suffered an armed robbery Sept. 28 at approximately 8:05 p.m.

According to police reports, the clerk on-duty said a masked subject came into the store displaying a black handgun and demanded money. The subject took $800 in cash, then fled on foot.

Cencom dispatch reported that at 8:04 p.m., they received a 911 call from a pay phone at the Shell gas station from a male subject stating a bomb was about to go off in 30 minutes at Super Kmart in Round Lake Beach. The threat was unfounded.

Police have taken the audio tape of the phone call and placed it into evidence, believing it was made by the same male who robbed the gas station.

VFW puts time capsule in park

Round Lake Beach—History was preserved in Memorial Park in Round Lake Beach with the burial of a time capsule by VFW Post 9649 and the Ladies Auxiliary.

The capsule, donated by Justen's Funeral Home in

Round Lake, commemorates the 100th anniversary of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

It was placed into the park Sept. 29, to be opened 100 years later on Sept. 29, 2099.

Items in the time capsule include issues of the "Round Lake News," old photographs, books, coins, stamps, maps, videos, an American flag, a POW/MIA flag and the Post's original charter.

Road to be closed

Wadsworth—The Canadian Pacific Rail System will close Wadsworth Road at the railroad crossing in Wadsworth for five days beginning Oct. 11 at 7 a.m.

The railroad crossing closure is necessary to allow the C.P./Soo Line Railroad to complete a crossing rehabilitation, which will include new rails and ties.

The signed detour route for this closure will be U.S. Route 41 (Skokie Highway) to Illinois Route 173 (Rosecrans Road), to Delany Road (County Route W-27).

Ceremony held to bless pets

Wildwood—Big dogs, small dogs, cats wrapped in blankets and even a guinea pig named Cinnamon gathered with their loving owners at the Wildwood Presbyterian Church on October 3 despite the pouring rain.

The service took place in the church gym in honor of the feast day of Saint Francis, the lover of all animals.

Megan Gregory, 17, and the "founding mother" of the blessing of the animals, yanked on Pastor Greg Bostrom's robe when she was very young and asked Bostrom if he would bless her dog.

The service consisted of a rap for the animals which required group involvement and prayers for all creatures wild and domesticated.

The service was concluded with individual animal blessings given by Bostrom, beginning with the most anxious pets.

Thousands attend Oktoberfest

Libertyville—The MainStreet Association's Oktoberfest drew thousands of people to the Libertyville train station on Oct. 2.

Despite the chill of the evening air, people milled around tables covered with silent auction items. Among the silent auction items were a tour of Frank Lloyd Wright's Robie House and a $100 gift certificate to Trattoria Pomagiano with a bottle of 1996 Nipozzano wine.

A framed collection of vintage Libertyville postcards was going for $120 at 7:30 p.m., with plenty of time left for further bidding.

Grant High weighs referendum

Fox Lake—Grant High School officials will be seeking community input for a possible referendum-funded building addition.

The response of the community may be a key factor if the Fox Lake school puts an issue on a future ballot.

"What we are trying to do is of there needs to be a referendum. This cannot happen without them," board president Kimberly Schnoor said. "We need community involvement. This is a very preliminary presentation."

The district's architect, Teng & Associates, determined there is enough land at the present site for an addition.

Senior housing plan proposed

Wauconda—Wauconda's senior citizens desire an affordable place to live.

The village would like to oblige with a senior citizen housing complex. Details are coming forward from Varga and Associates, who presented their plans to the village board and interested senior citizens.

Liberty Arms is the name for the proposed development. It would contain 102 units, spread over three buildings and be one or two bedrooms.

The Village would manage the property, or hire an outside firm to do so such as the landscaping, snowplowing, etc. The subject of rents came up at the Oct. 5 board meeting.

"It depends how the bids come in, but rents could be low. They would depend on how much income you make. We do not want to make money on the project. That is one thing we do not want to do. If the bids come in low, the rents will be low," Wauconda Mayor James Eschenbauch said.

Safety information provided

Libertyville—State Rep. Andrea Moore (Rep.) is providing parents, teachers and students with information that may save lives.

The recent rash of violence in schools prompted Moore to create her "School Safety" brochure.

"The information in this brochure will help those closest to students—their parents, teachers and friends—detect a potential problem in time to prevent it from escalating into violence," said Moore.

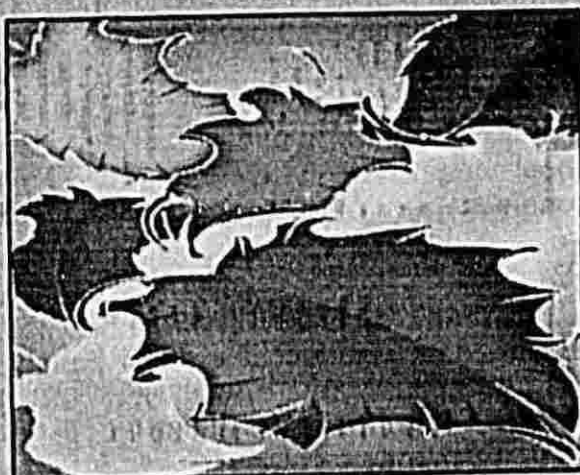

School safety tips and warning signs in the brochure were provided by the American Psychological Association and the U.S. Department of Education. The free brochure also contains tips on how to prevent violence.

Open not amused by amusement tax

So many village councils these days are imbued with the "money mentality" where everything carries a price tag. The directly levied municipal tax is only one of a number of revenue sources. Gurnee, one of the more zealous municipalities in the quest for revenue stream expansion, is now facing a knot problem because of aggressiveness.

The problem is the collision between Gurnee's three percent amusement tax and the not-for-profit status of the host U.S. Golf Assn. and Merit Club, where the U.S. Women's Open will be played next year. Tourney officials have informed the village the event, expected to attract 125,000 spectators for three days of big time golf, is exempt from the Gurnee amusement tax.

The association's stand puts the expected $112,500 windfall from the amusement tax in limbo. Trustee David O'Brien was quick to take an assertive stand, insisting that Gurnee not refrain from getting its cut of the tournament swag. O'Brien is unfazed by not-for-profit status, pointing out that professional golf is "big money." True, but major sports events also are "big money" for local merchants. While difficult to quantify, prestige professional golf is also worth a great deal for projecting an upscale image and obtaining positive public relations. Might not Gurnee officials have given this a thought when they grabbed Merit Club a few years ago in an annexation move?

There probably are 5,000 communities in the U.S. with golf courses that would unroll the red carpet for the Women's Open, no questions asked. Trustee Donald Rudny is more restrained, suggesting that Gurnee "discuss" with tournament directors reimbursement for extraordinary costs.

With or without an amusement tax, the Women's Open will be played. It would be a shame if a cloud of greed hangs over Merit Club come July 20-23. We hope the tax rhubarb can be solved amicably so there's no lingering sour taste for sponsors about Gurnee after the coveted, long-awaited and acclaimed women's sports event is concluded.

New water fees to insure progress

A new fee schedule going in effect next year will provide the Fox Water Agency an estimated $500,000 in new revenue. The increase will insure that the non-tax supported agency continues to move forward in fulfilling its mission of improving water quality and safety on one of the nation's busiest waterways.

The agency is a gold star example of user fee funding. A total of $925,000 from an annual budget of $1.2 million is raised from stickers purchased by boaters based on the size of the watercraft they own. The remaining budget is made up of income from motor fuel taxes and state grants.

Most of the carping about the new FYI 2000 rates is coming from people who can most afford to pay more, owners of craft of 30 or more feet who will pay $40 more or $120 per year. By far the largest percentage of boat owners, including owners of personal watercraft, will be raised from $40 to $60. That's still a big bargain for a summer of fun on the water.

The agency is getting better all the time at what it does, basically channel dredging and cleaning up debris that constitute an impediment to safe boating. One major expense is acquiring environmentally approved containment sites for dredged material. The agency, in fact, is employing state-of-the-art techniques for storage.

The Fox River and Chain O' Lakes in west Lake County still is the midwest's "boulevard" for pleasure boating. Maintaining safety standards and constantly improving water quality for 1 million boaters and residents of the waterway system just doesn't happen. It takes money. More all the time, to be sure.

VIEWPOINT

Troubled mom triggers dismay

Joan Fiorito, 55, struggling to find proper care for her 77-year-old mother who suffers from clinical depression, is frustrated and disillusioned with the maze of public agencies designed to provide care for needy senior citizens.

"It's a nightmare," exclaimed Fiorito of her encounters with the multi-layered bureaucracy in place in Lake County to provide care and comfort for citizens in their declining years. The spiderweb is draining her emotions, which range from anger to disillusionment.

Fiorito, who supports herself with a day job and an at-home business, says she has lost respect for representatives of Lake County Mental Health and several other agencies she has contacted.

"I don't think they care. Sometimes I get laughed at," remarked the Fox Lake resident who returned to the county from California four years ago. Fiorito's mother lives alone in a subsidized apartment in Antioch, getting along on a Social Security payment of $853 per month. The elderly woman has been widowed for 30 years.

Fiorito says her mother frequently becomes suicidal, such is the depth of her depression. The troubled woman was so distraught she couldn't bring herself to attend her grandson's wedding last weekend.

Describing agency aides as callous and indifferent would be a compliment, Fiorito declared ruefully. What is disturbing, said Fiorito, is the casual attitude of agency personnel. One suggested remedy was "peer group" participation described by Fiorito as association with drug addicts and alcoholics.

"My mother doesn't belong in an environment like that," Fiorito remarked heatedly.

Asked about support from family and relatives, Fiorito explained, "I'm it. With my work and all, I do the shopping for my mother and I look in on her as often as I can." Fiorito says she has two brothers in Chicago who are estranged from their mother.

Fiorito said elected officials offer sympathy and referrals. In her opinion, though, dealing with social agencies boils down to getting "jock-eyed around." The anxious daughter said she turned to this column with the story of her mother's plight in hopes of opening new doors. Will anyone else listen to Joan Fiorito? We shall see.

Notable names

When retired Regional School Supt. William "Bill" Thompson, 74, cut the ribbon at dedicatory ceremonies at a new elementary school in Lake Villa named in his honor, he described his awe at joining distinguished predecessors. B.J. Hooper School was named for a local pharmacist and long-time school board official Bill said he knew from boyhood.

"I was 45 years old before I called him Bert."

Pleviak School honors Joe Pleviak, who came to Lake Villa from Pennsylvania as a math teacher, later becoming township assessor and a community leader standing for education excellence.

"Joe got a good return from the schools. He had nine children," the honored educator noted.

Thompson recognized Dr. Peter Palombi, retired superintendent, for whom Palombi School is named. Thompson recalled, "Pete served during tough financial times. He solved money problems."

Lake Villa leaders follow a school naming practice worth noting. A school naming is a tribute, not a monument.

Second century

Now that Lake Forest Hospital has started its second century, members of the Women's Auxiliary Board will have time to consider whether a traditional black-tie evening will be in order for major fund-raising. This year, the group staged an informal family-oriented event in two tents that was well received. Lake Forest Hospital, drawing patients for many years from all over Lake County, was founded in 1899 as Alice Home to serve Lake Forest residents. The current core building was erected at its present location in 1942.

Plating progress

Sec. of State Jesse White let everyone get in the act of selecting a new Illinois license plate design, but you won't see the new plate until 2001 when re-plating of 8.5 million standard passenger vehicles will begin in a 12-month period. In case you missed White's announcement, the top choice was a blue background with Abraham Lincoln's likeness in the middle of the plate, "Illinois" spelled in script at the top, and the slogan "Land of Lincoln" at the bottom. Numbers and letters are in red.

Squirrel bait

There are ways to get rid of obnoxious squirrels, but a method this column passed along last week isn't one of them. Use of poison peanuts is a Class C misdemeanor. Authority for this information is Dr. David Bromwell, head of the Illinois Dept. of Agriculture. Dr. Bromwell said his Springfield phone was ringing lively with protests from squirrel lovers in Lake County who read this column. Makes no difference that squirrels are rodents, first cousins to rats. Dr. Bromwell said the bushy-tailed pests are protected by animal control legislation. As head of the agriculture department, Dr. Bromwell is administrator of the Humane Care of Animals Act. Poisoning is strictly prohibited—except where disease control is a factor.

One man's family

Mornings are tug-o-war time for new puppy, Sadie, who delights in grabbing the toe of you-know-whose sock. While the sock wearer pulls in one direction, the puppy tugs the opposite way. Oh well, fighting over a sock is better than having puppy teeth clamp down on a big toe.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

High court race to pivot in Lake County

Lake County is being looked upon as a potent source of votes by three DuPage County jurists seeking election in 2000 to the Illinois Supreme Court to fill the 2nd Judicial District seat open due to the retirement of Justice John L. Nickels.

The theory is that the aspirants from DuPage will cancel each other out on their home turf. Victory will turn on how well they do in other areas. Lake has the second most Republican votes in the district.

One of the candidates, Circuit Judge Bonnie Wheaton of Wheaton, already has launched an extensive mail campaign in Lake County. Wheaton is related by marriage to the founding family of her hometown. Her late husband was Ralph Wheaton III who died in 1994 from cancer.

Another candidate is banking heavily on name recognition. He is Judge Bob Thomas, who was known as the kicker for the Chicago Bears before elected a judge. The third candidate is Justice Louis Rathje, who was appointed to fill the Nickels vacancy.

Unknown gets call

Republicans unveiled their challenger Tuesday for hard-charging State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest). She is Cesille Price of

Wheaton:
DuPage County judge depends on Lake County

Lake Forest, an activist for quality education and the wife of a Nordstrom executive. Although unknown and untested, Price fills the bill for what one GOP spokesperson said was a vital consideration, "community service, not political service."

LaBelle foe

Winthrop Harbor Village Trustee Ron Colangelo isn't tiptoeing his way up the elective ladder. Colangelo has announced that he's out to unseat County Board Chairman Jim LaBelle who was elected from the 4th District. LaBelle, who is one of eight County Board members whose terms expire next year, has brought a new era of understanding

LaBelle:
Even minded; has serious challenge and cooperation to county government after a decade of turbulence.

Ryan returning

Attorney Gen. Jim Ryan will be making his third appearance in Lake County within a month when he addresses the Legislative Breakfast Club at 7:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 22 at Condell Conference Center. Ryan keynoted the annual meeting of the Lake County Republican Federation in mid-September. The breakfast meeting is sponsored quarterly by State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville). Membership is required for attendance. The AG also helped Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) greet visitors last week at a Geo-Karis fund-raiser. Ryan told Party Lines that he's a fan of the good Republican climate in Lake County.

Music in the air

Must be the air in Zion. Or something. Elected officials seem to be born musicians. Truman Hudson, supervisor of Zion Township, was in rare form on trumpet at a GOP fund shindig. Then Zion Mayor Lane Harrison took the microphone at the same event and belted out a popular show tune in a baritone that rattled the rafters. Hudson was pleased with Harrison's vocal style. "He's a former student of mine," exclaimed the jovial supervisor who is a retired bandmaster at Warren High.

New Route 53 'point'

State Rep. Sidney Mathias (R-Buffalo Grove) has assumed the job of political point man for Route 53 in the Lake County delegation in the General Assembly. The role once was held by former State Rep. Robert Churchill before he declined to run for re-election in 1998. Mathias, who professes to have keen interest in the controversial tollway plan since serving as a Buffalo Grove councilman and later as mayor, intends to plead the case for Route 53 directly to Gov. George Ryan, no longer a tollway fan.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

A precious pet is getting old

A horse walked into a tavern and sat down. The bartender looked at the horse and asked, "Why the long face?"

I guess that nice old joke could be applied to our 11-year-old dog, whose name is Monday. He has good reason for a long face, besides his collie features.

Monday lost his eyesight the other day. It happened suddenly; he began bumping into furniture, slipping while negotiating the porch steps and becoming completely dependent on our guidance once out in the yard or on his walks.

Janice and I have become seeing-eye people.

Monday can't make it upstairs where he likes to sleep with us, so one of us stays down with him. He can't find his water dish, so we keep making sure he has water and ice cubes near his paws.

Our wonderful local veterinarian (Monday's longtime friend) and an animal eye specialist in Wheeling are working to pinpoint what caused the blindness. We'll know soon.

When this happens to your precious pet it's surprising how many people say they have been there and done that, or currently are coping with something similar as their pet nears the end of the road.

One couple's little dog, long part of the family, has lost its hearing. He still goes out in the yard but can't hear when he is called or whistled to come in. Can't hear his "mommy" or "daddy's" voice at all.

Tugs at the heart.

Our Monday's age, 11, would be equivalent to 60 years in humans. Here's how it's figured: The first year of a dog's life is equal to 15 in a human's. The second year is the equivalent of nine more years of human age, making the dog 24 years old. After that each year equals four more years of human life. Normally, the smaller the dog the longer its life. So when a pup has been with its owner for 16 years its age would be equivalent to an 80-year-old human.

Older dogs seldom live that long.

Yes, Monday is a peculiar name for a dog. After our first dog, Sunday, died, we got Monday in 1988 for $50 from a nice lady in Park City. Her female dog had a sizable litter and she wasn't giving away the puppies free because she figured someone who would spend $50 perhaps at least cared enough to provide a good home.

Well, our 11 years with Monday have been nothing but loving. Janice went along with my whim to call him Monday even though she preferred Wolfgang.

Maybe next time.

I wrote about Monday when we got him, how frisky and fun-loving he was. How excited he was when we arrived home from work or elsewhere. How he and our cat, 14-year-old Baxter, whose comfortable domain he disturbed, would skirmish Muhammad Ali fashion, the playful puppy floating like a butterfly and the highly hissed cat stinging like a bee.

But they soon became best buddies, for seven years until Baxter passed away peacefully at 21.

As actor Cary Grant once said, we all should be lucky enough to grow old gracefully and die with dignity.

Wetlands mitigation—is all wet

A recent news article regarding the leveling of some trees in the county's forest preserve was very disturbing to me. It is bad enough, as County Commissioner Al Westerman (R-Waukegan) said, that thousands of trees in the 23-acre site "might be at stake," it's a new concept of wetlands restoration that is even more horrifying.

Wetlands Research, Inc. is a non-profit agency and it has developed what many have called a model artificial wetlands restoration project within 500 acres of forest preserve property near Wadsworth. The re-creation of wetlands in such an area has been a worthwhile goal supported by just about everyone.

Don Hey is director of Wetlands Research, and I came to know him when I was chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. We were always eager to provide state funds and local congressmen approved federal funds to cooperate with the project. The Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project has been widely acclaimed for "bringing back" wetlands.

The disturbing thing is that about five years ago Wetlands Inc. began to allow developers, who are destroying natural wetlands for their developments, to "buy wetlands credit" for artificial wetlands created in the forest preserve. This matter of wetlands mitigation, where developers can destroy wetlands as long as they can create "new wetlands" has always been a source of irritation to me, but this latest scheme is carrying it to a ridiculous extreme.

SEEING IT THROUGH

When Don Hey commented on the procedure, he said that the price to developers for this form of wetlands mitigation is $60,000 an acre, and he said it's "serious business." By that, I guess he meant that "it's all about money."

In my mind, it is serious business, too, but for different reasons. As a taxpayer, I do not believe that forest preserve property owned by us taxpayers should be used as a "wetlands bank" to bail out developers who are destroying our natural wetlands in the county.

Now that the "secret" is out on what is happening, I hope that the county board will take a hard look at the procedure.

It isn't only the county board that should get involved in this issue. Area lawmakers, as well as environmentalists and anyone who is interested in maintaining the quality of life in Lake County, should be alarmed.

Legislators should re-examine this whole matter of wetlands mitigation. This wetlands mitigation scheme in a forest preserve is one thing, and we should address it. But, I read recently that "wetlands land banking" on private lands is getting to be "big business."

What is happening is that private persons are going into the wetlands-banking business, buying up wetlands that they then sell to developers who use the property as wetlands mitigation to compensate for wetlands that they have destroyed. Correct me if I am wrong. You can't legally build on wetlands. Yet, you can sell those wetlands to a developer who then uses them as a "credit," or wetland mitigation, for other wetlands that the developer has destroyed. Isn't there something wrong with that process?

It seems that "smart growth" has become a political issue these days. For those who are championing that rightful cause, they should look into the harm that is being done to the environment with this "wetlands mitigation" matter. We are losing natural wetlands at a "fast clip" and the phony policy of wetlands mitigation is being used to help developers destroy our natural resources.

In Lake County, the Des Plaines River project should continue to do what it was set out to do and that is recreate wetlands and to do wetlands research. For it to "quarterback" for developers who are destroying natural wetlands makes everything it does as suspect, and it should "get out of that part of the business."

I am sure that legislators have not been aware of the "wetland banking" at the project. Hopefully, they will not commit taxpayer funds to the demonstration project until that procedure has been discontinued.

Lake County Commissioners Westerman, Martha Marks and Sandy Coles should be commended for speaking out and exposing the wetland-banking scheme. Now, it's up to the rest of the board to put their foot down.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

School should not create bargaining chip for other unions

I hope, for the good of all members of the community, that the Lake Villa Grade School District reaches agreement on a teachers contract without a strike. Striking is extremely destructive to students, parents, teachers and administration. The hard feelings linger for years.

Certainly, there are times when a strike is justified, when wages and working conditions are simply unacceptable. Oftentimes, press reports cite contractual issues aside from salaries. In this instance, money has been the only thing mentioned.

When the union is asking for a 23 percent salary increase over the next three years, some justification should be offered. The current salary schedule is a bit lower than some neighboring districts, but not out of line for the area (Let's not compare to Libertyville). I've not heard that the board is asking for an increase in hours or a change in working conditions. Inflation is at a very tame 1 to 3 percent, not 8 percent.

The only justification in accounts that I've read is that the tax base is expanding by leaps and bounds. Indeed it is, and that growth is producing many more students. A prudent district does not distribute that income to existing staff in the form of excessive raises, they use it to employ more teachers and keep class sizes from expanding to unreasonable levels.

Every time a bargaining unit is successful in negotiating a large increase, teachers in neighboring districts use it as a precedent to press for a similar increase. A salary schedule of $24,000 to $60,000 for 185 days of work (many teachers hold summer jobs too) is neither too low nor too high for the education required and the work that is performed. I hope that the board and the teachers are able to avoid a strike and come to agreement on a reasonable increase that serves the employees, students and taxpayers well.

HOW TO PLAY

Select a winner from each of the week's games, listed below. Select in descending order of your CONFIDENCE in your choices. Win points at left for each correct selection toward possible total of 136 points. See complete rules below. You must be at least 8 (eight) years old to enter. To enter, clip along dotted line, then place game entry in POWER POINTS container at co-sponsor's retail outlet(s). Entrants must list name, address and phone number below.

LIMIT: You may enter only once weekly.

DEADLINE: NOON FRIDAY

TIEBREAKER 1 ☐ Total points scored (both teams) in BEARS game.
TIEBREAKER 2 ☐ Total offensive yards (both teams) in this game.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Carolina at San Francisco	Pittsburgh at Cincinnati
Cleveland at Jacksonville	St. Louis at Atlanta
Green Bay at Denver	Seattle at San Diego
Indianapolis at NY Jets	Tennessee at New Orleans
Miami at New England	Washington at Arizona
Minnesota at Detroit	Ohio State at Penn State
Oakland at Buffalo	Minn. GOPHERS at Illinois
Philadelphia at Chicago	Michigan State at Purdue

POWER POINTS OFFICIAL RULES

- Object of the game is to amass as many of the 136 points as you can. Simply review the week's schedule of games, listed on entry form, and decide which game you are SUREST of picking a winner in. Write the name of your projected winner on the 16-point line. If that team wins its game that week, you win 16 points. Write the name of your second-surest winner on the 15-point line, and so on down to the 1-point line, which game you figure to be a toss-up. Next, fill in Tiebreaker 1, the total points scored by both teams in the week's designated game. If this step fails to produce a winner, the judges will apply Tiebreaker 2, total offensive yardage from scrimmage in this game. If a winner still doesn't emerge, a drawing will be held among those contestants still tied. Decisions of the judges are final. The weekly statewide winner of the contest will receive $1,000.
- Any entry form that does not contain a legible name, address, etc., will be disqualified.
- Entries that fail to forecast a winner from each and every game will be disqualified, as will entries that fail to distinguish between the Jets and Giants of New York and other similar teams.
- No points are awarded on tie games or in case any game is not played for any reason during its scheduled week.
- Entering POWER POINTS constitutes permission by contestant for his or her name and photograph to be used for news and reasonable promotional purposes at no charge.
- Employees of this newspaper and their immediate families are ineligible to participate.
- Any inquiry about or protest of weekly results must be made by noon on the Friday following the announcement of winners.
- No purchase necessary. Facsimile game entry forms will be accepted. Enter contest by dropping entry form into POWER POINTS container at participating co-sponsors.
- Weekly deadline for entry will be noon, Fridays except when noted otherwise on weekly entry form.
- Neither this newspaper nor any co-sponsor will be responsible for illegible entry forms or those lost, stolen or damaged in any way.
- Limit one entry per person per week. Each entry must represent the original work of one entrant; "group" entries, "systems" or other attempts to enter multiple entries will be disqualified. Filling out extra forms and putting your friends' and relatives' names on them violates this rule. Any such entries are destroyed prior to grading.
- Contestants must have reached the age of eight (8) years by the Sunday of any week's play.

FOOD: Inspection supported from health officials but from many restaurateurs.

That's because the program in Lake County is different. Unlike health departments in other jurisdictions, whose main purpose is to punish violators, Lake County's health department works to educate establishments on ways to prevent food-borne outbreaks.

About five years ago, a revised food inspection ordinance was adopted by the Lake County Board. In a departure from past practice, the health department discontinued its former practice of periodic surprise inspections. Now, regular inspections of restaurants are pre-announced—and by appointment.

It was a dramatic change, but one county health officials and many restaurant owners believe has worked.

Thaddeus Koeune, food program coordinator for Lake County and Lake Villa regional supervisor, said the main thing the department is trying to do is educate restaurants about how to prevent food borne illness and protect the public.

"The main goal of any food (inspection) program is to prevent illness and to protect the public health. One of the ways you accomplish that is by increased education, and that's why we push that education," said Koeune.

Koeune said the data to date has shown the program has been very successful.

Since the program was started, there has been a reduction in the number of food borne outbreaks, as well as major health violations such as food temperature (heating or cooling) violations or cross contamination of food, he said.

In addition, all of the workers who prepare food are tested regularly to improve their knowledge of food handling and preparation in order to prevent food borne outbreaks.

"In the past five years, we've educated more than 40,000 food (service) workers in Lake County," said Koeune.

Darlene Boettin, associate sanitarian for Avon Township, regularly inspects 287 facilities in Grayslake, Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Park, Hainesville, and Round Lake Heights.

Sixty three of those are classified as Category 3 facilities, meaning they fall in a high risk category. This generally applies to most restaurants, with the exception of fast food chains which have a large number of pre-packaged items.

Regular inspections of Class 3 facilities are done three times a year. Although the inspections are announced, the process of inspecting isn't much different than in the past.

Boettin checks the facility for any health violations, such as food temperature violations, cockroaches or insects in the establishment, cross contamination of foods, poor hygiene practices and other potential health violations.

Restaurants then must correct the violations, either immediately during the inspection or within a specific period of time granted by the inspector.

Boettin said in most cases the restaurants are cooperative.

BURNING: County considers a partial leaf burning ban the Lake County Administrator's Office.

Instead, leaf burning would be restricted to Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., during the burning months. A ban would be in effect during the months of June, July and August.

Nixon said she thinks the leaf burning restrictions were a good compromise, and most of the committee members, including Sandy Cole, agree.

Cole, who is asthmatic, had originally supported a total ban on leaf burning because of the health and environmental hazards associated with smoke from burning leaves. She said there are many people with respiratory problems like asthma and emphysema, who "suffer" who the smoke caused by leaf burning.

However, she said the committee did take into account the concerns of people in the unincorporated areas who feel a need to burn. That's why the committee recommended restricted burning to certain times, instead of an outright ban.

"It was a compromise certainly, and we can at least start moving forward as a county to address the health issue," she said.

But one board member fears restricting leaf burning to certain times will only create more confusion for residents.

"How are you going to control that? That's my first question," asked County Board member Judy Martini (R-Antioch).

Martini said she is concerned how a ban or restrictions on leaf burning would be enforced, when sheriff's deputies already have more pressing and important responsibilities such as fighting crime.

"I think the sheriff's department's got better things to do than be the leaf police," she said.

Martini encourages residents who are concerned about the proposed restrictions to contact their County Board representatives or attend the upcoming board meeting.

"I think this is going to create a hardship on people. I really do. Unless we have alternatives in place, we're just going to create another problem," she said.

"I rarely have any facility that isn't willing to do what code says. It just has to do with educating them to make the changes," she said.

At the end of the inspection, food preparers in the restaurant are given a test to ensure they are familiar with all the food guidelines and regulations. In many cases, Boettin said the restaurant may be unaware a violation even exists.

"Most are willing to correct the violations while you're there or in the time frame you've given them," she said.

Although the primary focus of the health department's food program is on education, that does not mean the department has become lax on enforcement, according to health officials. The department's regular inspections are supplemented by surprise inspections in cases when there are customer complaints or if serious violations are found during a routine visit.

In rare cases, a restaurant's food license can be revoked if repeated violations are found at the establishment. In September, Olivers Grill and Bar in Grayslake became the first food establishment in Lake County to have its license revoked this year.

"Our job is to make sure the public is being protected by our inspections. I believe we have a strong enforcement program," Koeune said.

However, Koeune said revocation of a license is a last resort, and in most cases, the problems can be worked out between the health department and the restaurant owner.

"It's a partnership and that's what we're trying to forge in this county is a partnership with the food service industry (to prevent food borne illnesses). I think it's been extremely successful," he said.

In general, that partnership is getting high marks from the food service industry. The Lake County chapter of the Illinois Restaurant Association has supported the new food inspection program, and this summer, the health department was awarded the national Samuel J. Crumline Award, a prestigious industry award for its unique approach to food inspection.

TOBACCO: County seeks funds people in Lake County.

Health departments in different parts of the state are seeking $30 million a year—a total of $150 million over five years—to expand health services for the uninsured. Lake County, in particular, is seeking $8.6 million a year in tobacco settlement money to expand health care services locally.

Dale Galassie, executive director of the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center, said the problems facing the uninsured in Lake County aren't going to be solved by the state or federal government.

"The solution to the problem facing the uninsured in Lake County requires a Lake County solution," said Dale Galassie, executive director of the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center. "I think we have come up with a solution and I think it will work."

Utilizing a portion of the tobacco settlement proceeds, the health department would be able to expand the hours of operation at its community health clinics across the county. The health department operates clinics in Waukegan, Round Lake Park, North Chicago and Zion.

The health department would expand its hours of service with an additional 48 hours a week of pediatrics, family practice and internal medicine, and 25 hours of obstetrics. The clinics would be open from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m., seven days a week.

Galassie said with the expanded hours, the department will be better able to serve the needs of the growing uninsured and underinsured population of Lake County. National statistics show more than 41 million Americans are uninsured, nearly 18 percent of the country's total population.

In Lake County, an estimated 67,000 are uninsured, and health department statistics indicate the number is rising rapidly.

Galassie said there is a "gross misperception" that the uninsured are primarily people on welfare those who don't want to work.

"The overwhelming majority of these people are working. Many of them are the working poor, working three jobs to stay off welfare. Not having access to health care is a significant problem for them, as well as their employers," he said.

LANDFILL: Will do clean-up

Environmental cleanup projects that will be paid privately, not with tax dollars.

The agreement settles allegations that Countryside Landfill, located on Illinois Route 83 about one mile south of Route 120, had at some time before September 1998 dumped 795,000 cubic yards of waste into the landfill without first installing a waterproof liner to prevent leaching of liquids into the ground water. The attorney general's office and state's attorney's office got involved at the request of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and Lake County Health Department.

Countryside is also alleged to have deposited about 100,000 cubic yards of waste in an area above the landfill's permitted height elevations. Many nearby residents have also complained about odor problems emanating from the landfill.

Under the settlement, Countryside Landfill, Inc. will agree to buy the Edco Landfill, a separate and closed landfill adjacent to the existing landfill, and clean up the site. The estimated cost of the project is $1.4 million. Assistant Attorney General Bernard Murphy said the old landfill closed several years ago, but the previous owners never completed the site remediation of the property.

"We don't know what's in there. There's the potential for some pretty nasty stuff there," he said.

In addition to acquiring the old landfill and completing the environmental cleanup, Countryside Landfill also must pay a $70,000 fine to the state's Environmental Protection Trust Fund for violation of its Illinois Environmental Protection Agency permits. It also must pay $10,000 to Lake County for odor violations.

The company will also agree to provide $100,000 in funding for at least one household hazardous waste collection event, for the benefit of the residents of Lake County.

Murphy said the state and county felt the settlement was a better option than pursuing litigation against the landfill because they would otherwise not have been able to achieve the cleanup of the Edco landfill or to provide the household hazardous waste collection for residents.

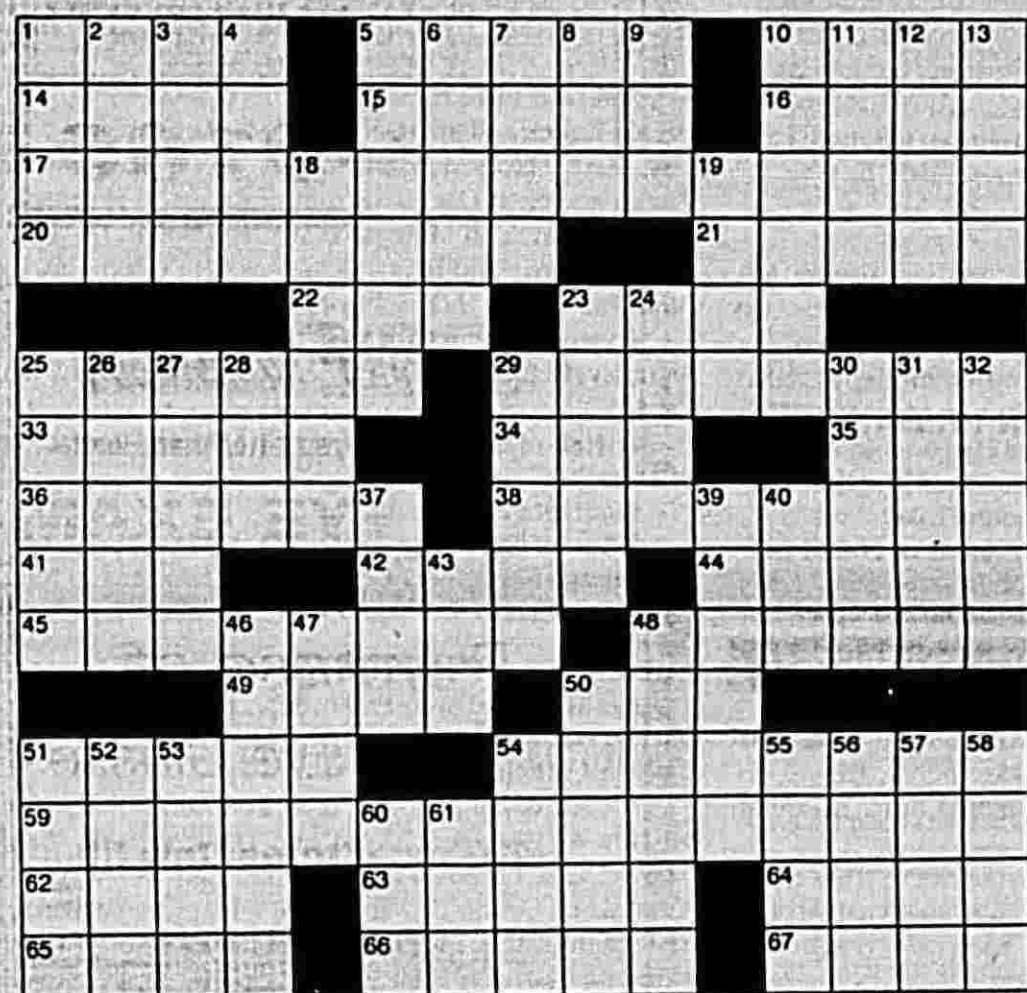

Lake County Assistant State's Attorney Mitch Hoffman agrees the settlement is "very good" for the county.

"Instead of providing for one large fine that goes into a statewide environmental fund, this provides for substantial environmental remediation projects that will directly benefit people of Lake County," he said. "We view it as being very positive and a good result in our view."

Quarterly topographical surveys will be done to ensure the landfill follows the court order.

According to prepared statement by Waste Management, the company identified in August 1998 that waste was disposed of at the site above its permitted contour elevations. The company notified state and county officials at the time and took steps to remediate the overfill without relocating waste. The facility is now in compliance with all the height elevation requirements, the statement says.

Marie Swiss, Secretary

Section 4. All unexpended balances of proceeds received annually from public library taxes not in excess of statutory limits may be transferred to the Special Reserve Fund, heretofore established according to 75 ILCS 16/40-50, pursuant to plans developed and adopted by this Board, and said unexpended balances shall be accumulated in this fund for the purposes of erecting a building to be used as a library or to purchase a site for the same, or to purchase a building, or to repair, remodel or improve an existing library building, or to build an addition thereto, to furnish necessary equipment therefore, to acquire library materials such as books, periodicals, films, recordings and electronic data storage and retrieval facilities in connection with either the purchase or construction of a new library building or the expansion of an existing library building, or for the emergency expenditures for the repair of an existing library building or its equipment, or to do any or all of these things.

Section 5. Except as otherwise provided by law, no further appropriations shall be made at any other time within such fiscal year, provided that this Board may from time to time make transfers between the various items in any fund, or appropriations in excess of those authorized by the budget in order to meet an immediate and unforeseen emergency by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of all of the trustees, as provided by 75 ILCS 16/30-85, et seq.; provided that nothing in this section shall be construed to permit transfer between funds required by law to be kept separate. Any remaining balances after the close of the fiscal year shall be available until August 30th for the authorization of payment of obligations incurred prior to the close of the fiscal year, and until September 30th for the payment of such obligations or for the transfer of unexpended balances thereof to be accumulated, as provided by 75 ILCS 16/30-90.

Section 6. Pursuant to 75 ILCS 16/35-5, et seq. there has been established a "Building and Equipment .02% Fund", as set forth in the ordinance of the corporate authority of this Library which has been published in full in a local newspaper when passed, and said fund being for the purchase of sites and buildings, for the construction and equipment of buildings, for the rental of buildings required for library purposes and for the maintenance, repairs and alteration of library buildings and equipment. Any expenditures of these funds from this special fund shall be limited solely to the purposes set forth in the statute, or such other purposes as set forth in said statute as may be from time to time provided by amendment.

Section 7. This Board hereby certifies that all applicable provisions of 35 ILCS 215/1, et seq., as amended, ("The Illinois Truth-in-Taxation Statute") have been complied with.

Section 8. This ordinance is passed pursuant to statutory authority and the Illinois Public Library District Act, 75 ILCS 06/35-5(b) et seq., 16/30-85 et seq., and Para. 16/40-50 et seq.; the Illinois Municipal Budget Law, 50 ILCS 330/1 et seq.; and the Illinois Revenue Code, 35 ILCS 205/157, et seq., and other statutes here-

Marie Swiss, Secretary

Section 4. All unexpended balances of proceeds received annually from public library taxes not in excess of statutory limits may be transferred to the Special Reserve Fund, heretofore established according to 75 ILCS 16/40-50, pursuant to plans developed and adopted by this Board, and said unexpended balances shall be accumulated in this fund for the purposes of erecting a building to be used as a library or to purchase a site for the same, or to purchase a building, or to repair, remodel or improve an existing library building, or to build an addition thereto, to furnish necessary equipment therefore, to acquire library materials such as books, periodicals, films, recordings and electronic data storage and retrieval facilities in connection with either the purchase or construction of a new library building or the expansion of an existing library building, or for the emergency expenditures for the repair of an existing library building or its equipment, or to do any or all of these things.

Section 5. Except as otherwise provided by law, no further appropriations shall be made at any other time within such fiscal year, provided that this Board may from time to time make transfers between the various items in any fund, or appropriations in excess of those authorized by the budget in order to meet an immediate and unforeseen emergency by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of all of the trustees, as provided by 75 ILCS 16/30-85, et seq; provided that nothing in this section shall be construed to permit transfer between funds required by law to be kept separate. Any remaining balances after the close of the fiscal year shall be available until August 30th for the authorization of payment of obligations incurred prior to the close of the fiscal year, and until September 30th for the payment of such obligations or for the transfer of unexpended balances thereof to be accumulated, as provided by 75 ILCS 16/30-90.

Section 6. Pursuant to 75 ILCS 16/35-5, et seq, there has been established a "Building and Equipment .02% Fund", as set forth in the ordinance of the corporate authority of this Library which has been published in full in a local newspaper when passed, and said fund being for the purchase of sites and buildings, for the construction and equipment of buildings, for the rental of buildings required for library purposes and for the maintenance, repairs and alteration of library buildings and equipment. Any expenditures of these funds from this special fund shall be limited solely to the purposes set forth in the statute, or such other purposes as set forth in said statute as may be from time to time provided by amendment.

Section 7. This Board hereby certifies that all applicable provisions of 35 ILCS 215/1, et seq., as amended, ("The Illinois Truth-in-Taxation Statute") have been complied with.

Section 8. This ordinance is passed pursuant to statutory authority and the Illinois Public Library District Act, 75 ILCS 06/35-5(b) et seq., 16/30-85 et seq., and Para. 16/40-50 et seq.; the Illinois Municipal Budget Law, 50 ILCS 330/1 et seq.; and the Illinois Revenue Code, 35 ILCS 205/157, et seq., and other statutes here-
